PARIS FEARS DEBACLE IN ITALY

FIVE CITIES BID FOR CONVENTION OF DEMOCRATS

Choice Will Be Made on Jan. 8.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—While indications were multiplying that Chicago is up against a hard fight to get both or even one of the national political conventions, Postmaster General Farley in his capacity of Democratic national chairman announced today that the Democratic national committee will meet in Washington Jan. 8 to make arrangements for the party convention.

Mr. Farley said that the principal bidders for the Democratic convention will be Chicago, Philadelphia, Kansas City, St. Louis, and San Francisco. He denied that Philadelphia had been settled upon and opined that the convention would go to the highest bidder, providing the city has an adequate convention hall and facilities for caring for the delegates.

Chicago 1932 Bid $200,000.

Chicago got the 1932 Democratic convention with a bid of $200,000 which the late Mayor Cermak raised to $250,000 on his own responsibility, raising the additional $50,000 as a contribution to the Democratic campaign fund. Chicago usually does not go beyond a guarantee to pay the expenses of the convention, but the Democrats invariably require, in addition, a contribution to campaign expenses.

An aggressive competitor of Chicago for the Republican convention is Cleveland, which is understood to be prepared to accompany its bid with a certified check for $150,000. Cleveland has an auditorium seating 17,000 Kansas City will be another bidder and still another is St. Louis. There is considerable opposition on the part of anti-Landon Republicans to holding the convention in Kansas City and of anti-Knox elements to going to Chicago. The Republican national committee will select the convention city and fix the date of the conclave at a meeting here Dec. 16.

Two-thirds Rule May Come Up.

Chairman Farley said the Democratic committee may take up the question of abrogating the two-thirds rule for the nomination of presidential and vice presidential candidates. He made, however, no prediction about this matter. All the committee could do, if it tackled the question, would be to make a recommendation to the convention.

"The convention alone can settle that matter," said the chairman. At the time of the 1932 Democratic convention in Chicago the Roosevelt forces, led by Farley, were intent on smashing the two-thirds rule before the convention met. They abandoned the plan, however, when it appeared it would lead to a disastrous fight.

"We had the votes to do it," said Farley today.

Ticket Appears Assured.

With the renomination of President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner assured, this would be a good year to make the change from a two-thirds rule to a majority rule, it was suggested to Farley. He made no comment, however, on his own attitude.

He recalled, however, that when the prohibition question came up at a meeting of the Democratic national committee a considerable time before the 1932 convention, and an effort was made to have the committee recommend to the convention what should be done about it, the committee declined to do so on the ground it was the business of the convention and not of the national committee. A similar position might be taken by the committee with regard to the two-thirds rule, he said.

Says Garner Will Be Named.

Farley ridiculed reports Senator Honest "Vic" Donahey of Ohio or some other prominent Democrat would be nominated in place of Vice President Garner to be the President's running mate in 1936.

"Such reports are asinine," said Farley. "Of course Vice President Garner will be renominated."

Donahey, never strong for the New Deal, was nominated for the senate in 1934 over the opposition of the administration forces, led by Farley. The administration rushed Charles West, then representative, into the fight, but West was defeated by Donahey.

The meeting of the Democratic national committee will be held here

Divorce Fight Bares 7 Year Birth Puzzle

For the first time in his life 7 year old Cliff Hansen yesterday saw the man he believes is his father. He stood before Superior Judge Rudolph Desort and raised a questioning glance to the face of George Hansen, 45 years old, 1920 North Central Park avenue, an electrical engineer.

Equally curious about the boy who is said to be his son, Hansen who had never seen the child before, began to talk to him. Meanwhile attorneys representing Hansen and his estranged wife, Esther, 35 years old, made arrangements to test her story of the boy's paternity.

Two Divorce Suits Pending.

The dramatic meeting came as a result of the attempt of Mrs. Hansen to divorce her husband and to obtain alimony for the support of the boy whose custody she is seeking. Hansen has a cross bill for divorce on file in which he asks the court to determine the truth of the boy's parentage and to give him custody of the child if he is finally determined to be the father.

According to the court records, Hansen met his wife in May, 1927, and married her after rapid courtship on June 9, that year. One month later they separated. Hansen asserts in his bill that they never met again until in February, 1935, when Mrs. Hansen informed him for the first time that he was a father.

Mrs. Hansen denies this allegation, saying that she informed her husband of the boy's birth in 1933. At that time, she charges, she asked that he help support the child, but Hansen refused.

Agrees to Blood Test.

With Hansen in court yesterday were Attorney Morris Haft and Dr. Orlando F. Scott. The lawyer told Judge Desort that he and his client had made numerous attempts to see the boy during recent months and had asked Mrs. Hansen to undergo a lie detector test as part proof of the truth of her story.

Attorney Emil Haranta, counsel for Mrs. Hansen, said that she would not submit to the lie detector test, but that she was agreeable to having a blood test made.

"I wouldn't take the evidence of a machine like the lie detector anyway," said Judge Desort. "I would, however, like to have that blood test taken immediately, and I'll continue the case until next Wednesday, for that purpose. I suggest you get together and either let Dr. Scott make the tests or have Dr. William D. McNally [former coroner's toxicologist] make it."

OLD WARANT FOR DANIEL BOONE'S ARREST IS FOUND

Christiansburg, Va., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Two royal warants for the arrest of Daniel Boone, famed American pioneer, and William Cowan, said to have been a relative, and an attachment on the estate of each were discovered today by a Pulaski historian indexing old Fincastle county records. On the back of one of the warants was written, "gone to Kentucky."

The old records were discovered in the attic of the Montgomery courthouse, and are being sorted and indexed as a works project.

Both warants charged the men with owing Alexander Bain 45 pounds 18 shillings 10 pence. In the attachment, dated April 19, 1775, Boone and Cowan were charged by Bain with absconding and with owing a debt of 22 pounds 19 shillings 5 pence. "No goods," was written on the back of the attachment.

QUINTS BEHAVE FOR FIRST SHOTS OF MOVIE DEBUT

CALLANDER, Ont., Dec. 4.—(AP)—The Dionne quintuplets displayed no stage fright, camera shyness, or even plain contrariness today in the first shots filmed for "The Country Doctor."

The visitors' clothing and their noses and throats were sprayed before they were permitted to enter the nursery. Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, physician to the babies, was present during the film and found no fault with the lights to which they were exposed. Director King expressed delight with the first day's progress and said he hoped to complete the scenes with the babies within a week.

Dancer Admits Indiscretion; Shocks Court

New York, Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Lithe and animated Lisa Shaw, a professional dancer, today startled a middle aged judge and jury hearing her husband's divorce case when she frankly admitted she was exceedingly indiscreet with her husband's cousin, Ellsworth Ford.

After pondering for forty minutes over the strange case, the Supreme court jury decided to accept the woman's statement at its face value. As a result of the verdict, her husband, Hollis Shaw, an artist, may move for a divorce decree.

Admits Misconduct.

The courtroom had been the scene of considerable interest during the two day trial in which Mrs. Shaw, whose dancing name is Parnova, acted as her own attorney. But the session reached a climax when the dancer testified, before a suddenly still courtroom, that she was guilty of misconduct.

"My husband deserves a divorce," she declared. "The charge is true; I'm not here to lie."

Justice John E. McGeehan, obviously surprised, asked her twice if the charge was true and drew an affirmative answer both times. Counsel for Ford leaped to his feet and charged that her statement was part of a conspiracy to collect in slander suits totaling $250,000 filed against his client.

Perjury? "Probably."

"Do you mean to say you perjured yourself when you signed this?" thundered the lawyer, waving an affidavit in which Mrs. Shaw previously had denied the misconduct charge.

"Probably," she calmly replied.

Referring to suit for $100,000 she filed against Ford, the dancer said:

"I wanted to default in this action. Mr. Ford and I fell in love. He wanted to get a divorce. I told my husband I wanted a divorce. I went to Bermuda, but Mr. Ford couldn't come because his wife was there with a gun.

"I came back and found my husband in Reno. I couldn't see Mr. Ford. I came here to help Mr. Ford. I won't lie. I've told the truth."

DEMOCRATS BOW TO NEW DEAL ON PENSION SETUP

House Votes Change in County Units.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Republicans in the Illinois house made another fight today against dictation from Washington, D. C., but went down to defeat at the hands of a Democratic majority responsive to New Deal whims.

The battle was over the composition of county units to administer old age pensions. Democrats and Republicans had agreed two weeks ago on a plan for county committees of five members—no more than three to be of the same party—to be appointed by the county judges. The county judges also could remove commissioners for cause and fill vacancies.

But yesterday two state officials, sent to Washington to find out if this plan was acceptable to the federal social security board, returned to the house with a negative answer. Promptly today the house by a vote of 72 to 54 changed the setup.

G. O. P. Argument Futile.

Now the state department of public welfare will name three county commissioners—only two of one party—from a list of six nominations submitted by the county judge. The state department also will take over the power to remove the commissioners.

The Republicans argued in vain that the Democrats were violating the principles of home rule in addition to knuckling subserviently under to the brain trust and professional social workers. The Democratic answer was that the federal government is to pay half of the $30 a month old age pension and should have some say in the management.

"What is happening here," said Leroy M. Green of Rockford, Republican minority leader in the house, "is that you Democrats are trying to act on an interpretation of a federal act by appointive officials. Well, we won't bow to the will of the brain trust professors.

Scores New Deal Interference.

"When we decided at a conference between Democrats and Republicans two weeks ago in Speaker John P. Devine's office on the makeup of the county units no politics was involved. And there would be no politics in the matter today if it wasn't for this interference by Washington."

Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago] drew a conclusion that the American Public Welfare association had a hand in dictating to Illinois a county plan under which, he said, social service units could be set up in the counties. He pointed out that Frank Bane, executive director of the federal social security board, one of those to whom Illinois' emissaries had spoken, had been director of the welfare association.

Devine Enters Debate.

"I'm not alarmed about this," said the speaker. "The federal government is gong to pay one-half of the money and should have a voice in its expenditure. The federal government wants to deal with 48 states, and not with thousands of counties."

Speaker Devine also brought out information, astonishing to the representatives, that he estimates it is likely Illinois will have 100,000 persons on its old age pension rolls. Multiply that by $360 a year, he said, and you have a total of 36 millions, a sum that the state alone couldn't pay. His figures were based on predictions that Missouri and New York states would have that number.

Senate Quizzes Emissaries.

Dewitt Billman, executive secretary of the Legislative Reference bureau, and Montgomery S. Winning, assistant attorney general, appeared before the senate today with the same information from Washington that they had given to the house yesterday, and again were quizzed extensively.

"It is reported that the federal board won't pass on our bill until after it has been adopted," said Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, Republican minority leader in the upper chamber. "It seems to me that under a situation of that kind the Illinois legislature is facing innumerable special sessions until the law finally is satisfactory to Washington."

Woman Steals $16,000; Bets It on Horses

Mrs. Tina Cushman Horwitz, 33 years old, 3341 Wilson avenue, never went to a race track, studied a form chart, or entered a handbook resort. But she laid bets on the horses just the same and lost an average of more than $100 a week over a period of three years.

This was disclosed last night after she was arrested on a charge of embezzling $16,000 [the sum of her losses] from Gimbel's restaurant at 32 West Randolph street, for which she has been bookkeeper for nine years.

Confession Is Voluntary.

Her confession of guilt, made to Norman O. Geyer, secretary of the restaurant firm, was voluntary.

"I know I'm about to be caught anyhow," she said, "and I might as well get it off my chest. The money is gone and I'll have to take the consequences."

Geyer called the police and the bookkeeper was taken to the detective bureau where she elaborated on her plunging.

"Nobody ever gave me any tips," she said, "and I didn't know a thing about horses. I just bet on the ones that had pretty names.

How She Got Started.

"My start was with some bookmakers who used to come in the restaurant and took my wagers. Then I got to sending them out by a bus boy; I'd put the money and the message in an envelope and he'd take it to a bookmaking joint."

Sometimes, Mrs. Horwitz said, she won and rejoiced. Much more often she lost and had to dip further into the restaurant's money to bet more.

"Generally," she said reminiscently, "I put down five to win and five to place. And I had no trouble getting somebody to take the money even after the handbooks were supposed to be closed. The books are still running on the quiet."

New System of Betting.

Observers have reported that the handbook operators, with open gambling forbidden by the police, have changed their system and now have solicitors who accept bets and telephone them in to places that are never visited by patrons.

Geyer said that Mrs. Horwitz had the full confidence of the firm officials. He added, and she confirmed, that her peculations were covered by manipulation of the books and bank accounts.

Herman Horwitz, husband of the bookkeeper, is a liquor salesman. He said he was not aware that his wife ever bet on horses. She also asserted that she had never let him know about gambling. They have no children.

Gets Marriage License at 80—But He's Cautious

A marriage license was issued yesterday at the county building to John Hahn, 80 years old, 1248 Harding avenue, Des Plaines, a retired soap maker, and Lillian Snyder, 72 years old, 6833 South May street. Hahn remarked to the clerk that he was in town on business and thought he might as well get the license. Since his wife died three months ago, Hahn said he missed hot meals, but that he intended seeing how good a housekeeper his bride is before "popping the question."

SEEKS BRITAIN'S AID TO PREVENT MUSSOLINI RUIN

Warns His Fall Will Upset Europe.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 4.—The real preoccupation of the French government, and to a lesser degree the British government, it was learned today, is no longer how to end the war in Ethiopia, but how to save Italy from a complete collapse which would upset the present balance of power in Europe.

The feeling is growing here in official circles that, regardless of the prolongation of economic sanctions, the costly African campaign will ruin completely Premier Mussolini and that the ruin of Mussolini means the finish of Italy as a great European power.

It is understood that when Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, arrives here Saturday to confer with Premier Pierre Laval of France, the latter, if he is still in power, will try above all to convince his British colleague of the gravity of the situation.

Fears Italy Will Need British Aid.

Laval is expected to point out that the complete military and economic collapse of Italy will be just as bad for Britain as for France and might even require the British army to rescue the Italians in Ethiopia to prevent a military disaster which would be dangerous to the prestige of the white race in Africa.

The British, it is believed in well informed circles here, are fully aware of the essential weaknesses of the Fascist régime and the military difficulties which Marshal Pietro Badoglio's army is encountering, and no more than the French do they wish the complete ruin of Italy.

The French and British are still far apart on what would constitute a satisfactory peace plan. The main difference is that the French want to give Mussolini all the territory his armies at present occupy. The British insist that Tigre province must be restored to the Ethiopians and the territorial acquisitions limited to the southeast part of the empire.

British Attitude Changes.

Nonetheless, a change in the British attitude toward the whole problem is felt here. The great difficulty now is not so much to persuade the British to agree to peace terms which might be acceptable to Mussolini, but to persuade Mussolini to let France and Britain pull him out of the hole into which he has mired himself.

Laval had another long talk with Vittorio Cerruti, Italian ambassador, today, urging him once more to present in a definite form Il Duce's ideas of reasonable peace terms. As far as can be learned, the conversation was no more satisfactory than any of the previous ones. The Italian game at present is said to be to try to obtain postponement of the oil embargo by hinting at a willingness to make concessions, but not committing itself in any way.

No Real Peace Progress.

While a determined effort is being made both here and in Rome to create a more optimistic atmosphere, no real progress toward peace has been achieved in the last month, THE TRIBUNE was authoritatively informed.

The press is full of trial balloons suggesting a postponement of the oil embargo, a simultaneous military truce with Ethiopia, and the suspension of sanctions to permit serious peace negotiations to get under way.

The fact is, however, that Count Rene Saint-Quentin, the French Ethiopian expert, and Maurice Peterson, the British foreign office's African expert, have not yet been able to agree on a peace plan and that Mussolini steadily refuses to state his terms.

Financial Aid to Italy.

If a plan for saving Mussolini is worked out, it will not be merely a proposal for a settlement of the Ethiopian question, but will also take in the naval problem in the Mediterranean and more than likely the possibility of eventual economic and financial assistance to Italy.

If Mussolini turns it down, the French will not try to oppose the oil embargo. And, though no responsible official will discuss such a possibility, more than likely their thoughts will be turned not toward further efforts at compromise with Mussolini, but at reaching an understanding with King Victor Emmanuel of Italy or some Fascist leader like Gen. Italo Balbo to replace Il Duce.

BRITAIN MOVES WARSHIPS

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The British admiralty announced today that six British warships, including the battleships Hood and Renown, would quit the Mediterranean soon for a cruise to nearby Moroccan and Spanish ports.

This was said not to be a plan to placate ruffled Italian feelings, but rather to be for the benefit of the crews who are hampered by the lack of shore facilities at Gibraltar.

Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, will go to Paris Saturday to try to agree with Premier Laval on a compromise plan to be offered Mussolini involving an exchange of territory and a sea outlet for Ethiopia.

Plan to Force Showdown.

This plan will, it is hoped, force Mussolini either to consent to stop hostilities or to submit to oil sanctions by members of the league of nations.

It was reported tonight that Hoare, who will go to Switzerland on his way to Paris, will also stop at Rome to see Mussolini.

The choice of action at Paris lies between a joint Anglo-French representation to Italy, a French approach supported by Britain, or British initiative undertaken with French approval, according to the Daily Telegraph's diplomatic correspondent.

Optimism was mixed with anxiety in London about the outcome of the next few days' diplomacy. The tone of the press was that the league will have no alternative but to enforce oil sanctions next week if there are no prospects before then of a satisfactory end to peace talks.

Fear Britain Weakening.

The suspicion that the Paris peace proposals may go further than those of the league of nations committee of five which Mussolini rejected before starting the war has aroused uneasiness in Laborite opposition circles here. They fear the British attitude is weakening.

Thomas Johnston, former Labor minister, caused a flurry in the house of commons tonight when he criticized the government's attitude towards oil sanctions and sought to prove that the Anglo-Egyptian oil refinery at Suez had been supplying its total output to the Italian army for months past.

Johnston traced an intricate link between the Suez concern and the Anglo-Iranian Oil company, which has official representatives of the British government on its board of control.

Ethiopia Hits Peace Plan.

ADDIS ABABA, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie, although Europe is buzzing with reports of possible new peace moves, sent word today that Ethiopia will never surrender "a single foot of land" under any plan.

The emperor, who is at Dessye, telephoned Foreign Minister Herouy here, "We will never give up any part of Ethiopia."

U. S. DEFENSES BEST IN WORLD, QUIZ BODY TOLD

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The United States is better prepared than any other nation against foreign invasion, Thomas A. Morgan, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America, testified today before the congressional committee on patents.

"But you must take into consideration that we have friendly nations on the north and south and two big oceans on either side," Morgan told Representative William I. Sirovich of New York, chairman of the committee conducting hearings on a bill on the cross licensing and pooling of patents.

Morgan said he believed there should be at least 2,300 planes operating in the country's air corps at all times.

Frank H. Russell, president of the Manufacturers' Aircraft association, clearing house for inventions and patents, was asked:

"Have any representatives of your industry sold patents to foreign countries without going first to the United States government?"

"Not that I know of," Russell replied. "I would say such a statement is ridiculous, because the United States is aviation's best customer."

FLIES TO ETHIOPIA IN OIL INTRIGUE; U.S. LOAN SOUGHT

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 4.—Another chapter was being added to the oil intrigues behind the Italo-Ethiopian conflict today. Francis M. Rickett, the Briton who negotiated for American interests the Ethiopian oil concession of short lived fame last summer, took a plane here for Paris en route to Ethiopia. At the same time Leo Y. Chertok, New York lawyer and promoter, completed plans to sail Saturday as the financial counselor of Secretary Zapharo of the Ethiopian legation in London.

Zapharo is going to New York to try to raise a $10,000,000 loan to exploit a concession for oil, gold, and other minerals lying under the huge estate of Dr. Marquex C. Martin, Ethiopian minister in London.

$5,000,000 from British.

The loan sought in America is solely for exploitation purposes. A deal was signed in a London hotel last week between Chertok and Zapharo for an additional $5,000,000 as the price of the concession.

The 5 millions will be in the nature of a loan extended to Ethiopia, it was reported in London, and is all British.

The concession will cover about 1,000 square miles of land in the southeast part of Ethiopia and will last for fifty years, it was reported here.

Chertok's entourage in London tonight could not add any explanation as to whether his trip to America was concerned with Rickett's departure, which was complicated by reports that he would stop in Rome and Cairo before going on to Ethiopia.

Italy Denies Oil Monopoly Deal.

[Special to London Daily Telegraph and the Chicago Tribune.]
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Dec. 4.—The Italian government today issued a categorical denial that any agreement has been reached for an unlimited supply of oil in the event of an oil embargo against Italy by the league of nations.

The denial specified the Standard Oil Company of New York. The report referred to mentioned the Italian subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

An official spokesman pointed out tonight that it would be absurd for the Italian government to bind itself to a 30 year monopoly with one firm to solve a transitory problem.

It appeared, however, that the real problem in keeping the Ethiopian expeditionary force supplied with oil is the lack of storage facilities.

Persons engaged in the importation of oil affirm that Italy has sufficient resources in east Africa to carry on for three or four months. The stocks here have been carefully husbanded for civil needs, although it may be necessary to stop the use of private cars.

JUDGE STEFFEN OUSTS RECEIVER OF APARTMENTS

Superior Judge Walter P. Steffen, investigating receiverships, yesterday removed William L. Martin, 1157 East 47th street, as receiver of the fifteen apartment building at 5058 North Claremont avenue and appointed Lloyd O. Gilbert, 3304 Lincoln avenue, a real estate dealer, in his place. All of Martin's books were taken for examination. Judge Steffen said there was no evidence of irregularity in Martin's accounts. His removal was ordered after it became known that he had shared an office with Daniel W. Cahill, receiver for a number of small south side properties. Cahill two weeks ago admitted being $10,000 short in his accounts, and is now in the custody of the state's attorney pending a complete audit of his books.

Mussolini Locks Financial Facts on Italy from World

Amid an apparent tightening of the kingdom's home defenses, the ukase suspended publication of treasury figures, statistics on the public debt, and statements of the Bank of Italy.

The last Bank of Italy statement was issued Oct. 20. Then, the bank had nearly 4 billion lire in gold [approximately $324,000,000].

Aimed at Sanctionist States.

Subsequently, Premier Mussolini was given authority to withhold all statistical information which might give aid or comfort to Italy's economic besiegers—the "sanctionist" states of the league of nations.

Following the reported withholding of all naval leaves, well informed persons said certain troops which had been destined to sail for Italian Somaliland, the southern African war base, still were in Italy.

Observers wondered if these men were being held at home in preparedness for eventualities that might arise from the existing European tension over sanctions.

The cabinet has ordered, too, that all vacancies in the kingdom's powerful air force be filled. Already the army has reached a peak of efficiency with the cancelation of leaves for 100,000 men.

Informed persons believed some of the nation's naval strength is being concentrated at vital points to guard against the possibility of trouble in the Mediterranean sea.

As for the conflict in Ethiopia, official sources said Mussolini was going on with his war without waiting for Great Britain and France to propose peace.

Those who professed to know said the dictator wants both territory and a smashing victory before he listens seriously to peace terms.

Give Up Royal Wedding Rings.

Queen Elena wrote Il Duce, promising that the two royal wedding rings would be turned over to the government on Dec. 18, the date set by Italy's women for a collection of gold wedding rings throughout the country.

HERRIOT WARNS LAVAL HE MUST HALT FASCISTS

Threatens to Leave Cabinet Post.

PARIS, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Premier Pierre Laval's government faced a new threat of overthrow on the tense "Fascist" league issue tonight.

Edouard Herriot, former premier, told his Radical Socialist colleagues he would withdraw from the cabinet unless a majority of the powerful party is satisfied with the premier's action against semi-military leagues such as Col. Francis de la Rocque's "Croix de Feu."

The minister of state's declaration, in a party meeting, was considered by parliamentary sources to indicate Laval must actually satisfy the Radical Socialists on the Rightist league question, instead of seeking a vote of confidence by a narrow majority.

Ask Change Over Guards.

The Radical Socialists asked Herriot to get the premier's promise to take recruiting of France's mobile guard out of the hands of the Rightist minister of war, Col. Jean Fabry, and to place it under Minister of the Interior Josef Paganon, a Radical Socialist.

They urged also that two reports on the semi-military leagues be discussed in parliament before Christmas, and asked that newspapers which they said were publishing articles inciting to "revolt and murder" be prosecuted.

France's chamber of deputies, scene of a turbulent debate on the leagues only yesterday, will resume its discussion tomorrow. Many believed Laval would make the strongest promises possible to keep a majority of the Radical Socialists in line.

Leftists, preponderant in the chamber, are demanding "disarming and dissolution" of organizations such as the Veterans of the Fiery Cross.

Have Support of Reds.

They were not appeased by the premier's recent decree requiring the leagues to give police advance notice of political meetings.

Much depends on the attitude of the Radical Socialists, the strongest party numerically in parliament. Extreme members of the party have joined with Socialists and communists in the so-called "Popular Front" to work for a leftist government.

Recent fighting at Limoges, Socialist controled chinaware center, has intensified the leftist-rightist conflict. There, on Nov. 16, 30 persons were injured when Popular Front raiders broke a Croix de Feu meeting in a riding academy.

La Rocque himself has declared he is only waiting for the right moment to try a "clean up" of France. With that accomplished, he says, he will fade into the background.

U. S. ASKS PAYMENT ON WAR DEBT; ENGLAND HAS ANSWER READY

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The British government has received from Secretary of State Hull the semi-annual reminder of the war debt instalment due the United States Dec. 15, with a demand for payment. The customary reply will be sent within a few days to the effect that under the circumstances the British will not pay, neither will there be any token payment.

The amount demanded this month by the United States will not be made known in London until the British are ready to send their reply. When the matter came up last June the total asked was about $360,000,000.

There is a question from a labor opposition member on the order paper in commons tomorrow asking the government if it is explaining to the American and British people that the money it is saving by nonpayment of the war debt is to be used for increasing British armament.

KILL HELPLESS BANK EMPLOYE; FLEE WITH $15,000

HULL, Que., Dec. 4.—(AP)—A helpless bank employé, bound and gagged, was slain today by robbers, who then escaped with $15,000 in bills of the Banque Provinciale du Canada.

In an apparently carefully planned coup the robbers commandeered an automobile near the heart of Ottawa in which two employés were transporting the money to the main office of the bank in Ottawa.

Armand Nadeau, 18, one of the employés, was shot three times, twice in the head, and died later, after the automobile had been ordered driven to a lonely spot on a side road some miles outside Ottawa. Paul Lafleur, 20, the other bank employé, was not injured.

In addition to an exhibition by the battery proper, the lancers will engage in a silent mounted drill culminating in a jump through a blazing hoop, and the Chicago park district No. 775 saber drill team of the American Legion will give an exhibition.

HIT BY STREET CAR; DIES.

William Boeddener, 70 years old, 4333 Hazel avenue, died in the John B. Murphy hospital yesterday of injuries incurred when he was struck by a northbound Halsted street car at 3301 North Halsted street Tuesday night. L. W. Deman was the motorman.

DUCE'S OUTPOSTS FIGHT ADVANCING ETHIOPIAN ARMY

4 Italians Killed; Skirmish Called Prelude to Battle.

WITH THE ITALIAN TROOPS AT MAKALE, ETHIOPIA, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Two strong Ethiopian columns, marching toward the Italian front south of Makale and along the Takkaze river, engaged Italian outposts in combat today.

In one clash southwest of Makale, at Debri, four Italian white soldiers were killed, and there was another encounter on the western end of the front near the Takkaze river.

Called Prelude to Battle.

An Italian military communique stated:

"The announcement of the approach of enemy masses toward the Takkaze line and of the encounters bravely fought by our advanced posts on the Makale front and at the fords of the Takkaze river constitutes a prelude to battles of varying intensity.

"The adversary will attempt an outflanking movement, probably in order to lessen the pressure which the movements of our troops are accentuating in various directions."

Asserting the Ethiopians are now strongly armed, the communique said Europeans had equipped a munitions factory at Addis Ababa to manufacture hand grenades, airplane bombs, cannon, anti-aircraft projectiles, and other war materials.

New Aspect to War.

"This aid," said the communique, "contributes toward giving new and very vast aspects to this war, as armament which cannot be despised has now been added to the noted numerical superiority of the adversary.

"Therefore, the principles of pure military art must be adapted so that the few may conquer the very many."

The communique gave many figures indicating the extent of Ethiopian armaments which must be reckoned with.

Italian reports said the Ethiopians recently received 7,500 Belgian rifles, 350,000 cartridges, and 150 Mannlicher and 750 Hotchkiss machine guns.

Selassie to Leave Dessye.

IMPERIAL ETHIOPIAN HEADQUARTERS, DESSYE, Ethiopia, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie, a close advisor said today, will leave Dessye within a few days, either going overland to the north or flying back to Addis Ababa.

In any case, it was learned, he will not proceed more than 50 miles toward the northern battle front, probably going to Magala to meet his three northern commanders.

JAPS OPEN DRIVE TO ABOLISH SHIPS VITAL FOR U. S.

Scrap Big Cruisers, Admiral Urges.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Japan's chief delegate to the international naval conference opening next week said today his country wanted to economize on naval armaments and expressed belief large "offensive type" cruisers should be abolished. The delegate, Admiral Osami Nagano, asserted that under certain conditions Japan would be willing to abolish her submarines.

[Big cruisers, such as Japan wishes to abolish, are considered by naval experts to be vital for the defense of the United States, which has no far flung empire with numerous naval bases at which smaller warships with a shorter cruising radius could be serviced.]

But the major consideration of the Japanese delegation, Admiral Nagano explained, is security for their country and they believe Tokio should be given parity with the United States and Great Britain.

Wants Russia, Germany In.

If "certain conditions" were met, the admiral said, Japan would abolish submarines, but "we think Russia, Germany, and other countries would have to enter into any agreement involving them."

[Russia and Germany will not participate in the conference, to be attended by Britain, the United States, France, Italy, Japan, and British dominions.]

Japan is anxious to see limitation extended on a basis of equality and security, Admiral Nagano asserted, and to economize on naval armaments.

Would Like Pacific Pact.

If an agreement on equality in principle with the United States is reached, he said, replacing the present 5-5-3 ratio, Japan would not begin a huge building program.

He said a pact of nonaggression in the Pacific would be very desirable to Tokio but he had no instructions to propose such a treaty.

CHINA RENEWS UNFRIENDLY ACTS, JAPANESE CLAIM

PEIPING, Dec. 4.—(AP)—A spokesman announced tonight that Maj. Gen. Hayao Tada, Japanese military commander in North China, plans to protest to Chinese authorities against a renewal of activities of anti-Japanese organizations. These activities, the spokesman asserted, are "causing uneasiness."

This statement followed the curt assertion of Gen. Sung Cheh-yuan, Chinese commander of the Peiping-Tientsin garrison, that he is "taking no orders from any foreign power."

U. S. Loses China Trade.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Japan has usurped the leadership long held by the United States in the rich Chinese markets, customs statistics for October disclosed today. American exports to China dropped to a low of about $3,966,000 while Japanese exports to China passed the $4,400,000 mark. The United States' trade balance with China was unfavorable for the first time in years.

CLARK TO FERRET MILLIONS FROM U. S. TAX ROLLS

Assessor Obtains Key to Bondholders.

John S. Clark, assessor of Cook county, expects to add several hundred million dollars in assessed valuation on intangible personal property—stocks and bonds—to the Cook county rolls as a result of the action of the bureau of internal revenue in opening federal income tax returns to inspection by officers of local taxing bodies, he said yesterday.

Mr. Clark disclosed that the amendment to the income tax law, which makes such inspections possible, follows the line of a suggested amendment which he sent to Washington early in the year, on which action was pressed by Congressman A. J. Sabath and Senator J. Hamilton Lewis.

The assessor attempted to use income tax returns last year to place intangibles on the local assessment rolls, only to encounter a legal barrier. Before amendment, the law restricted inspections by subordinate governments to the tax commission of states which have income tax laws.

Governors Must Act.

The section of federal law under which the treasury will act provides that the governors of the various states must take the initiative in obtaining the returns for local taxing officials. Requests by the governor must be in writing and must list the officials who are to have access to the reurns.

The assessor's office will be somewhat hurried this year in its attempts to trace stocks and bonds owned by residents of Cook county for purposes of local taxation. The 1935 returns will not be filed until March 15, and the assessor must turn the personal property tax books over to the board of tax appeals on March 1, fifteen days earlier.

However, Mr. Clark said, he is permitted by law to amend his assessment roll by resolution filed with the board of appeals. This can be done as late as May 1, or perhaps May 15, and by this device assessments based on income tax inspections will be added to the 1935 personal property rolls.

Big Job Ahead of Assessors.

Deputy assessors will have to examine 250,000 or more individual income tax returns within a period of six weeks or two months in order to find those which list income on stocks and bonds. It is uncertain now when the records will be made available to them. However, under the policy announced Tuesday by Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue, income tax payers will be required to file duplicate returns, and it is possible that work can start on March 15 or before.

"The law now requires owners of securities to schedule them as personal property," said Mr. Clark. "Few such returns have been made, merely because it has been virtually impossible to detect evasions. Aside from that, I do not believe that the present method of assessment will put an unjust burden on owners of income paying securities.

"No Unjust Taxes."

"In the first place, we will find through the income tax returns only those stocks and bonds which are paying dividends or interest. We will not find securities which are in default, and which while they have a considerable market value, are paying no return now. Furthermore, the taxes paid on securities honestly scheduled will amount to only about six-tenths of one per cent of the face value, much less than the tax burden on real estate."

This year and last Assessor Clark has allowed taxpayers to schedule securities at one-fifth of their actual value. To this scheduled valuation is applied the same 37 per cent equalization factor which affects real estate, producing a tax valuation of only 7.4 per cent of the full value of securities. A tax rate of $7.50 would make the tax on a $100 share of stock 55.5 cents, under this procedure.

WPA Vaudeville Company in First Performance

WPA VAUDEVILLE SCORES WITH THE GOOD OLD GAGS

BY KAY HALL.

Vaudevillians and musicians on the Works Progress administration, giving their first performance since their pay began, got a big hand last night from an audience of 500 people in the auditorium of the Pulaski park fieldhouse, Noble and Blackhawk streets. The performers had been billed as former expert professionals, the actors coming from the vaudeville stage, which has been losing its drawing power in recent years, and the musicians from outmoded orchestra pits.

With the stage propping of the present administration the entertainers rendered gags, tricks, and antics that paid their own way and were popular on the big time circuits even as late as the Harding and Coolidge administrations. This throwback into the nifty '20s met with a violently appreciative welcome from residents of the neighborhood and friends of the principals who attended.

Long and Hearty Applause.

The first thing on the program was the Star Spangled Banner, played by the band, directed by Edward Wurtzebach. This was taken to indicate an enthusiastic mood for the evening. Wurtzebach, who was director of the official World's Fair orchestra, brought smooth effect from the thirteen musicians, the first of several units to be organized under the WPA.

McNally and Tripplett, hat jugglers, brought the audience to a hysterical peak by tossing hats to them and clowningly catching them on their heads when spectators managed to throw them back.

An official of the WPA, who was sitting on the front row, ducked when one of the funny men threw at him what appeared to be a heavy ball. The ball was hollow and an attached string brought it back.

Back to Good Old Days.

Minstrel jokes featured the act of Miller and Knight, blackface artists and the old days were revived with such gags as being a waiter in an insane asylum and carrying soup to nuts.

Miller said he had a plan to help the government put men to work. "Put all the men on one island and all the women on another and pretty soon the men will all start to build boats to get to the women," he said. The auditors guffawed.

"Shee Noo" who was billed with an exclamation point after the name turned out to be a tall, male Indian singer with a formidable voice that shook the rafters in "Indian Love Call" and "Only a Rose." He was almost motionless in feathers and skins, and his stage deportment was as statuesque as that of the kind that used to be in front of cigar stores.

A Touch of the Burlesque.

A slight burlesque note was injected by Alma Bernard, a singer, who coyly unwrapped her skirt before going into a dance in tights.

The witticism stopped there on the New Dealish note.

Wilbur Hall, the Texas whipcracker, took a cork out of a whisky bottle and various things out of his lady partner's mouth with a whip. Beo, Curtis, and Singleton presented a comedy skit and sang. The show closed with a tumbling act by Peters and Snyders.

"Happy Days Are Here Again" was the music theme of the evening.

Another performance will be given at the fieldhouse tomorrow night and then the troupe will move to Avalon park.

RINGS IN TEETH HELD INDICATORS OF MANY ILLS BESETTING MAN

New York, Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Just as a botanist can read the story of climatic conditions in the past by observing the rings in a tree, so the present day biologist may tell the health enjoyed by an individual by examining the rings which form on his teeth, according to Dr. Isaac Schour, assistant professor of dental histology at the University of Illinois.

Dr. Schour presented the theory today in a paper read before the eleventh annual convention of the First and Second District Dental societies.

Rings, similar to the semi-annual rings in the trunk of a tree, form each day in the teeth of man and other mammals, Dr. Schour reported.

ILLINOIS TO GET $518,500 FROM U. S. YOUTH FUND

Thirteen state directors of the National Youth administration met yesterday in the Palmer house and discussed programs for the disbursement of funds allotted by the federal government for the relief of needy persons between 16 and 25 years old.

Harry Hopkins, Works Progress administrator, was present at the meeting. He, Aubrey Williams, NYA director, and Orrin Kay, midwestern director, outlined the projects.

State allotments for the work, as announced by Richard R. Brown, assistant to Williams, are: Illinois, $518,500; Indiana, $222,500; Iowa, $119,000; Kansas, $184,500; Kentucky, $338,000; Michigan, $338,000; Minnesota, $227,500; Mississippi, $102,000; Nebraska, $87,000; North Dakota, $123,500; Ohio, $589,500; South Dakota, $150,500, and Wisconsin, $213,000.

MINNA CITRON IS ORDERED QUIZZED IN DIVORCE CASE

New York, Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Minna Citron, Brooklyn artist whose hobby has been satirising her own sex in paintings she called "feminannities," was cited today by Supreme Court Justice Thomas C. Kadien in Brooklyn, to answer questions before trial in her suit for absolute divorce against Henry C. Citron, paper box manufacturer.

Simultaneously came Citron's statement that "I could not keep up with my wife's studies in sexual ethics, nudity, free love, golf, music, and psychiatry."

FRED BRUMMEL OF TAX APPEALS BOARD IS DEAD

Authority on Realty and Assessments.

Fred W. Brummel, member of the board of tax appeals and for 22 years a well known real estate expert, died unexpectedly yesterday in the Grant hospital. Mr. Brummel was 63 years old.

FRED W. BRUMMEL

He was taken to the hospital two weeks ago for observation, said his attending physician, Dr. A. G. Frey. At that time none of Mr. Brummel's friends suspected his condition was serious. His death was attributed by Dr. Frey to acute dilation of the heart and a kidney ailment.

At Mr. Brummel's bedside when he died were his wife, the former Rose Berresheim, and their daughter, Genevieve, wife of Attorney George Hughes, assistant city treasurer. The Brummels made their home in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Founder of Insurance Concern.

Mr. Brummel was born in Chicago, graduated from Quincy college, Quincy, Ill., and in 1895 entered the insurance business in Chicago with his father. Five years later he founded the concern of Brummel Brothers, insurance underwriters and managers.

He remained in the insurance field until April 1, 1913, when he founded the real estate firm of Fred W. Brummel company, of which he was still president. In the same year he assisted in the organization of the Aetna State bank and became a direcor of the institution.

During the early history of the Torrens act for the registration of real estate titles he was active in procuring amendments to make the law effective. He financed several test cases to the Illinois Supreme court to determine the constitutionality of this law.

Tax Title Authority.

During his work in the local real estate field Mr. Brummel gained a reputation as a tax title authority. He carried several cases to the United States Supreme court which proved of great value in clarifying titles. He was also still a member of the forest preserve advisory board, to which he was appointed in 1927.

When the old board of review was abolished in 1931 Mr. Brummel was appointed a member of the new board of tax appeals by Emmett Whealan, then president of the county board. A year ago he was reëlected.

Helps Reduce Assessments.

As a member of the board he was responsible for reducing the 1931 property assessments on homes and small flat buildings by 15 per cent, which was upheld by the courts after extensive litigation. He was also responsible for making a reduction of 20 per cent in all land and improvement assessments for 1932.

Whealan, co-member of the tax appeals board, has been hearing 1934 real estate assessment complaints during Mr. Brummel's illness. None of these cases can be disposed of without the signature of a second member of the board. Under the statute the county judge will appoint Mr. Brummel's successor, who will hold office until the election next November.

LIVERMORE JR. BALKS AT SEEING EITHER HIS MOTHER OR FATHER

Santa Barbara, Cal., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Jesse Livermore Jr., recovering from a bullet wound allegedly inflicted by his mother, said tonight he did not want to see either her or his father, Wall street speculator, until he "thinks things over."

The statement of the 16 year old son dimmed prospects of an early meeting with his mother, Mrs. Dorothea Wendt Longcope, who is charged with an attempt to murder the boy. He does not know his mother has been accused.

A blood transfusion was given last night, not as an emergency measure, but to build up the youth's strength.

HOLD ROBBERY SUSPECTS TO JURY.

STATE LAUNCHES 10 MILLION GRADE SEPARATION JOB

New Structures Planned for Cook County.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—The Illinois Highway department is launching a $10,307,184 railroad grade separation program under the Works Progress administration that will include 20 structures in the counties of Cook, Du Page, and Lake, estimated to cost $4,254,000.

In addition, contracts are to be awarded for six railroad-highway jobs in this metropolitan area to be financed with $1,442,000 of previous allotments of federal "easy money" to this state.

Most of the projects will be under construction this winter and will be finished next year. A survey of the locations indicate that trafic will be facilitated materially and that the risks of motor travel will be reduced by these improvements.

Red Tape Handicaps Work.

In the main, the state has selected grade crossings or existing antiquated separation where the demands for trafic are most acute, although in compiling the list the engineers were handicapped a bit by federal red tape. Furthermore, some sorely needed grade separations could not be included because of the expense of necessary additional right of way that the government will not approve.

One of the most dangerous existing grade crossings that is to be eliminated is in Westchester, on Roosevelt road east of Mannheim road. Here $175,000 is to be spent for a subway for 6,000 automobiles a day that are now exposed to collision with 103 trains a day, plus switching.

Plan $640,000 Viaduct.

From a convenience standpoint, one of the most important projects will be a $640,000 viaduct for Ogden avenue over Cicero avenue and over the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad.

Other projects on the WPA program, with their 24 hour trafic counts where there is existing trafic, are as follows:

Crawford avenue—Viaduct over Baltimore and Ohio near 123d street; $113,000; 700 autos and 18 trains.

Ill. 53—Subway under the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin in Lombard; $164,000; 174 trains and 2,200 autos.

Ill. 54—Subway under C. A. & E. in Villa Park; $170,000; 174 trains.

147th street—Viaduct over Chicago and Eastern Illinois in Dalton, $210,000; 68 trains and 2,800 autos.

Ill. 54—Subway in Villa Park under the Great Western; $11,000; 13 trains.

Il. 53—Viaduct in Lombard over the Great Western; $125,000; 13 trains.

$290,000 for Viaduct.

Skokie road—Subway under North Shore Electric, and Rockland road west of Lake Forest; $406,000; 100 trains, 7,600 autos.

Cicero avenue—Subway under I. C. at 33d street; $235,000; 30 trains, 15,000 autos.

Skokie road—Subway under Elgin, Joliet, and Eastern, west of Lake Bluff, $210,000; 12 trains, 7,000 autos.

Ill. 54—Subway under North Western in Elmhurst, $207,000; 139 trains.

Ill. 53—Subway under North Western in Lombard, $170,000; 139 trains.

Remaining Projects.

The remaining PWA projects for which contracts are to be awarded are listed in the same way as follows:

Onwentsia road—Subway under North Shore electric and the North Western in Lake Forest; $212,000; 150 trains, 5,500 autos.

Deerpath avenue—Subway under same two railroads, also in Lake Forest; $130,000; 150 trains.

Railroad avenue—Reconstruction of subway under North Western in Evanston; $150,000; 18,000 autos.

The government is paying all of the cost of this work as part of its unemployment relief program.

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll

Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

4,000 PURCHASE AUTO LICENSES AT OFFICE HERE

Approximately 4,000 Chicagoans purchased their state automobile licenses yesterday at the local office of the secretary of state at 120 South Ashland boulevard. Long lines immediately formed when the office opened at 10:30 a. m., but by 3 o'clock the crowds thinned away down, Chief Clerk Stanley R. Kosinski said.

With an increased office force, it is believed, there will be no repetition of last year's confusion and rush.

Clerk Kosinski said that except during police drives against license delinquents, the present personnel should be able to handle the crowds without any one's having to stand outside or wait very long. The office will be open daily, including Saturday, from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m.

CAR DEATH TOLL INCREASES OVER 4 WEEK PERIOD

Washington, D. C., Dec. 4.—(AP)—An increase in fatalities from automobile accidents was reported tonight by the commerce department while Secretary Roper invited a score of national organizations to attend his safety conference of Dec. 18.

Reports from 86 large cities showed 818 deaths from automobile accidents in the four week period ending Nov. 23, as compared with 781 in the four weks ending Oct. 26 and 639 in the period ending Sept. 28.

New York topped the list with 106 deaths as compared with 97 a year ago. Chicago was second with 88, compare with 94 and Los Angeles third with 44, against 41 a year ago.

WOMAN IS DEAD OF INJURIES BY FIRE CHIEF'S CAR

Accident Unavoidable, Say Koepke and Driver.

Mrs. Mary Wolters, 56 years old, 1923 Bissell street, died last night in the Evangelical hospital of injuries suffered Nov. 29 when she was struck at North avenue and Halsted street by a fire department automobile. In the car, which was driven by Fireman August Reinke, was Chief William Koepke of the 3d battalion. They said the accident, which occurred as they were returning from a fire, was unavoidable.

Mrs. Jeanette Hunter, 31 years old, 2918 North Cicero avenue, was seriously injured yesterday when she was struck at Cicero avenue and George street by an automobile. The driver fled after the accident.

Deputy Coroner Exonerated.

Deputy Coroner W. A. Keiser of Geneva, who often conducts inquests into automobile deaths in Kane county, was cleared yesterday of responsibility for the death of Mrs. Gertrude Ayers, 72 years old, 1 Woodlawn street, Geneva. Mrs. Ayers was fatally injured Tuesday night by the car which Keiser was driving.

The jury in the inquest, conducted by Coroner Herman J. Vierkes of Elgin, returned a verdict of accidental death. Keiser was driving east in State street, Geneva, when Mrs. Ayers stepped into the street. The car struck the woman, and Keiser took her to the Community hospital in Geneva, where she died of skull fracture early yesterday. She was a widow. Three sons and two daughters survive her.

Third Death in Missouri Crash.

Relatives of Clayton Werden of Wauconda, in Lake county, who, with his wife, was burned to death in an automobile accident near Holland, Mo., Tuesday night, were advised yesterday that the Werdens' grandson, David Gossel, 6 years old, injured in the crash, died yesterday, and that another grandson, Franklin Gossel, 8 years old, and a daughter, Mrs. James Gossel, mother of the children, are both in critical conditions. The Gossels also live in Wauconda. The party was en route to Texas.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 717 persons had been killed in automobile accidents within the city limits of Chicago, and 16,340 persons had been injured. The trafic deaths in Cook county totaled 925 during the same period.

City Employes to Give Community Fund $25,000

Municipal employés will contribute approximately $25,000 toward the $3,200,000 Community Fund of Chicago, John P. Wilson, deputy commissioner of public works, announced yesterday. This estimate is based on the first tabulation of pledges from various city departments, said Mr. Wilson, who was appointed by Mayor Kelly to conduct the welfare campaign among municipal employés.

BUSINESS BOARD FIGHTS ONE-WAY STREETS IN LOOP

Jackson-Monroe Plan Meets Opposition.

The Chicago Association of Commerce issued a statement yesterday opposing the plan of the Chicago park district to make Jackson boulevard and Monroe street one-way thoroughfares. The proposal was presented to the city council last summer, but no action has been taken by the aldermen.

John T. Redmond, chairman of the association's street trafic committee, declared that the plan to use Jackson boulevard only for east bound trafic and Monroe street only for west bound trafic would work a handicap on the loop business area which is largely a sector of pedestrian movement and a terminal district for passenger vehicles.

Called Bother to Shoppers.

"The plan would inconvenience shoppers and prove harmful to the central business area," Mr. Redmond said. "It would upset existing methods for handling trafic which are the result of long and careful study and are working satisfactorily."

The association's opposition is to one way streets in the loop, and as a counter plan it suggested that either the two streets be made one way thoroughfares west of Canal street only, or that a system of progressive trafic control lights be placed in operation to speed the movement of trafic, allowing both Jackson and Monroe to remain two way thoroughfares.

The association said that present slow movement of trafic in these streets west of Canal street is because Monroe street is an unprotected artery and poorly paved, and the lights in Jackson boulevard are not properly coördinated.

Plan to Cut Number of Taxis.

Ald. B. A. Cronson [4th], chairman of the taxicab subcommittee of the city council, announced yesterday that the committee will take steps to eliminate 606 taxicabs from the streets as a means of reducing trafic congestion in the loop. This would reduce the number of cabs to 3,500, a total regarded as adequate by Thomas Gordon, public vehicle license commissioner.

"The Yellow Cab company and the Checker Taxicab company will be asked to surrender some of their licenses at a meeting of the committee on Tuesday," Ald. Cronson said. "The move will aid drivers, because we will propose that more driving shifts be created. At present a driver can't earn a living because there are too many cabs."

Maj. Sammis, Former Park Police Head, Sued by Wife

Maj. James U. Sammis, who resigned a month ago as chief of the Lincoln park police, was sued for divorce yesterday by Mrs. Esther Sammis, 35 years old, 3156 Pine Grove avenue, on the ground of cruelty. The bill was filed in Superior court by Attorney Benjamin P. Davis. The Sammises were married Oct. 11, 1921, at Shreveport, La., and separated June 30 of this year. Mrs. Sammis asked custody of their children, Emily, 9 years old, and James Walter, 3.

ANGLE PARKING ON MADISON ST. STILL ALLOWED

Angle parking of automobiles was still being permitted on Madison street between Pulaski road [Crawford avenue] and Austin avenue yesterday as the police refrained from enforcing the city ordiance prohibiting the practice. Capt. John Ryan of the Fillmore street station said that enforcement of the ordinance was being held in abeyance pending the efforts of the merchants to amend the law making an exception on this portion of Madison street which is 100 feet wide.

An ordinance permitting angle parking on the street in that area was submitted to the city council several months ago but was spiked by the trafic and public safety committee. This method of parking has been condemned by safety organizations and is prohibited on state highways. The merchants in this Madison street district say, however, that some consideration should be shown property owners in the area who were compelled to pay for the street.

COURT WONDERS WHAT TO DO WITH TRAFIC FINE CASH

Puzzled over an "inheritance" of a $1,200 vest pocket fund, accumulated by the payment of trafic fines in the County court under the recently enacted law which took trafic violation cases away from local justices of the peace in the country towns, County Clerk Michael J. Flynn requested an opinion from the state's attorney yesterday.

"I don't know what to do with the money," said Clerk Flynn. "The law doesn't specify who should get it, I don't know whether it belongs to the county, or to the municipalities where the arrests took place, or whether it should be pro-rated, or what. I guess I'll have to carry it around in my vest pocket, or open up an account somewhere."

SENTENCED ON CHECK CHARGE.

Everett Winters, 45 years old, formerly a Detroit building contractor, was sentenced to serve 19 days in the House of Correction by Municipal Judge Eugene J. Holland on a charge of passing worthless checks on a loop hotel.

ORDER ORGANIST SEIZED; FAILS TO PUSH FRAUD CASE

Woman Named in Job Deal Hysterical.

Municipal Judge Joseph Hermes yesterday issued a bench warant for the arrest of J. Edward Cordon, 4441 Lowe avenue, organist for St. Gabriel's Catholic church, who failed to appear in court to prosecute his charge that Mrs. Mary Conroy, 36 years old, 5925 South California avenue, had obtained $1,000 from him under false pretenses.

This was the chief action at the second court hearing during which Judge Hermes, Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes, and Assistant State's Attorney John M. Long have sought to clear up a strange story told by Gordon when he swore out a warant against Mrs. Conroy and appeared in the court as the complainant against her on Nov. 30. At the end of the session the only definite information available was that Mrs. Conroy was hysterical.

Job "Purchased" Charged.

The unusual interest in the case and the appearance of the corporation counsel in court were caused by Cordon's story that Mrs. Conroy, who is employed as a clerk by the board of education, had promised to get him a job as music supervisor in the school for the $1,000 he gave her, but that she failed to keep her promise.

Cordon also reported that he had agreed to pay such a large sum to obtain the job upon Mrs. Conroy's statement that she had to "make a split" with a city hall official. When Mayor Kelly heard the tale he appointed Hodes to "get the facts." This the corporation counsel repeated rather plaintively yesterday when attorneys for Mrs. Conroy demanded a jury trial and a continuance.

Mrs. Conroy was in court weeping bitterly and surrounded by women friends. Cordon did not appear, however, and at the instance of Prosecutor Long and the corporation counsel, Judge Hermes issued the bench warant.

Two lawyers, John Hendrick and George J. Crane, then stepped to the bench and Crane announced that Hendrick was retiring from the case and he was taking it over. He immediately asked for the jury trial and the continuance on the grounds that he had not yet consulted with his client.

Judge Hermes replied that Mrs. Conroy's former lawyer had expressly waived a jury trial. Attorney Hendrick interjected that he had been unable to talk over the circumstances of the case with his client at any time because of her nervous condition, and that she had consequently not been consulted concerning the plea.

Set Bond at $500.

After some consideration Judge Hermes agreed to continue the case until Friday and to have a jury in his courtroom for the trial. At this, Mr. Hodes demanded that Mrs. Conroy, who has not been under bond, be forced to place some security to guarantee her presence on Friday. The judge set the bond at $500, and then said:

"There are many suspicious circumstances in this case. In fact there seems to be a strong suspicion that something has gone on between the defendant, or some one in her behalf, and the complaining witness."

Mr. Hodes nodded vigorously, repeated his desire to "learn just what it's all about" and recalled that after the Nov. 30 hearing the complainant Cordon had acted mysteriously, denying his own identity and telling the prosecuting attorneys when they tried to question him that he was "not Cordon, only a representative of Cordon."

DAKOTA TRADE OFFICIAL TELLS OF DRAKE 'GIFTS'

Jury Hears How Estate Promoters Operated.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

A description of how promoters of the legendary estate of Sir Francis Drake operated in Canton, S. D., where 250 of the 2,542 inhabitants were "contributors" to funds being raised to claim the mythical billion, was given from the witness stand in the federal court of Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday. A jury in the court is hearing the government's mail fraud case against 41 defendants, many of them farmers and business men of Iowa, South Dakota and other central and western states.

A. N. Bragstad, secretary of the chamber of commerce of Canton, was on the witness stand a large part of the day, answering slowly and with apparent reluctance questions put to him by Assistant United States Attorney Austin Hall. He is one of 250 witnesses the government may summon in the trial, which is scheduled to last well into the new year.

What the Promoters Said.

Bragstad, a little man with a poker face, interlaced his fingers and twirled his thumbs as he told under questioning of attending 12 to 15 "Drake estate" meetings in South Dakota and Iowa. Asked what speakers at the meetings said, he replied:

"Well, the estate was to be settled four ways. One-fourth was to go to the British government, one-fourth to the Church of England, one-fourth to Hartzell [Oscar M. Hartzell, principal defendant], and one-fourth to the 'donators' of funds."

A few days before Hartzell's previous trial and conviction on mail fraud charges in Sioux City, Bragstad was told by the promoters: "The estate will pay 1,000 to 1 and so much more it will make your head swim."

Chamber of Commerce "In."

Under cross-examination by Attorney George Crane, who with Attorney Edward J. Hess represents the defendants, Bragstad declared:

"One hundred members of my chamber of commerce are donators [to the Drake estate cause]."

Q.—Did you ever write a letter to England to find out what there was to this Drake estate? A.—Yes, I wrote three, and two to Washington in 1932. I got answers, too.

Q.—Did you show those around? A.—I kept them in my bottom drawer and any of the boys who wanted could look at them. I was too busy to show them to all the donators.

Q.—Did you donate anything after you got those? A.—Yes.

An earlier witness was A. B. Ooms, of Corsica, S. D., who described a meeting at Corsica last Nov. 11 when Charles Storla, of Mitchell, S. D., a defendant, declared it was "only a matter of days and perhaps hours until the deal was finished."

"Some one got up and asked what the returns would show," Ooms said. "Storla told him he'd have more money than he'd know what to do with."

TWO ARMY FLYERS KILLED IN CRASH AT WASHINGTON FIELD

Washington, D. C., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Two army flyers from Mitchell field, Long Island, were killed here today when their plane was caught in a gale as they tried to land it on Bolling field, the army's capital air station.

The aviators were named by the war department as Lieut. Henry H. Geoffrey, whose home is at St. Paul, Minn., and Maj. George E. Rice of Termopolis, Wyo.

The plane had come in from Mitchell field and was attempting to land when it was caught in a strong wind blowing across the flatlands from the Potomac river. Unable to buck the wind, the ship was pushed back and fell on a heavily wooded knoll about 200 yards from the field.

STRIKE HALTS COAL DELIVERY IN SOUTH BEND

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Union drivers halted deliveries from South Bend and Mishawaka coal yards today as the temperature dropped to 12 degrees. Officials of the union asserted demands for a higher wage scale and union recognition have not been met.

Anticipating the strike, consumers flooded coal yards with orders Tuesday, but only a few were filled. Union headquarters said deliveries to schools and hospitals will be permitted, and added the firms that have signed union contracts will be able to care for township poor relief deliveries.

TRANS-ATLANTIC AIR LINE BY 1937 SEEN AS REALITY

Diplomats of 4 Nations to Meet Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Two important developments today indicated that trans-Atlantic air mail and passenger service, long despaired of because of international difficulties, will become a reality by 1937.

Postmaster General Farley announced that he would ask congress at the coming session for funds to start an air mail service between the United States and Europe. Experimental flights would be made next summer and the route opened in the following year.

At the same time the state department announced plans for receiving British, Irish and Canadian missions tomorrow. Definite proposals for the establishment of such a service will be discussed.

Jealousy Stumbling Block.

It has been no secret in aviation circles that the jealousies of foreign nations have prevented the United States from inaugurating a trans-Atlantic air line. Pan-American Airways, which operates the new trans-Pacific route, would have put its new clippers into service over the Atlantic instead of the Pacific if diplomatic red tape had not prevented.

British and French aviation interests refused to permit Americans to establish landing bases over the Bermuda-Azores route. Unable at the time to finance such a service themselves, they contrived by their dog-in-the-manger attitude to deprive the United States of inaugurating regular flying service to Europe, American aviation interests have commented bitterly.

With the successful inauguration of the trans-Pacific air service, representatives of Canada, the United Kingdom, and the Irish Free State became interested in the possibilities of trans-Atlantic service over the northern route. A conference was held at Ottawa and they will arrive here tomorrow to be received by the secretary of state.

Diplomats to Come Along.

Members of the mission will be accompanied by the British ambassador, the Irish minister, and the Canadian chargé d'affaires when they visit Secretary Hull. They will also confer with the interdepartmental committee, recently appointed by the President for the purpose of making observations and collecting information pertaining to civil international aviation in all its phases.

At the Ottawa conference unanimous approval was said to have been given to the starting of survey flights next year and an experimental air mail service.

Insists Poll Is in Error.

Commenting on the Literary Digest poll, which shows a majority voting against the Roosevelt New Deal, Farley said:

"So far as the poll relates to sentiment in the midwest states, like Iowa, it is 100 per cent wrong." He insisted that the President was very strong, not only in that section of the country, but in every part.

"The President will carry as many states next year as he did in 1932," said Farley. Roosevelt carried all except six states at that time. Farley said he believed Roosevelt would win the electoral vote of Pennsylvania, one of the states that voted for Hoover in 1932, and that also there was a good chance of carrying New Hampshire, another of the Hoover states.

"Do you think President Roosevelt can carry Kansas if the Republicans nominate Gov. Landon?" Farley was asked.

"Yes," was the prompt answer.

Says Borah Won't Be Named.

"How about Senator Borah, if he is the Republican nominee?"

"The answer is," said Farley, "that Borah won't be nominated."

He characterized former President Hoover's recent New York speech as the speech of a candidate, and said it was "different" from other Hoover speeches.

Gov. Talmadge of Georgia, Democratic national committeeman for that state, is expected to attend the committee meeting, Farley said. Talmadge is a bitter foe of the President and his renomination. However, Farley said, there would be no attempt to dislodge Talmadge at the committee meeting.

Not Worried About Talmadge.

"I am not worried about Talmadge," he said.

Asked if he would support Senator Norris, independent Roosevelt Republican, for reëlection next year, Farley said.

"I am thoroughly in accord with the President's views regarding Senator Norris' reëlection." The President said recently Norris should be reëlected senator as long as he lives. Norris has been gunning for Farley for a long time, declaring the latter should not hold a cabinet post and at the same time be chairman of the Democratic national committee.

Farley would say nothing about reports that he would resign from the cabinet the first of the year to give his entire time to running the presidential campaign.

ANTI-SALOONISTS URGE ROOSEVELT TO KEEP PLEDGE

St. Louis, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Launching a "new crusade" for prohibition, the Anti-Saloon League of America tonight called upon President Roosevelt to abolish the use of intoxicants at all White House and public functions and, as leader of the repeal movement which promised the saloon would not return, to condemn "publicly and emphatically the violation of his pledge."

The resolution, drafted by Bishop James Cannon Jr., Los Angeles, powerful dry chieftain of prohibition days, was adopted amid the fervid whoops of anti-liquor crusaders gathered here from forty states.

Deploring the "tragic results of repeal, the enormous increase in the sale of intoxicants with the consequent results of increase of drunkenness especially in women and youth, the shocking trafic fatalities and the prevalence of crimes of violence," the resolution continued:

"We call upon President Roosevelt to show his recognition of the distressing conditions which now exist even in Washington, the capital of the country."

James Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians for the past thirteen years, together with five other officer sof the union, has been reëlected without opposition, it was announced yesterday. Balloting was by mail and followed nominations which were made on Nov. 12. At that time the only opposing candidates withdrew. These were for membership on the board of five directors.

HOOVER ASSOCIATES VISIT GOV. LANDON AND CREATE PUZZLE

Topeka, Kas., Dec. 4.—(AP)—A parade of callers on Gov. Alf M. Landon, at least four of them now or at one time closely associated with Herbert Hoover, had observers guessing tonight.

Some wondered whether a busy week of conferences with party leaders presages formal announcement of a Landon candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination.

Since Friday no less than six Republicans of national prominence have called on the Kansas governor, mentioned for the presidency largely because of state governmental economies.

To date, however, Landon has avoided the rôle of a contender for the nomination. He was silent today on the week's developments.

The four visitors now or at one time close to former President Hoover, enigma of the Republican presidential discussions, are:

Mark L. Requa, California national committeeman.

W. M. Jardine, Coolidge secretary of agriculture and minister to Egypt under Hoover.

Others who conferred with Landon are John D. M. Hamilton, general counsel for G. O. P. national committee assigned to party headquarters at Washington, and Edward F. Colladay, national committeeman for the District of Columbia.

All except Requa and Hamilton gave statements or interviews boosting Landon. Hamilton has avoided discussing candidacies.

REPORTS HOOVER TO PRESS ATTACK ON NEW DEALISM

Ex-Secretary Outlines Views of Plans.

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover will intensify his attacks on the New Deal during the coming year, says his former secretary, but not with the idea of gaining public office.

Theodore Joslin, writing in the Dec. 7 issue of Today under the heading, "He Wants Nothing for Himself," denies his former chief is building up a political organization for 1936.

Refreshed from his arduous days in the White House, Mr. Hoover is pictured as taking an increasingly active interest in public affairs. Joslin, who served him from 1931 to 1933, writes:

Reveals Chief Objective.

"He has one particular objective in life today. That is to get the absolutely fundamental national issues before the American people.

"He is the head of the Republican party. That is the party of the opposition. It is the duty of the opposition, as he sees it, fearlessly to project debate on national policies. This is especially true when the principles of the administration mark a departure, to his mind, from the whole American system of government.

"As the titular leader of the opposition, he will go after the merits of the issues hammer and tongs. He will confine his arguments to principles. There will be nothing personal in his criticisms. He never 'smears' men. . . .

Becomes "Fighting Quaker."

"He will be the fighting Quaker this coming year. He will give everything he has to the fight—cold facts, logic, satire, humor. So far as he is concerned, the chips may fall where they may."

Joslin pictures Mr. Hoover as an amiable country squire, who chats with gas station attendants and plumbers, and munches peanuts in the football stadium.

ROOSEVELT FALSE TO HIS PROMISES, BRUCKER SAYS

Ex-Governor of Michigan Addresses G.O.P. Here.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Wilber M. Brucker, former governor of Michigan, told the weekly Republican Round Table at the Hamilton club yesterday noon that President Roosevelt's present activities constitute a confession of weakness as a candidate for reëlection.

He began by saying that for some time the entire country took it for granted that Roosevelt would be reëlected, that it would not be necessary for him to campaign to win a second term. That, he said, was three years ago.

"O, what a change there has been." Mr. Brucker continued. "We now have from his own lips the confession that he must take the stump. His Atlanta speech was a campaign document.

Predicts End of New Deal.

"America has passed completely through the Roosevelt idolatry stage and will sweep the New Deal out, root and branch, in 1936."

Mr. Brucker asserted that Roosevelt promises now are recognized as "utterly false and faithless" and as merely a means of "obtaining something under false pretenses."

He said that Roosevelt would not have been elected in 1932 if the country had known him in his true character.

"Nobody knew by what he said what he had in mind," Mr. Brucker charged, "and now nobody knows what he has in mind no matter what he says."

He paraphrased the "Roosevelt or Ruin" slogan of 1932, making it "Roosevelt and Ruin."

Comprehension Vs. Chaos.

"The present situation," he said, "is a race between comprehension by the people and financial chaos."

Mr. Brucker asserted that every speech or written utterance of President Roosevelt contains at one place or another an effort to "excite the masses."

Harold Beacom, a member of the executive committee of the Illinois Republican Citizens' organization, outlined briefly to those at the luncheon the purposes of the fund raising group, emphasizing a statement that it will not support individual candidates in the April primary.

Robert Tieken announced that the second "roundup" of pledges to help oust President Roosevelt and Gov. Horner will be held by the Republican Reorganization committee in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman on Dec. 17. It was predicted that about 3,000 workers will attend and that the total of pledge cards will exceed 200,000.

WITNESS RELATES 'INSIDE' OF IOWA'S GAMBLING BOMBINGS

Sioux City, Ia., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Attorney General Edward L. O'Connor agreed to withdraw state agents from Sioux City and let the gamblers settle their disputes in their "usual way" in order to avert further bombings, Cornish Beck of Omaha, former manager of the local liquor store, testified today in the O'Connor gambling conspiracy trial.

Beck, the 38th witness called by the prosecution, testified he was "general utility" man for the Democratic administration from October, 1933, to March, 1934, and it was during that time that he approached the attorney general.

"I approached the attorney general because Sioux Cityans were complaining to me that the bombings were ruining business," Beck testified, "and after a two hour conference he agreed to withdraw the agents."

Among the persons who requested Beck to ask the attorney general to withdraw the agents was an important gambler, he testified.

The bombings took place early in 1934. Beck lost his position as liquor store manager early this year. State checkers said they found a shortage of $2,500 in his accounts. The shortage was made up by friends.

INCREASE GRAIN PRODUCTION BY 50 PER CENT: STALIN

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Dec. 4.—Calling for a 50 per cent increase in soviet grain production within the next three or four years in view of the growth in population—estimated at 3,000,000 annually—Josef Stalin addressed the congress of the country's combine operators in Moscow last Sunday. He estimated this year's grain crop at over 100,000,000 tons.

The speech was flavored with optimism, the soviet leader saying that there were no paupers and no unemployment in the soviet union today.

ROOSEVELT BUSY ON SPEECH FOR DELIVERY HERE

Talks with His Fellow Georgia Farmers.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today began preparation of a defense of his agricultural policies for delivery before the American Farm federation at Chicago Dec. 9.

Before setting himself to the task Mr. Roosevelt talked over farm problems with a group of fellow Meriwether county farmers. The farmers were like himself, substantial landlords of the community.

They were invited to the little White House at the insistance of the Rev. W. G. Harry, who alternates between the pulpit of the Presbyterian church and the mayor's chair of Warm Springs. No share croppers or actual tillers of the soil were included in the delegation.

The landlords said the President, who has frequently expressed himself as believing interest rates are too high, promised further agricultural aid in the form of lower interest rates on farm mortgages and land purchases by tenant farmers. Judge Render Terrell of Greenville, a landlord farmer, said the President expressed himself as favoring a maximum rate on farm loans of 3½ per cent.

Federal land banks have cut interest rates from 6 to 5 per cent. Further relief was contemplated under the Frazier-Lemke mortgage act, which was held unconstitutional by the Supreme court. Judge Terrell said he believes the President intends to seek early remedial legislation.

The President hopes to have his Chicago speech completed when he boards his northbound special train here Sunday morning. He has said he may work over a few paragraphs en route.

Three hundred uniformed policemen and 50 detectives, under the command of Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan, will guard President Roosevelt during his brief visit to Chicago next Monday. Detective Sergeants John Warren and Jerry Looney have been assigned as special bodyguards for the President.

Arrangements for the guard detail were made yesterday at a conference attended by police, secret service men, and O. T. Hinkle, general manager of the Union stockyards.

The Presidential special is scheduled to arrive shortly before Mr. Roosevelt addresses the American Farm Bureau federation in the stockyards amphitheater at 10 a. m. Following the speech he will attend a luncheon in the Saddle and Sirloin club. The special train will leave immediately after the luncheon for South Bend, Ind., where the President will receive the honorary degree of doctor of laws from Notre Dame university. The ceremony there will start at 2:30 p. m.

The four are charged with conspiring to evade payment of income taxes of the Louisiana Quarry company.

Christmas Rush Is Near Boom Year Peak.

Santa Claus has combed out his long white wiskers, and already is battling shopping throngs in downtown streets. Stores are gayly displaying Christmas decorations, and the entire shopping district already presents a happy Yuletide spirit comparable to that which has been evidenced only on Christmas eves in the last few years.

Cheered by the optimistic Christmas season prospects which are better than any since the boom years of 1928 and 1929, merchants yesterday chanted the warning refrain: "Do your shopping early." This year's volume of holiday buying will be from 15 to 25 per cent in excess of last year's, store officials said yesterday, considering the figure as a conservative estimate.

Luxury Buying Coming Back.

"Particularly cheering," one official said, "is the type of buying being done this year. In the past few years most purchases were in the necessity or 'useful gift' class. This year the luxury market is booming once again. Of course the bulk of the trade is, as always, in useful gifts. But men in particular are buying luxuries for their wives and sweethearts. Today we sold several mink coats, and two wrist watches, both prices at more than a thousand dollars each, and the sale didn't cause a stir."

Each year the merchants advise early shopping, but this year the warning is particularly fitting. A majority of merchants voiced the same reason for advising early shopping, and a survey of the shopping district by a reporter tended to confirm their statements. With only eighteen shopping days remaining before the Christmas stockings are crammed with gifts, the prospective donor must start purchasing if he wants to avoid the mad, last minute crush, the possibility of being served by irritable, overworked salespersons, and a reduced selection of the goods he wishes to buy.

Some Good Reasons Why.

Among the "shop early" reasons listed by store officials were the following:

With streets and stores already presenting Christmas eve crowds, it is obvious that the week before Christmas will see a jam unequaled in recent years. Officials advise shopping during the next week, and in the morning if possible, to avoid the crowds.

In spite of all the ingenuity of buyers it is certain that the stocks just before Christmas will not offer the wide range of selections that they do now. The lines that are sold out naturally are the most popular.

Thousands of added salespersons are being trained for the Christmas rush. Each salesman now has plenty of time to devote to customers, but by the end of the shopping season many salesmen will be so weary that it will not be humanly possible to give the fast, rapid service of the first few weeks.

A Psychological Advantage.

Finally the store officials—themselves by necessity students of human nature and psychology—offer a psychological reason for early shopping. Shopping before the final big rush is on, when a careful, thoughtful and comfortable selection of gifts is possible, preserves the Christmas spirit, they point out. Last minute shopping, with salespersons tired and less gracious, with pushing and shoving from other last minute shoppers, is more than apt to curdle the milk of human kindness. The spirit of "To give is more blessed than to receive," changes to one of "Thank goodness, Christmas comes only once a year."

According to figures released yesterday by the Association of Commerce the one and one-half million retailers in the nation have hired 300,000 additional salespersons—of whom 30,000 are in Chicago. The final sales figure for the 1935 season will be thirty billion dollars, with some $150,000,000 being spent in Chicago outlets, the release predicted.

BOGAN BANS RAFFLES TO RAISE FUNDS FOR SCHOOL AID SOCIETY

In response to a recent complaint that public school pupils have held raffles in their class rooms in order to raise funds for the School Children's Aid society, William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, yesterday issued an order to principals that teachers be warned against such methods of raising funds. "If the children wish to hold candy sales or use methods of that sort in order to raise money for the school aid group, we permit such practices," Bogan explained, adding that raffles or any form of gambling would not be tolerated in the schools. Funds received by the School Children's Aid society are used to purchase clothing for distribution during the year to needy school children recommended by school principals.

MAYOR DEFENDS CHICAGO'S OWN HOLIDAY BENEFIT

Mayor Kelly said yesterday that the Chicago Bar association's criticism of political charities should not be applied to Chicago's Own Christmas Benefit, of which he is chairman. All funds collected for this organization are audited by the firm of George Rossetter & Co., public accountants, and a report upon how the funds are spent is made public, the mayor stated.

Each family which is to receive aid of the Christmas benefit will be investigated by some church or charitable group. These families are to be chosen from among those who will receive no aid from other charitable groups. Members of the National Guard have agreed to donate their time to prepare the packages which are expected to be sent to 50,000 children.

Charitable persons who wish to donate toys, old or new, to the benefit may leave them at any Chicago police station. The police will collect the toys and they will be taken to the Bridewell where old or broken toys will be repaired and repainted for their distribution, the mayor said.

CHICAGO ROTARY CLUB TO AID TASK OF GOOD FELLOWS

25 Baskets to Be Sent to Needy Families.

BY PHIL MAXWELL.

The Chicago Rotary club, always a Good Fellow at the Christmas season, will deliver twenty-five baskets to needy families, according to Byron O. Jones, chairman of the Rotary sunshine committee. He has had charge of this kindly work since its inception twenty-five years ago, and will supervise the packing of the baskets and their distribution.

"Our Christmas activity is one of the happiest of the whole year," said Mr. Jones. "We will be glad to provide baskets for twenty-five families listed in THE TRIBUNE Good Fellow files." The chairman will be assisted by Richard E. Vernor, president, and members of the Rotary executive committee.

Brings Out Best in Men.

Mr. Jones declares the work of the Sunshine Committee brings out the best in a man. In telling of the work he said: "Several years ago a young fellow, who I thought was rather stuck up, asked if he could help assemble the baskets. I assigned him to sacking the potatoes, one of the dirtiest jobs. He took off his coat, soon had those potatoes packed, and was asking for something else to do."

The happiness that Mr. Jones and the members of Rotary club will enjoy at Christmas time is available to every man, woman, and child in Chicago. It costs so little to be a Good Fellow. Just the price of a basket of food, toys, and candy, and the willingness to take this gift on Christmas eve or Christmas morning to the home of an unfortunate family.

By phoning Superior 0100 and asking for the Good Fellow department you can get the name of a needy family and be enrolled as a Good Fellow. If you wish to write just fill in the coupon which accompanies this story and send to the Good Fellow department, THE TRIBUNE, 1 South Dearborn street.

"Dear Mr. Good Fellow," writes a boy of 14, "won't you please bring a basket to our home at Christmas time? Father has been out of a job for two years and mother is not well.

"I'm pretty old myself—I'm going on 14—and personally I don't care for anything, but it's my little sister, Caroline, that I'm asking for. Even if it were just a small doll, she would get so much joy out of it."

The question of what to do about costly repairs on outmoded trailers used for rubbish removal arose when Joseph Butler, superintendent of streets, appeared to complain that the controler had cut his estimates for the repair and maintenance division from $480,414 to $315,600, a slash of $164,814.

"We are spending $6.50 on repair of trailers for every dollar of inventory value," Butler said.

The Matter of Lamp Posts.

The disclosure that there are 6,000 abandoned lamp posts in the city was made to the aldermen by William A. Jackson, commissioner of electricity. He asked that the committee include an appropriation of $150,000 in the budget for the removal of posts, many of which are trafic hazards. The work could be done, Jackson said, at a cost of $25 per post.

18 STREAMLINED BUSES GO INTO SERVICE TODAY

Eighteen new streamline single deck buses yesterday were delivered to the Chicago Motor Coach company and today are to go into service on route No. 34, the Diversey boulevard line. The new buses brings the total of modern coaches now operated by the company to 48. The program of replacing all present equipment is well under way, according to John A. Ritchie, president.

The new buses will be operated at six minute intervals along the Diversey boulevard line throughout the day, according to Mr. Ritchie.

1936 COUNTY BUDGET BALANCED; ESTIMATES ARE CUT $480,000

The tentative 1936 county budget was brought into balance yesterday at $20,856,000 when Deputy Controler M. J. O'Connor and County Auditor Lee J. Howard cut $480,000 from various departmental appropriations and increased estimated revenues by $90,000. These steps eliminated a $570,000 excess of appropriations over anticipated revenues.

The new figure is $1,932,000 greater than the 1935 corporate [operating] budget. The tentative budget is now expected to go to the finance committee for final approval, probably on Monday, and will be adopted by the county board on the same day.

Assessor John S. Clark expressed dissatisfaction with the reduction of his requested appropriation from $1,443,625 to $1,093,000, or approximately the same as the 1935 figure. He said that unless he is allowed more he will have to discharge 175 employés who are measuring buildings in connection with the quadrennial assessment to be made in 1936.

REQUEST BANKS TO BUY WARANTS FOR SCHOOL PAY

James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, announced yesterday that he had made formal request to the large Chicago banks to purchase additional tax anticipation warants against the 1935 tax levy in order to provide funds to meet the board's payroll this month. The announcement was made after a three hour conference with representatives of the city's largest banks. The banks are to give their answer tomorrow.

McCahey requested the banks to increase from 57 per cent to 65 per cent the purchase of warants against the 1935 levy. The additional 8 per cent would supply the board with $3,400,000 which would be sufficient to meet the month's payrolls. The board at present has no funds to pay teachers this month.

Mr. McCahey said that if the teachers remain unpaid in December local holiday shopping will be seriuosly affected as a large portion of the Dec. 15 payroll would go for Christmas buying.

MAYOR DEMANDS SURFACE LINES END RECEIVERSHIP

Balks Purchase of Cars Pending Unification.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Mayor Kelly declared yesterday that the city will enter no negotiations with the Chicago Surface lines so long as the street car companies are "hiding in the federal court."

His statement had immediate bearing on the proposal of the Surface Lines to buy a hundred modern street cars, but, more broadly, it applied to franchise negotiation as well. So far as the purchase of the new lightweight, noise insulated street cars is concerned, the mayor's stand probably postponed their purchase until late next summer.

The two principal street car companies, the Chicago Railways company and Chicago City Railway company, went into receivership in the federal court shortly after their franchises expired in 1927. Recently a proposal for their reorganization and financial unification was made to Judge James H. Wilkerson, before whom the companies are in receivership, by a committee headed by W. Rufus Abbott, chairman of the board of the Illinois Bell Telephone company.

Possible in Four Months, But——

The proposal received virtually unanimous approval from committees representing various classes of security holders, but still is to be submitted to the security holders themselves. A lawyer familiar with all the ramifications of the traction receivership was asked recently when the street car companies might hope to get out of the federal court through the Abbott reorganization.

"If everything goes smoothly," he replied, "the reorganization can be completed and the properties turned over to the new company by the court in four months, or six at the most. But it is reported that, in spite of the approval of their committees, some of the junior security holders are going to object to the plan. If there is a real fight the matter may very well stay in the federal court as long as two years."

As soon as he was reëlected last spring Mayor Kelly declared that in his opinion the best monument his administration could leave the city would be a modern local transportation system, unified in operation if not in ownership as well, so that a universal transfer system could apply through the city. His remarks yesterday indicated that he has not changed his major objective.

Insists Receivership End.

"I'll be glad to negotiate with the street car people the minute they get out of receivership and are in a position to talk business," he said. "But I'm not going to deal with them while they're hiding in the federal court. So long as they stay there the city has to do all the bargaining. If the companies don't want to accept what we offer they can turn the offer down and keep right on operating under the court's protection."

Even if the street car receiverships are protracted for another year or so, the mayor hopes to get a lever to move the companies to action when the local transportation home rule amendment is submitted to a referendum in April. Under that amendment the city gets home rule in all local transportation matters except valuations and rates, which remain in the hands of the Illinois commerce commission.

Explains His Opposition.

The Chicago Motor Coach company, which has been operating its buses without a city franchise under a Supreme court decision, will have to get a franchise. And the city, through its jurisdiction over service might authorize the bus and "L" lines to put in competing service on routes now served by the Surface Lines. This was well recognized when the amendment was pending before the legislature last June. The principal opposition to it then came from the street car companies.

So far as the new street cars are concerned, Mayor Kelly has given at least three reasons for his opposition to the purchase at this time. At the same time he has emphasized that he is as anxious as anyone else to see the city get more modern transportation facilities.

First of all, Mayor Kelly wishes to avoid any move which the street car companies might later seek to interpret as an encouragement to operate without a franchise. He has expressed a fear that if they bought the new cars, even with the tacit approval of the city, the companies would argue later that that approval obligated the city to give them a franchise more or less on their own terms.

All the Eggs in One Basket.

The mayor is also convinced that the city will get a better bargain in local transportation if it lumps all negotiations, for extensions, modern equipment, universal transfers and possible subways, in a single franchise agreement, instead of attacking the problem piecemeal.

Mayor Kelly's third objection to the street car purchase is that until the city undertakes a comprehensive survey as part of the franchise negotiations, it does not know what type of equipment is best suited to Chicago's transportation problems. He has pointed out that physically the present service has changed little in a quarter of a century. The only new feature has been the introduction of buses, which handle a relatively unimportant portion of the trafic.

The city council local transportation committee has already started an engineering survey of the problem. Some of the questions to be answered include the relative merits of elevated trains, street cars, electric trolley buses, and gasoline buses for various types of service.

The question of a subway for Chicago will probably be reopened, as well as proposals for the removal of the elevated loop. Another proposal which may be investigated is the use of steam railroad rights of way for electric trains giving real rapid transit service within the city limits.

GIRL WINS VENUE CHANGE.

Miss Marjorie Burns, 18 years old, a domestic employed by Mrs. Clara Schwartz, 3307 Grenshaw street, charged with taking silverware and sheets from her employer, obtained a change of venue from the Felony court of Judge Matthew D. Hartigan to the Jury court yesterday.

ROPER TO NAME TRADE ADVISERS TO NIP QUITTING

Reorganization to Retire Bulk of Members.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—To avoid wholesale resignations of business leaders from the business advisory council of the department of commerce, Chairman Henry P. Kendall today revealed that a "reorganization plan" had been worked out whereby most of the members would be automatically retired Jan. 1. Secretary of Commerce Roper will appoint new members, it was stated.

The council was first called in June, 1933, amidst spectacular publicity originating from New Deal press agents to the effect that the President was drafting the business leaders of the nation to advise him in the "war against depression."

Advice Usually Ignored.

But the council soon found that its advice was usually ignored by the President, and that it was to be used only as a "front" when the administration wanted to appear on good terms with business. The members were especially bitter last May when President Roosevelt, by calling the council to the White House just after the U. S. Chamber of Commerce had blasted the New Deal, made it appear that the council favored the New Deal.

A new example of the White House's disregard of the council was made known today. Kendall admitted that immediately after the Supreme court decision invalidating the NRA, President Roosevelt had asked the council to submit a report on legislation intended to "perpetuate the benefits of NRA." The council carefully prepared a report outlining a program but nothing was ever heard of it after it reached the White House. The report apparently did not meet the President's approval and went into the waste basket. The public never even knew of the existence of the report until today.

Limitation Suggested.

In telling of the "reorganization," Kendall said that many members felt that they should devote all their time to private business, but rather than "put themselves in the spotlight" by resignations had suggested a two year limitation on membership, with Roper retaining power to make reappointments or appoint successors.

Asked if there had been any resignations from the council when it met today, Kendall answered with a flat no. He admitted after further questioning that "a few" resignations had been forestalled by adoption of the plan for reorganization, under which 26 new members will be named Jan. 1.

The likable thing about this coat is its lack of cumbersome weight. At the same time it lacks for nothing that will provide comfort and warmth and the qualities that a winter coat leans on to bear up under the gruelling grind of raw, cold days in the open. Tailoring and designing contributed generously in making this coat the outstanding coat it is, but they are deserving of no more praise than the texture, luster, and softness of the fabric to which this town Ulster owes its look of luxury and enviable reputation for wear.

NAZIS EMBARGO MARKS HELD IN FOREIGN LANDS

See Virtual Repudiation as Effect of Ban.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 4.—Germany today placed an embargo on its own reichsbank notes, effective Dec. 6. The stringent measure, which is considered in effect a repudiation of notes held abroad, places control under customs law and marks can be imported only by special permission. Recipients of such imports must report them within three days and utilize them as directed by the exchange control authority.

Foreign tourists may bring in only 30 marks [$12] in bank notes, which implies they will be subject to search on entering Germany, as they are now subject to search when leaving.

Expect Dumping of Marks.

The only way left open by today's decree to utilize marks now held abroad is to send them to specified German credit institutions for deposit on blocked account for the benefit of foreigners.

The new order is expected to lead to dumping of marks abroad to such an extent that marks will be worth but a fraction of their nominal value [40 cents].

The embargo places the mark beside the Russian ruble and the Italian lira as a purely domestic currency, the parity of which is determined by government fiat.

One hundred and eighty confessional pastors of Berlin-Brandenburg held a synod today at Dahlem in defiance of Monday's decree by Hans Kerrl, Nazi minister for church affairs. The edict forbids church organizations to collect funds, hold synods, or ordain ministers.

The pastors unanimously rejected Kerrl's decree because "despite Kerrl's assurances it represents interference in church liberty and violates the fundamental right to preach the gospel. The edict establishes a régime which the church cannot accept because it conflicts with its sacred duty of obedience to God's word."

Baked by Own Committee.

While unanimity of opinion was revealed in the Dahlem synod, a stormy session took place in Kerrl's church ministry. The church committee appointed by Kerrl himself on Oct. 15 assembled there this afternoon and energetically protested against the fact that Kerrl had issued the all important edict without consultation.

The national and Prussian church committees first heard of the decree through the German newspapers. The dean of the council, Dr. Zoellner, was indignant and it is expected that many members of the council, including several non-Confessional pastors, will resign.

GERMANY MUST REGAIN COLONIES, NAZI CHIEF SAYS

HAMBURG, Germany, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Gen. Franz Ritter von Epp, governor of Bavaria, told a mass meeting tonight the only remaining colonial questions for Germany are: "How and where?"

"The German people agree on the necessity of colonial demands," he said. "The question now is, how and where? We cannot take colonies from other countries, but to own our former colonies we have a decidedly clear legal right."

He added that colonies were necessary for raw materials and as an outlet for German initiative, but said Germans planned no imperialistic colonial policy.

2 NIGHT CLUB AIDS CALLED SLAYERS OF TWO OFFICERS

Tulsa Owner Also Held —Charge 'Holdup.'

Tulsa, Okla., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Two employés of a Tulsa dance club were charged with murder late today in the killing of a federal officer and a former policeman, shot after they were ejected from the club which Gov. E. W. Marland had ordered closed.

Tyree Parks, doorman, and George L. [Hickory] McCullough, another employé, were charged with slaying Louis Pappan, internal revenue agent, and George Stewart, former police captain. Roy Staley, proprietor, was in custody, but no formal charge was filed against him.

The department of justice sought to determine if Pappan was on "official duty" when he visited the place with Stewart last night. Vernon Huston, a cab driver, said Pappan told him he had inspected beer licenses in two other places earlier in the evening.

Charge Holdup Atttempt.

Staley told officials the two men were ejected when they attempted to hold up his club. McCullough made a similar statement.

At Oklahoma City, Gov. Marland disclosed he ordered County Attorney Holly Anderson to close the club last night a few hours before the shooting occurred. Anderson said he passed the order on to Sherif Garland Marrs, but Marrs insisted he had not received it.

Marrs said he had raided the club thirteen times without locating gambling equipment, but that a truckload of gambling paraphernalia was confiscated today from a next-door house.

Gang Hangout, Says Governor.

"I was interested in conditions there, and now that something has happened I'll give all the aid at the state's command to get to the bottom of the affair," Marland said.

"The county attorney discussed with me the wide open gambling plants in and around Tulsa and Tulsa county. During the discussion the Sheridan night club was mentioned.

"I told him that if I were looking for criminals, that would be the first place I would go in Tulsa county."

PAY MARQUETTE TRIBUTE AT SITE OF HIS LANDING

Tribute to the memory of Father Jacques Marquette, French missionary, who 261 years ago paddled his canoe into the Chicago river, was paid yesterday in a ceremony at the Michigan avenue bridge, the site where the explorer landed to build the first rude log hut where the city was later to be. Participating in the ceremony were Rene Weiller, French consul general; the Rev. W. Eugene Shiels, dean of history of Loyola university, and Quin O'Brien, assistant corporation counsel, who represented Mayor Kelly.

Bandit Gets 17 Years

Chief Justice Denis J. Normoyle of the Criminal court sentenced Alfred Ellicock, 37 years old, a painter, to seventeen years in the penitentiary yesterday, on his plea of guilty to murder, for his part in the slaying of Joseph Moravec, 1346 South Kenilworth avenue, Berwyn, on Nov. 9.

Ellicock and two other men, Burl Harrison, 36, and Frank Perette, 43, participated in the robbery of Moravec's meat market. Moravec fatally wounded Harrison, and was himself killed. Policemen shot and killed Perette when they captured Ellicock.

In the courtroom were Mrs. Ellicock and the widows of Moravec, Harrison, and Perette. Each of the three widows sat weeping as Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach pleaded for leniency for Ellicock, pointing out that he merely had driven the car used in the robbery and had not actually participated in the shooting. Each of the widows testified at the hearing to determine sentence after Ellicock had pleaded guilty.

In imposing sentence Judge Normoyle pointed to Ellicock's record, which included twelve robberies.

Perjury Charge Against Woman Witness Dropped

A charge of perjury against Mrs. Anna Fishbain of Cleveland was nol prossed in the Criminal court of Judge Joseph B. David yesterday. The state admitted that Mrs. Fishbain did not willfully tell an untruth when she sought to support the alibi of Frank Shafer, who was convicted of robbing the Pure Oil Products company, 1030 Division street, on July 20. Mrs. Fishbain testified that she was with Shafer in Cleveland at the time of the robbery. Later she admitted her error.

CHINA CLIPPER AT HONOLULU ON HOMEWARD HOP

HONOLULU, T. H., Dec. 4.—(AP)—The China Clipper completed the fourth leg of her first eastward trans-Pacific flight at 5:27 p. m. [9:57 p. m., Chicago time] arriving here after a hop from Midway Islands requiring 9 hours 45 minutes.

After Capt. Edwin Musick and his crew glided the 25 ton air mail carrier to a landing, ending the 1,323 mile flight, three customs men examined baggage of Pan-American Airways' employés who were brought here from Midway and Wake Island bases.

The China Clipper has slightly more than 13,900 miles to her record since leaving Alameda, Cal., Nov. 22 for Manila to establish air mail service. The Pan-American Airways' air mail charter allows 70 hours for the eastward crossing. It took about 60 hours' flying time from Alameda to Manila, 8,000 miles. Tomorrow afternoon, at Musick's discretion, the ship will leave for Alameda. It is due "home" Friday afternoon.

FIRE DRIVES 20 TO STREET.

Twenty persons were driven to the street yesterday when fire attacked an apartment building at 1941 Ballou street.

CHAUFFEUR INHERITS MISTRESSES' WEALTH; RULES OVER MANSION

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 4.—(AP)—For 25 years Samuel Boyd was a chauffeur, but now he is master of the big house on the hill. He became heir today to the mansion and a fortune of nearly $200,000 bequeathed by his employers, Margaret Nelson, and her sister, Julia.

Boyd, 50, and head of a family, closed the doors to visitors and declined to talk about his plans or the Misses Nelson.

Boyd became more of a son to the women during his years in their service. Only two others shared in the estate—two cousins received $18,000 each.

The chauffeur, his children, and grandchildren lived in the big house part of the time, aiding the sisters in their hobby of keeping the lawns and garden in perfect shape. Margaret Nelson, 70, died last March, a few months after the death of her elder sister.

THE MAKEUP OF THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan in suggesting a course of action to the Republicans arranging the Fort Wayne conference of this week said that he had urged the party in Michigan to choose a representative delegation to the national convention without instructions and in expectation that it would be part of a deliberative assembly not committed in advance to candidates or partisan ambitions. Mr. Vandenberg himself is frequently mentioned as a possible nominee of the convention, but he puts himself above reproach in emphasizing the spirit which should prevail in the convention itself.

The Republican party is a great section of American citizenship in which, for the great majority, the party does not mean an organization by which personal advantage is to be obtained, but a body for political decision and action, designed for the best interests of the country as these citizens see it. In normal political times it is to be expected that candidates will seek the support of various elements in the party and go into the convention to make a fight for the nomination.

If it's a free-for-all fight there may be many candidates and they may resort to all manner of political dicker and manipulation. They will make promises and bargains and endeavor to attract support by trading in offices and places. America gets a good deal of its government in this fashion from one party or the other and it does not work out so badly when the country's going along at an even pace, untroubled by questions affecting its future in a large and serious way.

Hardly any one needs to be told that the present makes different demands upon a party if it is to be worthy at all of a place in American government. Political action must rise above its normal trends when unusual and dangerous conditions are existent or threatening.

The political defeats of the last few years have about rid the Republican party of any domineering machine control and it should be easier for the citizens who give the party its place in the nation's affairs to make their convention what they know it should be, not an assemblage of partisan groups concerned with personal ambitions and individual advantages, but a gathering of men who have come together to discuss their country's prospects, examine its very serious problems, and make decisions which will start with manifest honesty of purpose and come to the best conclusions possible.

The professional politicians themselves should see that it is to their own self-interest not only to permit this to be done but to do everything in their power to bring it about. They will not gain anything if the party disappoints its best elements and thereby prepares itself for a repetition of 1932. The first judgment passed upon the party in the campaign of 1936 will be based upon the character and the acts of the Republican national convention. If as a body of men this convention clearly demonstrates its worth and its honest intentions, the first battle of the campaign will be won.

BORROWING FROM THE DICTATORSHIPS.

Mayor La Guardia's encouragement of manhandling of gangsters by the New York police is in the spirit of European tyranny. It has no place in the United States. It is a breach of law and civil right worthy of any of the dictatorships, proletarian, so-called, or Fascist. Mayor La Guardia and a good part of the city of New York have little of the American character. But there ought to be enough foresight among its people to forecast the inevitable eventual result of the mayor's disregard of lawful restraint upon police methods. Lawless treatment of gangsters will not stop with gangsters. It did not begin with gangsters.

Mayor La Guardia has shown on more than one occasion his lack of understanding of American institutions and convictions, but if a large part of his community share that lack they ought at least to foresee that a police encouraged in lawlessness will not limit their methods to the lawless.

There is no worse fallacy than the notion that the conditions of crime in America justify licensing the police to use any method they may think is effectual to discipline or suppress criminals, regardless of law. Crime can be restrained and punished within the law if the law is faithfully enforced. To encourage lawlessness in the representatives of the law is to destroy any reliable distinction between lawfulness and lawlessness and to deprive the law abiding of the security law and lawful government are created to establish and maintain.

That is Americanism. Mayor La Guardia and New York need to discover it.

THE CITY COMES FIRST.

The usual resistance to a consistent system of street naming which the City club, with support of the newspapers, has been urging upon city councils for twenty years or more reappears in the latest effort. There are natural objections for which we have some sympathy. Nevertheless, the council owes it to the city and to the great majority of its business enterprises and of its inhabitants to overrule them.

It is natural, for example, that people who have long lived on a street and thus come to have a sentiment for its name should object to a change. But this sentiment should give way to a stronger sentiment for the city and an intelligent recognition that community life involves some sacrifices of personal and local preferences for the common interest. It is the duty of the council to represent the latter whenever it clashes with the former, and the same duty rests upon the individual citizen. When an alderman asserts that the naming of a street or the change of a street is solely the right or concern of property owners or dwellers on the street he is wrong in law, in principle, and in public policy. If a street name is inconsistent with an orderly system, as many present names are, it is a concern of the whole community because it results in confusion which is costly to all the people, increasing the cost of delivery of mail and commodities and the inconvenience of movement. Sentiment for street names is commendable and changes should not be made, as they have been, under pressure of organized minorities in defiance of local preference and without relation to any consistent plan. But where, as in the case of a well considered plan such as the students of street naming, notably Mr. Brennan of the City club committee, propose, local preferences should give way to the general public interest.

Apart from sentimental preferences there has been objection on the ground of business or property interest, alleged sincerely, against changes. Some owners or occupants seem to feel that to be on an avenue or parkway is preferable to being on a street. But these objections should give way to the whole city's interest in a consistent system, and we appeal to the civic loyalty of all objectors to recognize the greater good. Whether they do, and most of them will, it is the council's duty to recognize it and to adopt a consistent city system too long postponed.

1936 LICENSE PLATES.

Automobile licenses for 1936 are now on sale in Chicago and Springfield. The law requires motorists to display their new license plates on Jan. 1. It is a law which has never been enforced though it should be. Generally the police wait until March or April before taking action.

There are about half a million automobiles in Chicago, each of them a traveling advertisment of the state of law enforcement and tax collection in the community. If the cars carry old license plates, the inference is obvious; the old plates advertise a sleazy citizenship and a cowardly police administration, afraid to do its duty for fear of offending somebody.

A determination to enforce the license law is reached as easily in January as in April. A few motorists would grumble, but the improvement in the morale of the community would be substantial.

Citizens who wish to advertise their respect for law and who are not ashamed to have it known that they pay their debts promptly will get their new licenses now. They won't be cheaper in March than they are today.

A HISTORIAN COMES HOME.

James Truslow Adams, the American historian, is back on his native soil, warning his fellow countrymen against dictatorships. After residence abroad Mr. Adams rededicates himself to America because, as he says, the air of Europe has become intolerable. Freedom cannot breathe there. Although the British have kept out the false gods the contamination is close at hand. The continent is under the terror.

The dark ages have actually returned. Enlightenment has retreated. Intelligence hides. The human graces are banished. Tolerance, good will, liberty, and temperance are fugitive. People fear and hate each other. The sources of white civilization are poisoned and the greatest age of useful science which could raise life to higher levels is defeated in its purposes by the hysteria of masses destroying the values without which they cannot live.

The remaining free people are justly alarmed. When so large a portion of the world seems bent upon self-destruction, when the European state of mind is so little credible, people wonder how any security can be preserved anywhere. Eternal watchfulness is the word. Rights may be easily lost and hardly regained.

Editorial of the Day

A SHOCK FOR THE POLITICIANS.

[Cedar Rapids Gazette.]

Regardless of what one may think of the logic underlying the economies of the Townsend whirligig pension plan, there can be no pooh-poohing the fact that Townsendites gave an impressive demonstration of political potency last week. In one of the Michigan congressional districts—the one that encompasses the cities of Battle Creek and Kalamazoo—primary elections were held to nominate a candidate for a vacancy in congress caused by the death of a Republican representative. The results gave political bigwigs of both major parties something to think about through the long winter nights.

Five would-be congressmen were seeking the Republican nomination. One of them, one Verner W. Main, campaigned as a champion of the Townsend plan. The district is normally conservative; it gave former President Hoover a majority in 1932. Nevertheless, this man Main polled more votes than all the regular Republicans combined. He beat the organization candidate by more than 8,000 votes. He will run as the G. O. P. standard bearer with the organization's support in the election next month.

Democratic and Republican party leaders are wondering whether that startling Michigan victory for a group that hasn't been taken very seriously is a significant straw in the wind. Certainly it adds substance to Dr. Townsend's assertion that he now has more followers than Hoover had in 1932.

Whatever power the Townsendites do have they are likely to wield with considerable skill. Their leaders are utilizing the services of several professional reformers who formerly made their living working for the Anti-Saloon league—men who know the political ropes. It is hardly likely that, even under such expert direction, the Townsend movement will become a major factor in the 1936 campaign, but there will be other elections after 1936, probably. It would be a mistake for the major parties to take the Townsendites too lightly.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

MUSSOLINI'S desperate attempts, Hitler's daily purges, putschs, and edicts, Stalin's crushing blows all remind us that a dictator is exactly like Alice in Wonderland. "Run," says the Red Queen, grasping little Alice's hand, "run, run." And little Alice runs as fast as her legs can go. "Faster, faster! gasps the Red Queen, and little Alice runs so fast that the trees and the bushes and the houses along the way seem to reel past her at the most terrifying speed. Finally the Red Queen stops and Alice takes a breath and looks around her. "Why," she gasps, "we're just where we started." "But here," said the Red Queen, "it takes all the running you can do to keep in the same place." It's just that way with dictators. They must run faster, faster all the time, and make a lot of noise and never get anywhere. But it takes all the running they can do to stay where they started.

SHARON.

Shall I then sing of Sharon, I who of love know this—
That it is but a barbed and bitter measure of bliss?
Shall I then mention Sharon, knowing the sound thereof
Will but chime and reëcho the palpitant thing called love?

Who more foolish than I to seek in an olden mine
What more foolish than seek to grow in a fallow field

But at the sound of Sharon I shall forget the past:
Home is a haven to him who finds it at the last.
I shall have sailed the seas, but ever return again
With a gladness born of longing, to where I should like to remain.

Arms there were with a glory, but Sharon's more glorious far
As a flicker of flame in the evening to the glow of a flaming star;
Lips with the curve of a blossom, but Sharon the blossom in bloom,
Marry a fire to the softness and I shall be the groom. . . .

Why, as I flick the pages, this is a lovely book
Headed with love and laughter—why should I fear to look
Into a volume freighted with much of shiningness!
What though the glory blind me, shall I then read the less?

Softly, the name of Sharon—all the air shall resound,
Falling in waves in the stillness to settle at length on the ground,
Leaving the name of Sharon silvery throughout the land,
And none that finger its pollen shall fail to understand. . . .

THE YEAR 1935, which, like the Lady Godiva after her famous ride, is now hurrying to its close, has been momentous, dynamic, cataclysmic, and has brought us up to the threshold of we know not what. But all the great events, the lesser happenings, the raging of dictators, the amusing gyrations of the Brain Trusters, sports, politics, automobiling, the changing seasons, the strange antics of the young, the much stranger antics of the old, the still stranger and much weirder performances of the middle aged, glimpses of our very best people, and furtive glances at our very worst people—all have been reflected and caught and retained forever in the Line o' Type or Two. And the best of them, together with poems somber and gay, have been compressed in the new Linebook of 1935.

OLD SEA CAPTAIN.

A barkentine with decks all broken,
You still have cargo in your hold:
The spice of talk; the lace of wisdom;
Content, like an oak-chest brimmed with gold.

Ports you touched are closed to me,
Their harbors drifted full of sand,
But in your talk I make again
The gallant voyages you planned.

Wide gray curtains of the north,
Tropic pathways through the south,
By your voice grow strange and real
As sweet brown sugar in the mouth.

From picture port to wonderland
The barkentine will always sail,
And find the harbors, still unchanged,
And have a wind that shall not fail!

DIET DEFICIENCIES.

Part I.

So much has been written about diet that it is no wonder readers have difficulty in separating the wheat from the chaff. In spite of, rather than by virtue of, the millions of words that have appeared in both lay and scientific journals, we are forced to the conclusion that dietary deficiencies are real and of the greatest importance.

The history of scurvy, for example, is the tale of a prolonged struggle with a problem that now appears fairly simple. All we need to do is to make certain that each individual receives a relatively small amount of such foods as fresh fruits, especially citrus fruits [oranges, lemons, limes, grapefruits], and green vegetables. Any one of these foods will prevent the onset of the disease and relieve the symptoms once they have become manifest.

Sometimes the diets of prospective mothers are deficient in one or more necessary elements, and there are many instances in which newborn infants have succumbed because the blood of the mother was unable to supply adequate nourishment to the developing fetus.

Not infrequently digestive disturbances in children are found to be due to a deficiency of vitamin B; in fact, the average schoolchild must be watched for this particular vitamin fault, inasmuch as a diet of cereal from which the germ of the seed has been removed, starches, and meats is exceedingly poor in vitamin B values. Natural foods contain sufficient quantities of vitamin B; artificially refined foods may not.

When the body shows improper food assimilation the questions arise: [1] Is the proper type of food available? [2] Is it eaten? [3] Is it digested and hence assimilated? Appetites may be finicky and the child may take a sudden liking to one type of food to the neglect of others. Furthermore, gastrointestinal upsets, such as vomiting and diarrhea, may deprive the body of foods partially or wholly digested and ready for assimilation. An individual may show signs of real vitamin deficiency despite the fact that an adequate amount of these important elements has been taken with the food. Because of poor assimilation cases of sore eyes, skin eruptions, and other manifestations have been noted as indicating a lack of vitamin A.

Even in the presence of poor absorption an ounce of cod liver oil added to the daily diet usually results in a complete cessation of symptoms. Most of us have observed youngsters with chronically red eyes, not due to infection or dust, but because vitamin A was fed in insufficient amounts.

Then again there are some individuals who suffer from many types of obscure complaints. These patients may be classed as neurotics and visit physician after physician, finally landing in the hands of a psychiatrist. No amount of character analysis, psychoanalysis, or psychological investigation will change the picture.

The case is reported of a 58 year old man who began complaining of increased nervousness. Pains and aches appeared in various parts of the body. At times the symptoms were apparently traced to certain organs, nerves, or other structures; at other times these pains and aches appeared to be elusive. There was marked fatigue, weakness, and inability to pursue a given task consistently. About the only constant symptom was a certain amount of muscular weakness with the sensation of tingling in the extremities. Loss of weight was not appreciable. There was some swelling of the ankles and the lower legs.

Apparently no one thought that diet should be considered until it was discovered that there was a marked tendency to bruise easily [a prominent symptom of scurvy]. The patient stated that he could not strike the edge of a table, a chair, or any other hard object without finding a black and blue spot a day or two later.

A careful study was made of his food intake and it was found that while plenty of starches and fats and a fair amount of proteins were used, citrus fruits and fresh vegetables were practically absent. Under a diet that increased protein, raw vegetables, and fruits, the patient's restoration to health was rapid and complete.

PROBABLY BRONCHITIS.

C. H. S. writes: My mother, 87 years old, has been troubled for the last three years with raising phlegm which comes from the stomach and the gullet. What can be done?

REPLY.

Your mother is probably suffering from chronic bronchitis. There are certain drugs, called expectorants, which will aid in loosening and softening the mucus and hence facilitate its removal from the bronchial tubes. Your physician can prescribe a cough mixture that will assist drainage and allay irritation.

BLUE SKY.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 29.—Today I heard the President speak at Atlanta. He again demonstrated his unequaled power as a blue sky salesman.

He made a new point clear. Bankers—names not mentioned—said this nation could stand a sixty billion dollar debt without impairing it seriously. Now this means that the President could promise to keep it under that amount. Herein he paved the way to tell the people he wanted more money because he could raise the debt to fifty billion or more and still say it was less than the bankers proposed; this was a real stroke of the old time salesmanship.

He also showed great skill in answering the critics by saying that we are on a third class ration now, and to make it a second class ration we would have to increase our production; he also said that to have a first class ration we would have to put more land in cultivation and raise more than we ever did. But he did not promise to do it. At the same moment his right hand messenger boy, Mr. Wallace, is paying vast sums of public money to keep the farmers from producing. How come?

He is going in to destroy profit. He did not say a word of how he would pay. He says our debts are an investment. He shrewdly neglected to say we are to pay our own interest and profit on our own debts. He refuses, as does his secretary, to say why the farmers have to be paid to do what is better for them.

The President has sold the people more blue sky than all the private buccaneers were able to sell the people from Washington's time to 1930; yet the people like it. JOHN C. HUBBIRT.

Peoria, Ill., Dec. 2.—In his Atlanta speech Mr. Roosevelt, as usual, showed no slight of the first personal pronoun. The speech contained eighty-five sentences. The score for the pronoun was as follows:

I	44 times
ME-MY	12 times
WE	29 times
Total	85

H. S. W.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—President Roosevelt, in a speech made yesterday at Atlanta and addressed to the American people, extoled at length the accomplishments of his administration in carrying the country forward and out of depression.

Mr. Roosevelt stated he believed the people would agree with him that the result "constitutes a substantial and successful national achievement." Doubtless the job of levying the taxes and collecting them and borrowing the other moneys, plus mapping out the "various useful projects," was quite a chore. Mr. Roosevelt did not state how many thousands of people were required to do it nor how many millions of money went into the machinery of it. But how the whole thing constitutes any real progress out of depression or real improvement of conditions is hard to see. Not only three million people, but a number of times that many, could be put to work on "projects" as long as the money of the taxpayers plus the credit of the United States held out. But when the end of the purse was reached we would be where we started except for the mountain of debt which had been piled up.

Why did not Mr. Roosevelt say that no one had been allowed to starve and let it go at that? E. A. B.

MARK TWAIN AT HEIDELBERG.

Chicago, Dec. 2.—Mark Twain loved to spend summers at Heidelberg. He could frequently be seen seated in the Schlossgarten with his family enjoying the beautiful surroundings.

We American students decided to give him a dinner and invited the university professors to take part in the feast which cost us 75 pfennigs per plate. Preceding the meal we had a chat with him and every time he opened his mouth to speak there was a roar of laughter, before he even uttered a word, as evidence of our appreciation of his fame as a humorist.

The subject of his after dinner speech [which I believe is incorporated in his published works] was the German language. He ridiculed its pomposity, to the tremendous resentment of Professor of Jurisprudence Johann Bluntschli, who, although a Swiss, turned scarlet with rage at the tactlessness of that insolent American, and said so loudly to the assembled audience.

Mark Twain on a previous occasion, as will be remembered, was carried away by his sense of fun in the Emerson group of the Boston intelligentsia when he spoke to them in a hilarious and unphilosophical vein, to the chagrin of his solemn listeners.

The location of his soul is uncertain in the light of his remark that he preferred heaven for climate and hell for society. I shall never forget the warm grasp of his friendly hand. EDWIN J. KUH.

AFTER-THEATER SPECIAL.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—The correspondent who complained that he has to stand on the platform while riding the Lake street "L" to work should try to get home with the after-theater crowds on Saturday night.

While four and five car trains are being run on frequent schedules north and south, a two car train every half hour serves Lake street after 12:30 a. m. Five hundred persons are usually jammed into the 1 a. m. "L." At Clark and Lake you are fortunate if you can get onto the car platform, and passengers who want to board at the Lake street transfer are frequently forced to wait for the next train.

Standing on the platform is a pleasure; inside the car you are immobile, your arms pinioned to your sides, breathing foul air and the coughs and sneezes of your neighbors.

Neither the Rapid Transit company nor the board of health seems to be interested. Could you ask the Humane society to investigate and intercede for us poor goats? A. E. N.

SUGGESTION.

Berwyn, Ill., Nov. 27.—The recent trial of Sweitzer, in which an array of clergy, judges, and prominent business men testified as to the good character and reputation of Mr. Sweitzer prior to his indictment, should make us pause and think. What effect did these witnesses have upon the jury? Where the facts indicate defalcations extending over a period of years, is it ethical for clergymen and others to assist the accused in securing an acquittal? It might be a good idea for these same individuals to pool their resources now and assist Mr. Sweitzer in making restitution in order that the bulk of the citizens may not have to stand the loss. W. W. H.

THE HOPE OF PEACE.

Chicago, Dec. 2.—Skeptics like your correspondent, Mr. Drenkow, retard the hope of peace.

Some people are big enough to extend their sympathy to Italy, Germany, and Japan for their economic troubles even if they heartily disapprove of war as a method of solution. Especially do they sympathize with England because she has the vision to see that, if there is ever to be peace on earth, now is the time to work for it.

The league of nations is the machinery for the settlement of disputes by peaceful means, no matter what skeptics and critics may say. It is not all-powerful because it has not 100 per cent coöperation yet. But it has accomplished much that is entirely constructive.

The fact that all nations used war as a method in the past is no reason why they should go on using a method that has proved futile, disastrous and destructive, and which is not necessary if we would cease to be skeptical and learn to coöperate. The responsibility for keeping the peace is not the responsibility of one country but of all, and is in the interests of all civilization. HILDA SMITH.

TENANTS IN COMMON.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—With the object of eliminating one heir and having a joint tenancy among the remaining three heirs, the four heirs signed a deed to a piece of Chicago real estate to a bachelor, who signed it back to the three heirs. The final paper makes no mention of a specific kind of title; just quitclaims in favor of and gives the three names. 1. What kind of a title have we? 2. Can it be used as a joint tenancy? 3. The transaction was handled by a lawyer. A. L.

1. Tenants in common.
2. Not without an additional exchange of deeds.
3. It would seem to us at least as probable that you are mistaken in your facts as that the lawyer would have made such a mistake of law.

To create a joint tenancy in real estate the conveyance should expressly declare that title is to pass not in tenancy in common but in joint tenancy. [Ill. Revised Statutes, chapter 76, section 1.] If title is already in one of the parties it should be deeded to a third person who is not subject to judgment liens. He should then deed back to the two, using a joint tenancy form, which can be secured from a stationer.

To create a joint tenancy in personal property the "will or other instrument in writing" should express "an intention to create a joint tenancy . . . with the right of survivorship." [Section 2.] Under the statute we consider it advisable not to rely on the wording of a stock certificate nor on the fact that the parties have joint access to a safety box. The intention should be expressed in writing by the owner or owners. On the death of a joint tenant the property passes to the survivor without necessity for probate and to the exclusion of the heirs or devisees of the one who dies first. The one-half that thus passes by survivorship is subject to inheritance tax.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY LLOYD FANGEL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—An expenditure of $100,000,000 for the construction of vast underground oil storage tanks, safe from aerial attacks, has just been advocated by Col. Whiston A. Bristow.

Speaking before the Royal United Service institute, Col. Bristow referred to the government's proposal to spend the huge amount of $500,000,000 on road improvement and suggested that a national oil storage scheme should come first.

"In the event of another European war," he said, "we would require a great deal of oil, because while our navy and air force are wholly dependent upon oil it is also vital to the army.

"These underground depots must be in the open country, and grass and trees must be grown above them so that the closest inspection from the air will not reveal anything.

"These depots would be connected with the coast by pipe line, and it might be desirable to connect the whole system by pipe line. Its existence might conceivably save the country."

Col. Bristow suggested that the minimum capacity of the buried oil tanks be 5,000,000 tons, but in view of the navy and mercantile marine 8,000,000 tons would be preferable.

He said that last month Lloyd's was asked to quote a flat insurance rate to cover cargoes of oil to Britain in the event of any European war breaking out. The written reply from Lloyd's ended:

"We do not think that this is a proposition that any underwriter will entertain."

The position, said Col. Bristow, is fraught with danger, and as the nation's present main oil storage centers are nearly all less than an hour's flight from the Belgian coast it was probably fair to say that these depots, no matter how strongly they might be defended by aerial forces, could be attacked and destroyed within a week of the beginning of hostilities.

Babes in Toyland
Being the Rhymed Record of a Thrilling Adventure on the Fourth Floor of MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY
THE STORE OF THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT
If Nurse had known what we had planned,
She would have made us stay in.
For Marshall Field's is quite the nicest
Place to run away in.
We know exactly where to go
To see a million Toys.
The Fourth Floor has a billion-trillion
Things for girls and boys.
We're sure that if we had those blocks,
We'd build a house so tall
That all the fairy-story folk
Would LOVE to come and call.
I've never seen such lovely dolls!
But Junior says they're NOT. He's Decidedly a devotee
Of terriers and Scot-ties.
We wouldn't have to wait until
The circus comes to town,
If we could own a monkey and
A camel and a clown.
In our opinion, Santa Claus
Should take tremendous pride in
His skillfulness at thinking up
So many things to ride in.
If we should get a Movie Set,
Collectively we've vowed
To write upon our playroom door:
"ADULTS are NOT allowed."
It does no good to hide our games—
The grown-ups come and scour
The playroom high and low, as though
There WERE no Children's Hour.
When Mother brings us down to Field's,
She always leaves us here—
The Fourth Floor Playroom—while she shops
At any time of year.
Perhaps I'll be an engineer;
Perhaps, an architect.
With Toys like these, I can't be long
Deciding, I expect.
I'd really like to chat some more,
Although I hadn't better.
At any rate, prepare yourself
To get a nice, lo-o-o-ong letter.
Don't ever disobey when Nurse
Says go instead of stay.
For if you're good, the Toys will come
To YOUR house, Christmas Day!

JOB INSURANCE PLAN IS HEADED TOWARD SHELF

House Proponents Win Temporary Victory.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Proponents of unemployment insurance won what most legislative observers believe is only a temporary victory today when they succeeded in having two bills taken from the judiciary committee and placed on second reading on the house calendar.

This progress, leaders on both sides of the house feel, brought the subject of jobless compensation about as close to passage as it will get during this special session. The members are restive and want to adjourn. Next week or the following week may bring that adjournment.

Expect Commission Study.

Predictions are that approval of a commission to study the problem and report to the regular session in 1937 will be about the extent of the work of this session on the subject. Such a bill is on third reading in the house. It failed to pass yesterday, but the belief is that the commission will be sanctioned once the roll is called and the Horner administration's unemployment insurance bill fails to pass.

Representative R. G. Soderstrom [Rep., Streator], president of the State Federation of Labor, secured progress for the compensation bills today. These measures present two different plans of conserving the funds which would be collected from a pay roll tax and eventually distributed to the jobless.

Labor Prefers State Pool.

The Horner administration, which is sponsoring unemployment insurance at the behest of the New Deal, caused introduction of the Rategan-Noonan bill calling for the dumping of all funds into a state pool. The other scheme is represented by the Sinnett-McClure bill under which employers would set up their own reserves to the extent of 10 per cent of their annual pay roll, after which taxation would cease until the reserve had been depleted by payments.

Labor, as represented by Mr. Soderstrom and by Victor A. Olander, secretary-treasurer of the State Federation, prefers the state pool.

PIQUETT GRANTED DELAY IN FIGHT ON DISBARMENT

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday granted Louis P. Piquett, attorney for the late John Dillinger and the late Homer Van Meter, a continuance until the February term in his fight against the disbarment proceedings brought by the Chicago Bar association. The proceedings were instituted after Piquett was sentenced to two years in Leavenworth and fined $10,000 on a charge of harboring Van Meter. He asked for a delay because his appeal from this conviction in the United States District court has not yet been heard in the federal appeals court. The Supreme court also allowed the motion of Julius Reznik, Chicago attorney, that the information to disbar him be dismissed.

See Driver License Vote Next Week; House Adjourns

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—The house adjourned this afternoon until next Tuesday without reaching the drivers' license bill on its calendar. The bill is on third reading, the passage stage, and it was thought here tonight that it would be put to a vote next week.

DEMOCRATS BOW TO NEW DEAL ON PENSION SETUP

House Votes Change in County Boards.

declared Senator Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet], "because the old age pension act we passed in the regular session has to be changed to conform to the federal pattern. Shouldn't some one tell us exactly how to amend it so it will be satisfactory?"

Later senate Democrats went into a caucus to decide what to do with the 28 pending amendments to the old age pension bill.

Democrats in the caucus were reported to have voted to kill a number of pending amendments, but by the time the senate met late in the afternoon six Democrats had changed their minds and 17 amendments were adopted. The bill then was sent to third reading—the passage stage—and if approved there as amended the amendments must be concurred in by the house.

Permits Leaving State.

The principal amendment adopted would permit those over 65 years old an income of $550 from all sources, including the pension. In addition to a pension of $360 a year, the aged would be allowed an independent income of $190. If the independent income is $200 a year, the pension would be scaled down to $350.

The other amendments would permit those on pension to leave the state without first getting permission from pension authorities, would give the pension to persons who have paid for care in a private institution, and permit the pension to be paid to applicants who have relatives able to support them. Another amendment also struck the provision that any pension paid could be recovered from relatives legally responsible for the pensioner's support.

Horner Assures Aid.

Gov. Horner was asked today what would happen to indigent persons over 65 years old if the setup for dispensing old age pensions was not in effect by Jan. 1.

"The Illinois Emergency Relief commission," the governor replied, "will take care of them after Jan. 1 until the payment of the pensions begins.

"We are relying on the Works Progress administration taking 220,000 persons, or practically all employables, from the relief rolls. We will lose no time in setting up the pensions."

GOV. HORNER NAMES GOUDIE AND STRAUS TO RELIEF POSITIONS

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner today named two Chicagoans members of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission to fill vacancies caused by the resignations of Victor A. Olander, secretary treasurer of the State Federation of Labor, and George A. Barr of Joliet.

In Olander's place the governor appointed L. G. Goudie, president of Joint council No. 25, International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs of America. The union is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and has offices at 220 South Ashland avenue, Chicago.

LINK AND MILLER GRANTED REVIEW OF CONVICTIONS

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday granted a writ of supersedeas to Frank J. Link and John T. Miller, former officials of the sanitary district, whose conviction on charges of conspiracy was recently upheld by the Appellate court. The writ stays the carrying out of the Appellate court ruling pending a review by the Supreme court.

Link, once a trustee of the sanitary district, and Miller, former superintendent of the department of plants and structures, were convicted nearly four years ago in the Criminal court. They were defendants in the graft conspiracy case which grew out of the whoopee era of 1927-'28. Link was sentenced to one to five years in the penitentiary and Miller to six months in the Bridewell.

Adequate Lighting Called Next Trafic Safety Need

Adequate lighting of heavy trafic highways at night is the next move toward a reduction in trafic accidents, George W. Barton, chief engineer of the Chicago Motor club, said yesterday. The club approved the installation near Chicago of two sodium vapor lamps which cast a uniform orange light so designed as to neutralize the glare of approaching headlights. One light is at Butterfield and Roosevelt roads and the other at Governor's and Lincoln highways in Chicago Heights. The Motor club urged that highway departments place such lamps every 250 feet along much used routes.

FILIPINO IMPORT TARIFS URGED BY SENATOR SEARCY

Resolution Asks U. S. to Aid Farmer, Labor.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Protection for American farmers and labor against duty free imports from the Philippine Islands was urged in the Illinois senate today by Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, Republican minority leader.

Searcy introduced a resolution requesting congress to set up appropriate tarifs and end the "unfair" advantage the islands' commerce has because of low pay coolie labor. The Democrats, however, sidetracked the resolution into the executive committee by a vote of 27 to 13. The vote was strictly along party lines with the exception of Oral P. Tuttle [Rep., Harrisburg], who voted with the Democrats.

Economic Independence Asked.

The Philippines have been granted a conditional political independence that will become complete at the end of ten years, Searcy and other senate Republicans argued. It is impossible, they said, to make that grant without also giving economic independence to both the United States and the newly inaugurated Philippine government.

"The Philippines were a part of us and we set up the same basis for commerce between us that exists between the several states," said Searcy in an extension later of the remarks he had made on the senate floor. "This brought into the stream of our commerce the products of the lowest paid labor, the coolies from China, as well as the low paid native labor.

"This situation was a thorn in our sides, but it is no longer necessary now that we submit to the competition from these oriental imports without a tarif that will take into consideration the different costs of production and standards of living in the two countries.

No Penalty Wanted.

"We do not ask for any penalty against the commerce of the Philippines. We ask only that it be placed on the same basis as all other commerce. We ask that our American farmers and American labor be protected against the depressing consequences of the oriental standard of living when the products of oriental labor come into the home market. The justice of this resolution is apparent."

Senator Simon E. Lantz [Rep., Congerville], a farmer, who often speaks on the senate floor for the Illinois Agricultural association and is regarded as the leader of the farm bloc in the senate, added his voice in urging adoption of the resolution.

"The Philippines, with rich land and cheap labor," Lantz said, "compete directly with the American farmer. It is unfair competition. Immediate action is urgent, as the imports from the Philippines are growing all the time."

TEACHERS IN MEXICO DEMAND PROTECTION AGAINST REBEL BANDS

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Led by two women whose ears had been cut off, 12,000 rural school teachers paraded to the national palace today and demanded guarantees of safety from rebel mutilators.

They pledged their support to President Lazaro Cardenas and the principles of socialistic education, one of the objects of attack by insurgent bands which have been mainly roaming the state of Jalisco, singling out teachers for mutilation and murder. The teachers also asked for higher wages.

President Cardenas spoke to them from the palace balcony, urging them to continue their work hopefully. He said increased salaries could not be granted now, and made no mention of guarantees. Posters carried in the parade demanded that the teachers be permitted to arm in self defense. Others attacked the clergy and "Fascism." Many carried communist banners, but the Mexican flag was not in evidence.

William Babuck, assault to rob, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary; Lamon Golden, murder, sentenced to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge John C. Lewe.

Joseph Baiata, who was sentenced to a term of one to ten years in the state penitentiary for conspiracy to loot the assets of the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance company of Springfield, Ill., described details of the conspiracy yesterday as the state's first witness against his alleged fellow conspirators, Gustav Lindquist, former Minnesota insurance commissioner, and Abraham Karatz, former St. Paul attorney.

Taking of testimony in the trial was started in the Criminal court of Judge Joseph Burke early in the afternoon after the jury had been selected.

Lindquist and Karatz are charged with conspiracy to defraud the insurance company of $25,000. The indictment is an outgrowth of another conspiracy case in which David "Long Count" Barry, prize fight referee, was convicted on a charge of conspiracy to embezzle $54,473 from the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank and sentenced to one year.

Has Indoor Work Stolen Something From You?

The confinement of four walls is responsible for many troubles. Indoor workers often find their energy depleted. The vibrant spark of health burns low, the light goes from their eyes, the color from their cheeks.

This listless, always tired feeling, robs life of most of its joy.

Yet it may be all traced to a very simple cause. There may be a lack of the vital Vitamins A and D in the diet. If so there is one effective thing to do, that costs but a few cents a day.

Give yourself the two needed Vitamins, A and D. Vitamin A is the essential element used in building and repairing the outer skin and the inner linings of the body. It builds resistance against colds, with their tendency to cause lung, throat and sinus infections. A deficiency of it retards growth and may cause certain skin and eye diseases. Vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin, builds and repairs body, bone and teeth.

In order to overcome vitamin deficiency it used to be necessary to eat special foods or dose oneself constantly with cod liver oil.

But times have changed. Now you can buy at small cost I. V. C. Vitamin Pearls. I. V. C. Vitamin Pearls contain Vitamins A and D extracted from cod liver oil by a new U. S. Patented process, concentrated and sealed in small gelatin capsules, odorless, tasteless and easy to take.

Insist on the only one genuine I. V. C. Vitamin Pearls. All good drug and department stores sell I.V.A. Vitamin Pearls on a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. International Vitamin Corp., 50 E. 42nd Street, New York City. There is only one genuine. Registered U. S. Patent Office

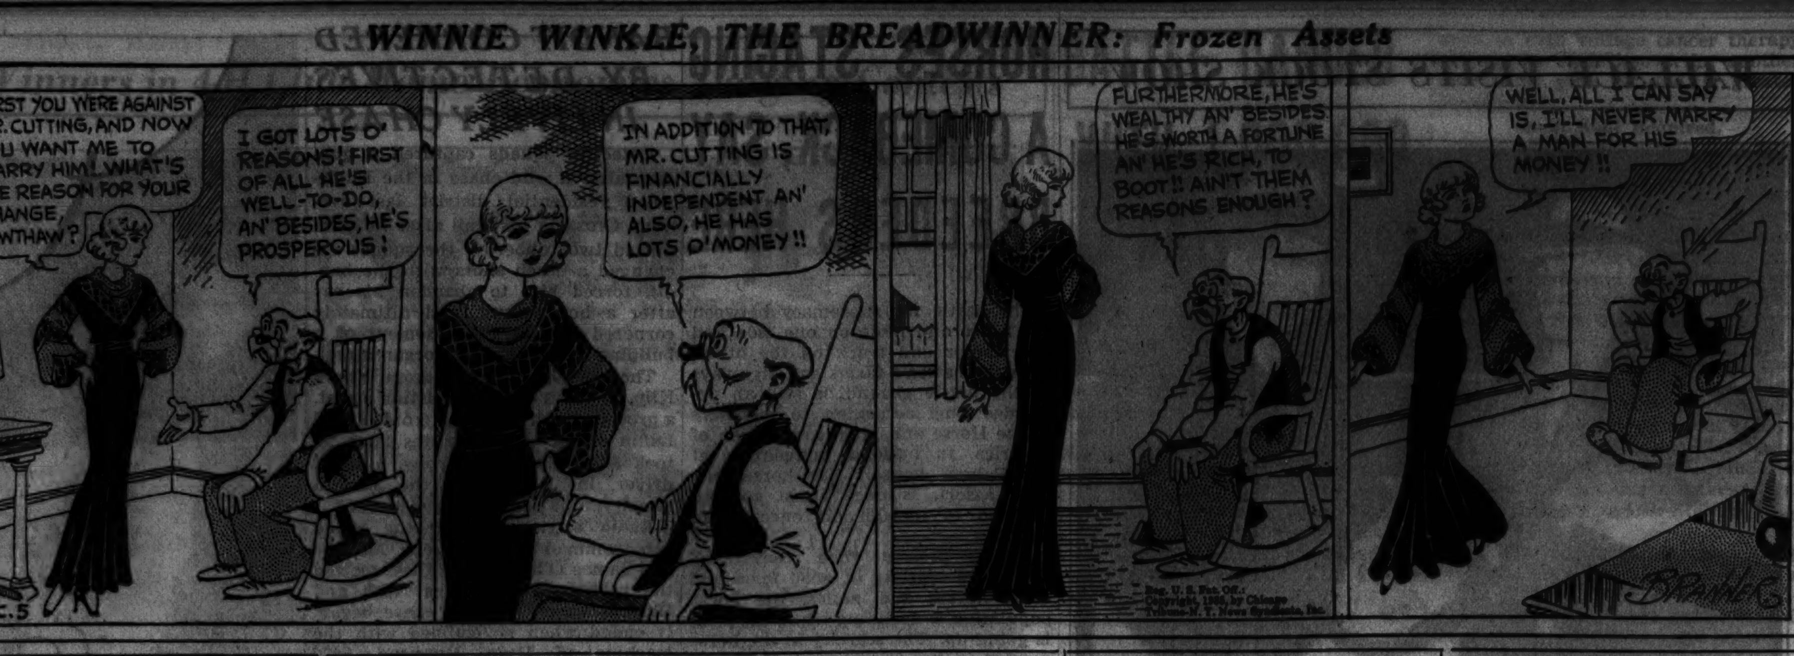
WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Frozen Assets



WPA FAMILIES GET EXTRA HELP DESPITE RULING

CCC Opened to Them; Grumbling Grows.

Although it is forbidden to give supplementary federal relief to families unable to get along on the $55 a month Works Progress administration pay, Washington has authorized action that will have this effect in many cases, it was learned here yesterday. Under a new order, members of WPA families who can prove a budget deficiency will be accepted by the Civilian Conservation corps, receiving $30 a month.

Grumbling has become louder as more and more large families have been transferred from the relief rolls, where they got up to as much as $90 a month without working, to WPA projects paying $55 a month for common labor. On relief, the amount of aid given to a family is in direct proportion to its needs—based mainly on size. On WPA, neither the size of a family nor its fluctuating needs are considered.

A Raise to $80.

With members of WPA families eligible for the next CCC enrollment in January, the federal income of these families will be $80 a month because members of the CCC must send $25 home each month.

At the same time the family income is increased, its needs are reduced, with one member being fed and clothed in a CCC camp. There are about 24,000 youths and young men from Illinois in the camps.

The chief difficulty of the WPA program, however, continued to be the delay in receiving first pay checks. While the payroll department worked with an augmented staf, 100 workers on a sea wall project at the foot of Lake street in Evanston went on strike 20 minutes yesterday. The crew returned to work when they were told pay would arrive today, the day it is due.

Landlords Demand Cash.

Representatives of organized landlords repeated their threats of wholesale evictions for non-payment of rent in cases affecting relief and WPA families. In a telegram to Gov. Horner, President John C. Bowers of the Chicago real estate board demanded that provision be made by the state to pay the rent.

Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court yesterday took some of the drama out of Judge N. J. Bonelli's announcement Tuesday that he would not evict families until after Christmas. The chief justice said this gesture was "in keeping with the practice of previous years when evictions were not made during the winter holiday season.

Officials Expect No Evictions.

In the Renters' court yesterday, only ten of the 100 eviction cases on Judge Bonelli's docket sheet concerned relief families. Privately and not for quotation, relief and WPA officials said that they believed there would be no wholesale evictions, because of "business reasons."

For the seventh consecutive month, the Illinois Emergency Relief commission reduced its staf, during November, when 254 administrative employés were dropped from the payroll, it was announced yesterday by Executive Secretary Wilfred S. Reynolds.

Since last April, the commission has reduced its personnel by 2,792 persons. On April 30, it had 10,076 employés, in contrast to 7,284 on Nov. 30. Mr. Reynolds declared that the reduction in overhead expense would continue as more families are taken over by WPA.

UNIONS SETTLE LONG STANDING BUILDING ROW

Washington, D. C., Dec. 4.—(AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, jubilantly announced tonight that there would be no more jurisdictional strikes by construction workers.

Warring factions in the federation's building trades department, he told reporters, finally had agreed upon a plan for preventing union workmen from delaying construction by strikes over which of two organizations should do a particular piece of work.

In the future the contractor is to decide which union shall do the job when a dispute arises, and then if a joint committee of the unions involved is unable to adjust the difference the question is to be referred to a federal judge as arbiter.

TVA CHAIRMAN DEFENDS WORK IN TALKS HERE

Tells Plans for Ending Soil Erosion.

Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the Tennessee Valley authority, rated by the New Deal as the largest scale experiment in social planning ever undertaken by a government outside of soviet Russia, laid emphasis here yesterday on the soil erosion and reforestation phases of the project.

He delivered two lectures at Northwestern university, before the afternoon and evening sections of the class in contemporary thought. He spoke in the afternoon at Harris hall, Evanston, and at night in Thorne hall, on the McKinlock campus.

Dr. Morgan, who is president of Antioch college and a civil engineer by profession, took as his subject "The Engineer and the Modern Social Problem." He said social planning is not a new problem, but an old one in new guise, and that the engineer is now concerned in the social benefits arising from engineering feats.

Describes the TVA Project.

"In the Tennessee valley," said Dr. Morgan, "we are trying to coördinate the physical elements of planning with certain social elements. The aim is integrated control of the Tennessee river system, which drains an area the size of Ohio.

"The unified program concerns itself with navigation, with locks and dams, and with flood control. There is power control. The power from the water might as well be used to increase the well-being of the people. By coördinated development of a single river we can accomplish what never before has been undertaken.

"Soil erosion has destroyed millions of acres. A large proportion of the fertility in that region has been washed away. No private organization would be able to tackle that problem, as there is no money in it, and private enterprise depends on profits. The government, however, can do it.

Grass Crops Are Urged.

"We have been urging that farmers in that region go from plow crops to grass. But the soil will not grow grass, and we are developing cheaper methods of making phosphates.

"We have picked out 2,000 or 3,000 farmers, on the agreement that if the farmer takes instructions from us we will give him fertilizers. Ten years of that program, and we can revolutionize farming and stop erosion. There is no regimentation about it, nothing compulsory, but there is great competition among the farmers to join in.

"The hardwood forest of the region was slaughtered, then the mill communities were abandoned and the population was stranded in poverty. We are buying up some of the land and trying to develop a permanent forest policy.

"We are teaching the workers history, farm management, and other subjects, and by the time the job is done we will be sending back to their homes competent men."

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

December 4, 1935.

CARL HENDERSON, manager of the Tribune experimental farm near Wheaton, Ill., sold a truckload of 58 fat lambs on the Chicago market today. The lambs, grade Southdown and Corriedale wethers, brought $11.65 a hundred pounds and weighed 5,180 pounds, or an average of 89.3 pounds each. This price of $11.65 a hundred was an increase of 90 cents a hundred over the price paid for 25 wethers sold from the same flock on Nov. 13. The latter group brought $10.75 a hundredweight and averaged 94.4 pounds each.

Packer representatives and commission men at the stockyards considered the lambs sold today to be of unusually high quality and finish. Flockmaster John Rawlings kept these lambs on full feed for about 30 days before they were sold. During this feeding period each lamb consumed a daily average of about two pounds of grain mixture and nearly an equal amount of clover hay. The grain consisted of one part shelled corn and two parts oats by weight and was fed twice a day in troughs. The hay was given immediately after the lambs had cleaned up all their grain. The lambs were kept confined to the barn all the time during the last three weeks of the feeding period and were allowed plenty of fresh water and loose salt. Under this feeding system the lambs made good gains and put on a fine finish despite the fact that none of the feed given them was of first class quality. The corn was soft, the oats light and chaffy, and the hay slightly molded.

Only 19 of this year's crop of wether lambs remain in the feed lots at the Wheaton place. These were culled out of a flock of 77 when the 58 head were sold today. Some of the 19 will be butchered for use on the farm and the others will be marketed shortly after Christmas. They will be kept on full feed until sold.

An article appearing in this column on Nov. 28, giving the results of this year's tests on several varieties of hybrid corn and comparisons between hybrids and common varieties, has brought many comments from corn belt farmers. These letters indicate a keen interest on the part of corn raisers in the development of hybrid varieties. In the field tests made this year at the Tribune farm near Yorkville the hybrid strains not only made higher average yields than the other varieties, but they withstood the heavy rains and windstorms better. The stalks of all the best hybrids were standing straight when the pickers went into the fields this fall.

In one yield test made at the Yorkville farm, in which four hybrids and four established varieties were used, hybrid No. 214 ranked first with a yield of 61.5 bushels an acre. Third, fourth, and seventh places also went to hybrids, while Krug, an old established variety of grain corn in Illinois, ranked second, making 58 bushels an acre. Western Plowman made the lowest yield in this test, with 43.3 bushels an acre. All these tests were made under practical farm conditions and on uniform soil. The yields were figured on the basis of 80 pounds of corn to the bushel to allow for extra moisture in the corn at the time it was picked.

Reports from commercial seed houses indicate that farmers generally are becoming interested in hybrid corn for grain and for silage.

So far, prices on hybrid seed corn have not been advanced over earlier quotations. The demand for hybrid seed may be greater than the supply and result in disappointment for some farmers whose interest has been stimulated through THE TRIBUNE farm tests.

FAMED OLD LAKE BOATS RUINS AS RESULT OF FIRE

One Is Last of Three Masted Schooners.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sturgeon Bay, Wis., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Fire raged through the graveyard of forgotten ships here last night and destroyed seven vessels, many of which at one time made maritime history on the Great Lakes. Among them was the Lucia A. Simpson, the last of the three masted lake schooners. The other six vessels destroyed, too old for active service, were steamers. They were the Crosby, Petosky, Swift, Waukegan, Kenosha, and a tug, the Beaver.

The fire started on the Petosky, once part of the Goodrich Transportation company's large fleet. Carried by a high wind, it spread rapidly through the "graveyard" fleet, moored on the banks of the bay.

The Lucia A. Simpson was the oldest of the fleet. Built in 1875, the Simpson joined the "white winged fleet of the Great Lakes," which then numbered 1,500 sailing vessels. For more than fifty years it carried lumber from the northern ports to Milwaukee and other cities on the lakes. It was fitted out at the beginning of the 1929 season on a salvage venture which had as the object the recovery of part of the millions of dollars in coal cargoes sunk with vessels in Lake Superior.

Although the Simpson left port bravely, manned by a crew of old time windjammer fresh water seamen, her years betrayed her. A few miles out of Milwaukee she ran into a fresh northeast blow and her seams opened.

Only for the timely arrival of a tug she would have foundered. She was towed to the "graveyard" and joined the ranks of the all but forgotten vessels.

The Crosby at one time was a well known vessel on Lake Michigan. She ran between Milwaukee and east shore ports. The Waukegan and Kenosha, built for minesweepers during the war, never left the lakes and later were purchased by the Hill Line for package freighters. The line passed to the control of the West Ports Line, later absorbed by Goodrich.

The Swift also was known to Chicagoans. She formerly was owned by the Nessen Transportation company of Chicago and carried passengers and freight out of there for many years.

QUIZ DAUGHTER OF WOMAN FOUND DEAD IN MYSTERY

Warren avenue police last night began an investigation into the circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Roubena Thomas, 51 years old, who was found dead, apparently from exposure, in a vacant lot in the 2000 block on West Adams street early yesterday. She was fully clad and a fur coat had been wrapped around her.

Sergt. Walter Rusin said he learned Mrs. Thomas and a daughter, Mrs. Anita Nassel, 32 years old, had twice been evicted from their rooms in the past two weeks for nonpayment of rent. The daughter, when found, said she last saw her mother Monday afternoon. She was detained for questioning.

Another daughter, Mrs. Margaret Blake, 2561 Marwood avenue, River Grove, told Sergt. Rusin that she believed her mother and sister were on relief. Mrs. Blake said she refused to allow her sister to live with her because of a family quarrel.

57,000 ATTEND STOCK SHOW ON ITS RECORD DAY

Turnstiles clicked past the figure 57,000 last night in the stockyards amphitheater, establishing a record single day's attendance for the 36 years of the International Live Stock exposition.

B. H. Heide, manager, took this as an indication that a record total attendance of 500,000 would be set by Saturday when this year's show ends. Since the exposition opened last Saturday 243,000 persons have entered the doors.

Secretary Wallace a Visitor.

One of yesterday's visitors at the exposition was Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture. In an interview Mr. Wallace voiced praise of the new reciprocal trade treaty with Canada, gave his explanation of the increase in living costs, and discussed his alternatives if the Agricultural Adjustment administration act is declared unconstitutional by the United States Supreme court.

Secretary Wallace mentioned sales and increased income taxes as means of raising money to be substituted for the processing tax now levied on many agricultural products if the AAA is knocked out. He does not favor the proposed compulsory marketing plan.

Thinks His AAA a Success.

He said the AAA has worked better than he expected. "The farmers' coöperation was far beyond my expectation," he said. "I feel that the AAA has accomplished its purpose, though the situation is still complicated by the drouth of 1934."

The secretary asserted that the metropolitan press has not revealed the truth about the drouth, and that city people "do not have a proper understanding of the extent and tragedy, the depth and importance of the drouth." He blamed the drouth for higher meat prices.

When asked how this increased price situation was to be met, Wallace said increased production of hogs should be encouraged.

Increases in Hogs Expected.

"Hog prices already are lower," he said. "We expect a 30 per cent increase in hogs this year, and we can expect this to result in a further decrease in hog prices. We think farmers will be just as well satisfied; they are not interested so much in the price per pound of hogs as they are in their total income."

Secretary Wallace said it is his belief that the Canadian trade treaty will ultimately benefit farmers. He is studying the reciprocal tarif schedule and expects to issue a statement on it in about ten days. He said he has not received any complaints about the treaty, except from cattle owners.

After lunching with Mr. Heide Secretary Wallace left for Washington. He plans to return to Chicago next Monday, when he will attend the American Farm Bureau federation meeting which is to be addressed by President Roosevelt. On Tuesday Mr. Wallace will address the federation himself.

Nebraska Wins Meat Contest.

The student team from the University of Nebraska at Lincoln won first place in the intercollegiate meat judging contest at the stock show yesterday. This was the third victory for Nebraska in this contest and the trophy, donated by the National Live Stock and Meat board, becomes the permanent possession of the university. Second place was won by the team from Iowa State college, third by Pennsylvania State college, and fourth by the University of Missouri.

Burdette Voreis, a farm boy from Somonauk, De Kalb county, won a free calf in the "calf rastle" that was a feature of the afternoon's performance at the show. He was one of 15 boys who entered the arena in a race to halter and lead away six calves. Burdette got the "free" animal. The other five winners will keep the calves they captured and pay for them on a long term basis. Four of the five are Illinois boys: Joe Peverly of Decatur, Ernest Dickson Jr. of Fairmouth, William Labart of Crete, and Leonard Flack of Pearl City. The other winner is Milton Devries of Demott, Ind.

Champion on Block Today.

The grand champion steer of the show, Pat's Blue Ribbon, owned by Cleo E. Yoder, 19 years old, of Wellman, Ia., will be sold at public auction this morning. Prize winning cattle in the carlot division also will be sold.

Tomorrow at 2 p. m. 312 baby beef animals, including 112 winners in the junior feeding contest, will go on the auction block. Chicago hotels, clubs, and restaurants are expected to be among the bidders. The calves come from six states.

Fumes from Auto Radiator Ignite; Motorist Is Burned

Harold Altenburg, 24 years old, 619 Davis street, Evanston, was painfully burned about the face last night when he stopped his automobile at Fountain Square, Evanston, to see how much water was left in the radiator. Fumes from the alcohol in the water were ignited by a lighted cigarette in Altenburg's lips as he bent over the open radiator cap. He was taken to the Evanston hospital.

Pleads Guilty to Stealing False Teeth; Gets 30 Days

Robert Shaughnessy, 22 years old, 4335 Emerald avenue, was fined $10 and sentenced to thirty days in the Bridewell yesterday for stealing a set of false teeth from Robert Groves of Lake Orion, Mich. Shaughnessy pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli after his wife Cecilia told of finding the teeth in his pocket.

LIQUOR CONSUMPTION SWINGS UP AS THIRD REPEAL YEAR NEARS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 4.—(AP)—The eve of repeal's second anniversary tonight found the consumption of liquor on the upswing.

Treasury department figures showed the consumption of both domestic and foreign liquor still registering increases that had their inception at midnight two years ago. An index was the 7,075,979 gallons consumed in October—a million gallons more than in September, and nearly two million more than October a year ago.

The consumption, however, was less than 70 per cent of 1917's high point in pre-prohibition drinking. Treasury figures showed that September consumption was about 64 per cent of the top year. For the fiscal year ended June 30, liquor consumption of 75,073,993 gallons measured 45 per cent of 1917's 164,291,683 gallons.

Waukegan Couple Sue for $5,500 After Auto Crash

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Badger, 908 Westmoreland avenue, Waukegan, filed suit in Lake county Circuit court yesterday for $5,500 damages against James G. Alexander, 1230 North Waukegan road, Lake Forest. They charge that Mrs. Badger was injured and the Badger automobile was damaged in a collision with Alexander's car, driven by his daughter Betty on Nov. 27.

HORSES STAGING A COMEBACK, SAY BREEDERS HERE

The battle for supremacy between the horse and mule on one side and the tractor and truck on the other, with the nation's farms and highways as the battle ground, is still an undecided one, according to members of the Horse and Mule Association of America, in national convention at the Palmer house. The horse, officials assert, is once again surging forward to reclaim his once proud honors.

At the present time, they said, there is a scarcity of good farm and draft horses and mules, the horse population is declining while the price is going up. The scarcity in the horse market is due, it was said, to the reduced breeding of work animals during the last fifteen years.

"I smile when I meet men who a decade ago predicted that we were headed for a horseless age," declared Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the association. "Now these same men complain because a pair of good work mares cost from $350 to $500. If they had bred horses six years ago they would have them to sell now."

Figures quoted by the association showed a drop of almost one-third in the horse and mule population in 15 years. In 1920 there were 25,199,000 horses and mules on the farm and 2,083,000 in the cities. Now the cities have 500,000 draft animals and the country can show only 16,662,000.

The reason for the return of horses and mules, it was explained, is that many farmers are finding draft animals more economical and more productive than the tractor. This is particularly true on smaller farms and in the raising of certain crops. In addition, the farmers can raise the "fuel" for horses and mules, while they have to buy fuel for tractors and trucks.

BANDIT CORNERED BY DETECTIVES IN LIVELY CHASE

Detective squads captured a gunman after a wild chase in the Englewood residential district last evening. Crossing his trail after he committed two robberies, the squads exchanged a dozen shots with the bandit, forced him to abandon his car after a hot pursuit, and ultimately cornered him in the basement of a building at 7408 South Morgan street.

The robber took $20 from Frank Klip, 18 years old, 6459 Justine street, a grocery truck driver, in front of 6716 Laflin street. Ten minutes later he took $25 from Leo Murphy, a truck driver, in the rear of the Modern laundry, 5758 South Halsted street.

Radio alarms reached the squad cars commanded by Joseph McCabe and James O'Halloran. They spotted the robber in his car at 75th and Halsted street, and the chase began. It ended when he collided with the machine of Irvin Morrison, 8430 Blackstone avenue, near the flat building where he was captured. At the detective bureau he gave his name as Harry Newman, 20 years old.

SKILL VANISHING AMONG WORKERS, EXPERTS ASSERT

Vocational Training Parley Hears Trade Problems.

BY MARCIA WINN.

The question of what shall be done by vocational schools to cope with industry's new demands was one of the major problems which 5,000 vocational educators, industrialists, and agriculturists took up for discussion yesterday when the American Vocational association opened its four day convention at the Stevens hotel.

Of equal importance, according to speakers of the day, is the problem of trading old skills for new to meet the rapid industrial changes of the last few years, and the finding of some way to put a stop to the disappearance of certain types of skilled technical knowledge.

Report Many Skills Outmoded.

The conference is being held at a crucial time in the world of industry, L. W. Bartlett, district manager for the United States Reëmployment service, declared. Speaking at a luncheon of state supervisors of industrial education, he declared:

1. One-third of the persons registered in public employment offices have "skills" that they can never use again.

2. Another third consists of young persons with no vocational training whatsoever, or of high school graduates without the necessary skills for placement.

3. Machinery for recruiting people for the trades has suffered a complete collapse, and people already in the trades "are becoming rusty."

Charles A. Prosser, director of the Dunwoody institute in Minneapolis, asserted that, because of the gradual disappearance of the "possession" of many kinds of skilled knowledge, an alarming shortage of skilled workers lies ahead.

"I'm not saying there are not men who can fill jobs," Mr. Prosser added, "but that the rising standards of performance and the increasing need for greater technical understanding have made it impossible for thousands of mechanics to possess adequate knowledge of the needed type."

Opposes Apprenticeship Plan.

The old plan of apprenticeship should be cast aside, he asserted, declaring it can never serve successfully in inculcating skilled knowledge. In its place he advocated the extension of part time and evening schools, the general remodeling of vocational training schools and intelligent industrial reorganization.

Still another problem—what to do for girls at a vocational school—was discussed by J. E. Fintz, supervisor of vocational education in Cleveland, O., where the principal trouble, he said, is that employers "want blondes, and we run out so fast we sometimes have to make one."

John W. Higgins, steel manufacturer of Worcester, Mass., addressing the first general session of the group, last night spoke of the "appalling disparity" between the demand for "skilled craftsmen" and the available number.

"With nine million laborers out of work there is an actual shortage of 100,000 skilled craftsmen," he told the educators. "The fault lies in your schools. They require immediate expansion."

Girl, Jilted, Sues Tulsa Oil Magnate for $500,000

Tulsa, Okla., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Miss Early Languille of Los Angeles today sued Frank A. Gillespie, wealthy Tulsa oil man, for $500,000, charging breach of promise. The petition asserted Gillespie had urged Miss Languille to marry him duing the years 1932-'33, but last year told her it "was all off." At Gillespie's office it was said he was "out of town" with Mrs. Gillespie."

Ohio Girl Champion

Miss Clarabeth Zehring, 17 years old, of Germantown, O., last night was chosen winner of the 4-H style revue contest, in which 200,000 farm girls took part. The award was announced last night after the final judging in the Goodman theater.

Miss Zehring wore a brown and tan plaid dress of wool and a swagger coat, both designed and made by herself. The entire costume, including accessories, cost her $34.12. She was first chosen winner of the wool or silk school dress competition and then over winners of three other classes: Miss Irene Kracht of Aurelia, Ia., whose blue linen wash suit cost $13.14; Miss Mary Glenn Yeager of Terre Haute, Ind., who wore a crêpe frock costing $25, and Miss Carol V. Clark of Cohoes, N. Y., who displayed a taffeta party gown that cost $16.01.

The 1,100 4-H boys and girls now in Chicago were guests at a luncheon yesterday at the International Harvester company. They were welcomed by Fowler McCormick and F. H. Harrison, superintendent of the McCormick works. The group was addressed at the International Live Stock exhibition by Arthur Williams, director of the National Youth administration, who explained government plans for rural youth work projects.

Police Kill One, Shoot One, Seize Another in Bank Raid

Wadestown, W. Va., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Police bullets turned back two robbers trying to hold up the Bank of Wadestown in this mountain community today—killing one and seriously wounding the other. The man slain was identified as Howard Hayes, 23 years old, of Mannington. The man wounded gave his name as Roy Taylor, 35. A third man was arrested and identified as Howard Wise, 35, of Mannington.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

28 Injured When Trolley and Tank Car Collide

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Eleven white and seventeen colored men, mostly WPA workers, were injured today as a railroad tank car collided with a trolley at a street intersection in suburban Memphis. Hospitals said no one was critically hurt.

Wedding Party Carries Coffin of 9 Week Bride

Moncks Corner, S. C., Dec. 4.—(AP)—When Mrs. John M. Holling of Charleston died she was buried in her wedding gown and veil. The bridegroom's attendants at her wedding just nine weeks before were pallbearers at the funeral and the six bridesmaids were flower bearers.

BATTLE CANCER WITH 1,000,000 X-RAY VOLTAGE

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Medical science literally has "turned on the heat" in quest of further improvement in the therapeutic treatment of cancer.

Four years of experiment with X-ray voltage running as high as 1,000,000 was outlined to the twenty-first annual meeting of the Radiological Society of North America by a group of doctors today. They represented a half dozen American cancer research centers, notably Memorial hospital and the Institute of Cancer Research in New York, Harper hospital here, Carnegie institute, and a Los Angeles center.

Dr. Francis Carter Wood of New York said conclusive results of the work in high voltage cancer therapy will not be made known for another year. The goal, he said, is greater penetration.

Great Skill Required.

Much of the symposium dealt with the highly technical problem of measuring the dosage exactly, since therapeutic machines stepped up to such tremendous power are dangerous unless operated with great skill. An accurate test, said Charles Packard of the Institute of Cancer Research, is provided by the survival rate of fruit fly eggs under the rays.

A machine built by the California Institute of Technology for high voltage X-ray treatment of cancer may be stepped up gradually to a peak tension of between 900,000 and 1,000,000, said Dr. Seeley G. Mudd of Los Angeles, and his associates, Dr. Clyde K. Emery and R. Stewart Harrison.

Dr. Wood predicted that machines selling for $50,000 will be used to produce the great radiation now obtained only with large quantities of radium, which costs $40,000 a gram.

Bares Views of Skeptics.

The attitude of many radiologists, who are skeptical of the value of the high voltage rays, was expressed by Dr. Herman Holthusen of Hanseatic university, Hamburg, Germany.

"I believe the tumor or other growth being attacked may be destroyed more satisfactorily by bombarding it with weaker rays at regular intervals than by hitting it hard once with high voltage," he said, explaining that most of such work in Germany is done with about 200,000 volts.

Dr. Wood said that neither high voltage X-ray nor radium is a sure cure for cancer. Some success has been attained, and therapy will be used, he explained, not to replace surgery but to aid it.

'MAN WITH TWO STOMACHS' WILLS BOTH TO SCIENCE

Seth Stratton Dead After Years of Abnormality.

An autopsy on the body of Seth Stratton, the "man with two stomachs," who died in the Illinois Central hospital on Nov. 25, has revealed one of the most unusual cases of its kind in medical history, it was learned yesterday.

The autopsy, which was performed at the University of Chicago medical school, disclosed that Stratton's esophagus had grown to about fifty times its normal size and about twice the size of a normal stomach.

This great growth constituted the unusual element of Stratton's case, physicians said. They explained that while in such cases the esophagus does not perform the functions of a stomach, the fact that food first lodges in the enlarged tube before entering the stomach gives rise to the term "two stomachs."

Wills Esophagus to Doctor.

Stratton, a pensioned employé of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, was 71 years old when he died. His home was at 1550 East 63d street. Since 1913, when his abnormal condition first became serious, he had been under the care of Dr. Frank Smithies.

Under the terms of Stratton's will, which was filed in the Probate court on Monday, his stomach and esophagus are left to Dr. Smithies "in appreciation of his professional services and in the interest of medicine."

Dr. Smithies said last night that at the request of Prof. H. Gideon Wells, head of the pathology department of the University of Chicago, the enlarged esophagus will be placed in the museum of the university's medical school.

Stratton bequeathed all his property, valued at approximately $15,000, to Josephine A. Thomas, superintendent of nurses at the Illinois Central hospital, where he had spent most of the last nine months of his life. He underwent an operation on Nov. 13, and the next day prepared his will. A second operation was performed on Nov. 21, and four days later Stratton died.

It was indicated yesterday that relatives of Stratton will contest his will. Robert C. Stratton, 3019 North Clark street, a grandnephew, conferred during the day with R. C. Hardy, an attorney at 111 West Washington street.

Later Hardy announced that next Feb. 18, the date set for hearing proof of the will, he will ask to have the document set aside on the ground that its maker was legally incompetent. Hardy said there are thirteen relatives.

FUNERAL TODAY FOR 3 OF FAMILY KILLED IN CRASH

A triple funeral service for Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. McClelland and their daughter, Miss Ila McClelland of Arlington Heights, will be held at 9:30 a. m. today in the chapel at 1946 Ogden avenue. Burial will be in Williamsville, Ill.

The three members of the family were all fatally injured Monday when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Milwaukee road train at Devon and Caldwell avenues. Mrs. McClelland and her daughter died immediately after the accident and Mr. McClelland early yesterday.

Mr. McClelland was a teacher of mathematics in the Mulligan Elementary school. He and his wife are survived by two sons and two daughters.

LIEUT. MORAN, 30 YEAR POLICE VETERAN, DEAD

Lieut. Michael Moran, 54 years old, veteran who had served as a member of the Chicago police force for three decades, died of heart disease last night at his home, 8235 Eberhart avenue. He had been ill for several months.

Early in his career Lieut. Moran traveled beat with Capt. Michael Hughes, now commanding the Deering street station. In 1916 he was wounded in one leg in a battle with robbers, one of whom he captured. He was made a lieutenant six years ago and his last assignment was to the Lawndale district. He is survived by his widow and a daughter.

Toy Manufacturer's Wife Asks Separate Maintenance

Alleging she was compelled by her husband's mistreatment to move from his suite in the Gaylord apartment hotel, 5316 Dorchester avenue, to her mother's suite in the same building, Mrs. Mildred Rapaport, 31 years old, filed a bill for separate maintenance yesterday against David B. Rapaport, 41 years old, owner of a toy manufacturing concern at 701 West Ohio street. The suit was filed in Superior court.

JOHNSTON CITY FLOOD DANGER BELIEVED PAST

Johnson City, Ill., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—The efforts of 200 miners who have been working to prevent Old Ben, No. 18, from being flooded by pentup water from nearby abandoned mines apparently had met with success late this afternoon.

Howard Lewis, assistant general superintendent, who has been directing the flood control work, stated the crisis has been passed. Then he prepared to get his first sleep in 48 hours. "All danger is not over," said Lewis, "but I believe the mine will be saved."

Something unforeseen happened during the last few hours which greatly retarded the flow of water into the mine. John Jones, safety engineer, ventured the opinion that débris from the old mine has partly choked the hole through which the water was pouring in. Water still is rising, but much slower than at any period since the break occurred.

Four concrete mixers were lowered into the mine today to hurry the work of building the seven permanent "seals" now under construction, and though fighting this peril of acres of water, the men were forced to carry in wtaer to mix the concrete. The tempoary wall of concrete blocks had cut them off from the flood.

JOHN G. M'GUIRE DIES; PHYSICIAN AND EX-PASTOR

Funeral services for John G. McGuire, 62 years old, 2035 South Halsted street, who was both a doctor of divinity and a doctor of medicine, will be held Saturday afternoon from the First Bohemian Methodist church. His body will be cremated.

Dr. McGuire died of a paralytic stroke in the County hospital last Saturday. He was born in Glasgow, Scotland, and received the degree of doctor of divinity at the University of Montreal, Canada, in 1895. For fifteen years he served as a Presbyterian minister in Canadian cities. He later came to Chicago and in 1911 he received a degree in medicine at the college of medicine and surgery. He practiced medicine and surgery on the city's southwest side and had served on the stafs of the Grace and Frances Willard hospitals.

The physician, a widower, is survived by his mother, Mrs. Margaret McGuire of Revilstoke, B. C., and a sister, Mrs. Ruby Ewing of Vancouver, British Columbia.

DON C. SEITZ, 73, NEWSPAPER MAN AND AUTHOR, DIES

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Except for the fact that Maj. Bowes' hillbillies, whangwhanging guitarists, whistlers, yodelers, and cowboy balladeers call themselves amateurs they bear considerable resemblance to the performers on the WLS National Barn Dance. There are other points of similarity in the two concerns. The demand for tickets to both shows is terrific. For four years the WLS Barn Dance has been packing them in 55 and 75 cents a head for two performances every Saturday night at the Eighth Street theater. To wangle a ticket for the Bowes' show you get in training by pushing your way into Notre Dame-Army contests.

And if Maj. Bowes has a half dozen touring units that fill theaters wherever they go WLS has just as many touring troupes who help jam the box office at county fairs and movie houses in the smaller places.

Having observed these phenomena, WIND is to introduce a barn dance of its own beginning Saturday evening in Gary. A great galaxy of westerners, mountain merrymakers, hick comedians, and all the other adjuncts, assembled under the title "Happy Hank's Hoosier Hop," will swing into action at 8:45 next Saturday in the Gary armory which they will unquestionably pack to the rafters. Happy Hank is Henry Quartemont who has been presiding over a similar show over WTMJ, Milwaukee, for several years. Thirty experts in dispensing rural hokum and rhythm will assist him. They include the Hoosier Hillbillies, Zeb and Zeke from Arkansas, Oklahoma Mabel, Rocky Mountain Mary—and we pray you do not insist on seeing their birth certificates.

If the show clicks—and such things usually do—it will be made a regular Saturday night affair.

Les Tremayne, who plays in "Betty and Bob," "Romance in Rhythm," and the WLS Hayloft drama, yesterday had his voice insured for $100,000. The policy protects him in the event of injury to his vocal chords, change in register, but makes no promises about maintaining a British accent.

The Veloz-Yolanda orchestra, directed by Shep Fields, will leave W-G-N and the Palmer house Jan. 3. They will be replaced by Ted Weems, who in turn will followed by Guy Lombardo May 30. The V-Y-F unit will go to the Cocoanut Grove, Los Angeles, Feb. 4 after playing the Chicago theater here.

Olga Albani, star of the "Life Is a Song" series, has signed a new contract which insures her appearances on the program through March. . . . Attention, men: A new comic serial, "Nine to Five," glorifying the American secretary, will be launched on NBC at 6:15 Thursday, Dec. 19. . . . Ben Klassen didn't last long as the soloist with Harry Horlick and his Gypsies. He has been replaced by Howard Price, 26 years old, a tenor from Pittsburgh.

NBC doesn't have a sponsor to date for the Metropolitan Opera, but plans to broadcast it, anyway. . . . Lum and Abner will begin touring theaters in Kentucky next Saturday. Their trouping will continue each week-end into the new year. . . . Mayor Kelly will open the new Boy Scout series opening on WBBM Saturday morning.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This Remedy at Home

No Cooking! No Work! Real Saving!

You'll never know how quickly a bad winter cough can be relieved, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in more homes than any other cough remedy, because it gives more prompt, positive results. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. This gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money, and it's a much better remedy. It never spoils and tastes fine.

Instantly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the phlegm, helps clear the air passages, and soothes the irritated membranes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief in distressing coughs.

Pinex is a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its soothing effect on throat membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Satire on Art Brings Laughs at Church Party

BY JUDITH CASS.

IF all art lectures were as deliciously humorous and at the same time instructive as the one William Van Nortwick [Prof. Shuttlecock to his audience] delivered last night in the parish house of St. Chrysostom's church, the lecture rooms at the Art Institute or wherever else serious art lecturers lecture would be overflowing with listeners every time any one spoke.

But no, perhaps there would be a dearth of listeners for women who habitually listen to art lectures probably like them unleavened with humor and they would not like Prof. Shuttlecock's comments on such masterpieces as Breton's "The Song of the Lark" and Holbein's "Henry VIII."

Those who heard them last night, however, as an accompaniment to tableaux vivants arranged by Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr. as the evening entertainment for St. Chrysostom's Women's guild's annual bazar, found them amusing and delightful and every one was loud in his praise of Mrs. Winterbotham's cleverness in reproducing the pictures so perfectly and of young Mr. Van Nortwick's cleverness in describing the painters and paintings so entertainingly.

There were two performances, one at 8 and the other at 9 o'clock, and there will be two more tonight at the same hours. There are no reserved seats, so if you want to be present at one of tonight's shows you had better get there early!

The Lecturer Uses All the Adjectives.

"Art, the good, the irrepressible, the inconsolable, the conjunctive, the pluperfect—the plumage of that great bird, Talent, without which we are liken unto an empty bird cage, a cage without the canary to sing and brighten up our hearts in these days of panic, frenzy, and change," so Prof. Shuttock started his lecture.

No more adjectives than one hears often when listening to lecturers who are paid to help women imbibe culture and knowledge through a short cut.

The first picture was Fantin-Latour's portrait of Manet with Howard Raftery, unrecognizable even to his own mother, as the French painter. Then came Toulouse-Lautrec's "The Circus," with Miss Eleanor Holden and Walter Frazier heading painted bodies done by Miss Holden, who painted all the backgrounds. Bellows' "The Fight" was next with Sanger and Monroe Steele as the fighter and his second, and then Miss Sarah Hinde posed as one of Degas' "Ballet Studies." Lester Luther was Henry VIII, as painted by Holbein, and of him Prof. Shuttlecock said "Little did Henry realize that Holbein would portray him for posterity as Henry the Sinner, Henry the Bilious, Henry the Fantail Pigeon."

Mrs. Philip Maher was lovely as Matisse's "Lady with White Plume" and Miss Denyse Root and Miss Madelon Search were youthful and charming in Fra Angelico's "Annunciation," the only picture handled seriously and with reverence both by the stage manager and the lecturer. Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Platt posed in Ter Borch's "The Music Lesson" and Miss Barbara Eldridge was perfect in Jules Breton's "Song of the Lark."

Fittingly the art exhibit closed with Grant Wood's "American Gothic," in which Miss Peggy Hambleton, who had assisted Mrs. Winterbotham with staging and costuming, and Harold Simonds, organist at St. Chrysostom's, were the Iowans portrayed by Mr. Wood.

Mrs. Cummings Gives Two Dinner Parties.

There were a number of dinner parties before the art exhibit, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings being hostess at two, both of which were given in her handsome residence at 1550 State parkway. Her first lot of guests had coffee in the library while the second lot were having cocktails in the drawing room and both dinners, either of which would have taxed most households and hostesses to the limit, moved as smoothly and as expeditiously as though Mrs. Cummings were accustomed to serving dinner to a hundred guests every night.

WRITTEN and scored on the Massachusetts sea coast last August, John Alden Carpenter's latest work is being played for December symphony concert goers this evening and tomorrow afternoon.

Composer—Coincidence—Name.

It is called "Danza," and two other orchestral transcriptions of piano pieces written by Mr. Carpenter are on the program.

Unless our counting is inaccurate, this makes a round dozen presentations of Mr. Carpenter's music by the Chicago Symphony, besides presentations by the Chicago Opera company, the Boston Symphony, the Metropolitan Opera, various festivals of music, the Munich state opera, and other musical organizations. Many Chicagoans still like best of all his suite for orchestra called "Adventures in a Perambulator Suite," which was repeated at a recent concert.

YESTERDAY we related the nice coincidence whereby the young man from Hollywood who told about the lost button from Lord Nelson's coat was confronted by that very lost button. Today we have another case of coincidence that concerns the same Jackson family of Madison, Wis., and a green umbrella. Gen. Michael Jackson, who fought in the revolutionary war, was an ancestor of Dr. Reginald Jackson of Madison, and during a recent trip to Boston Dr. Jackson visited a museum at West Newton where revolutionary war mementoes are displayed. As he wandered through the exhibit he recalled the tale his mother told him and his sisters in their childhood about the faded big green umbrella that became almost legendary, carried by their revolutionary grandfather, Gen. Jackson. Meeting the director of the museum he mentioned the green umbrella.

"Come with me," said the director. And he led him to the case where a Gargantuan faded green umbrella reposed among other historic souvenirs.

"The umbrella of Gen. Michael Jackson," the director said.

* *

THE upshot of the matter was that when he got back to Madison Dr. Jackson wrote to the museum and pointed out that since the Jacksons had migrated west and there were more Jacksons in the vicinity of Madison than in the east he thought the historic umbrella should be in the Madison museum. After due negotiation the green shower stick of Gen. Jackson arrived in Madison.

Gift Wrapping Hits New High in Originality

Stickers, Tags, and Tissues Offer Originality.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Shoppers out for stickers, tags, tissue paper, and fancy wrappings for any and all gifts had better plan to leave home at dawn. For if you have any idea of looking around before you make your decisions about such important buys, we'll warn you others have the same idea . . . all kinds of them are fussing about the displays when the shops first open.

Stickers, without and with words or warnings about either peeking or keeping until Christmas, have reached a new high for originality. There's one sticker with a silver padlock design showing signs of some one's curiosity, bearing the definite "Don't tamper with till Christmas." Another sticker says, very obligingly, "Open any time you wish."

Silver and gold stars will still twinkle wherever you decide to stick them, fat, jolly Saint Nicks, both rotundly old fashioned in red and angularly moderne in such wierd colors as green and peacock blue are ready for attaching with good sticky goo applied to the back.

Cellophane is the high C of all Christmas wrapping sessions . . . from the multicolored paper that glistens, glitters, and shines to the bows of ribbon cellophane in every imaginable color and color combination. This cellophane ribbon ties easily and effectively, and is a life saver for the shopper with a trunkful of packages or for the limited gift budget.

Papers and tricky wrappings come in a book of sample swatches, in these books you'll find everything you ever dreamed about, stripes, plaids, dizzy diagonals, silver paper like lovely crinkled tea chest paper, tawny golds, paper with patterns of printed puppies tied up with mistletoe and red ribbons, old fashioned gallants with high hats strolling besides equally old fashioned ladies with huge bell skirts, perky short jackets, entrancing small hats, and many packages under the arms.

And, should the sight of so much splendor dull your taste for wrapping your own loot, the expert tiers of ribbons and assemblers of exciting new color combines will tackle your particular problems with vim and vigor and you can call later in the day and collect parcels that will earn a reputation for you for imagination and cleverness . . . that is if you can unblushingly take the praise without divulging the source of the able assistance in time of need.

WEDDING

The announcement that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hickey Ruttle are making this morning of the marriage yesterday of their daughter, Dorothy Lillian, to John Hayden Macdonald, son of Mrs. John H. Macdonald of Ann Arbor and Detroit, will come as a surprise to the friends of the young couple, for although they had been engaged for several months the wedding was not expected to take place until next summer. The ceremony was read at noon yesterday in St. Chrysostom's church by the Rev. Dudley S. Stark. Just the immediate families, including the bridegroom's sister, Miss Elizabeth Macdonald, attended the service and the wedding breakfast afterwards in the Ruttle residence at 317 Belden avenue.

The bride attended the Bishop Strachan school at Toronto, the University School for Girls here, and Northwestern university. The bridegroom is a graduate of the literary school at the University of Michigan and of the school of law at Harvard university. He and his bride have gone to Washington, D. C., on their wedding trip.

Haddad-Evans Win in Mixed Pairs Bridge

Chicagoans Wade Through Foes with Ease.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

Never relinquishing an early lead and swelling the margin with every deal the team of Mrs. Eliot Evans, 131 Kedzie street, Evanston, and Louis G. Haddad, 210 East Pearson street, swept to victory last night in the mixed pair tournament of the American Bridge league competition at the Stevens hotel. All the bridge experts at the contest and even the "kibitzers" admitted the Chicago team had played unbeatable bridge.

Mr. Haddad and his partner were awarded a silver cup, donated by Mrs. Olga Hilliard of New York. They retain this trophy for one year. Mr. Haddad and Mrs. Evans scored 1,077½ out of a possible 1,848 points.

Second place in the tournament was won by Mrs. Florence Stratford and M. J. Blake of Cleveland, O. Two Chicago teams finished third and fourth. They were Miss Allyne Paris, 5326 Cornell avenue, and Robert Rubel, 4900 Blackstone avenue, in third place, and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Pope, 906 Bluff street, Glencoe, in fourth place.

The mixed team of four contest began in the evening with thirty teams entered. Victory in this event is one of the most sought after bridge prizes, and a team led by Ely Culbertson, tract column, was leading at the close of the night's play. The other members of this team are Mr. Culbertson's wife, Josephine, and Albert Morehead and Richard Fry of New York.

Another powerful team was composed of Baron Waldemar Von Zedtwitz and Louis H. Watson of New York and Charles H. Goren and B. Jay Becker of Philadelphia. All the eastern players were out for revenge as Chicago and the middle west have carried off most of the laurels in the games played thus far.

A team of three Chicagoans and one New Yorker was another favorite. This team is led by Mr. Haddad, who is president of the Bridge league. The other players are Walter L. Jacobs, 1226 Madison Park; Arthur Glatt of the Chicago Beach hotel, and Sidney Rosinoff of New York. The team of four championship will be decided after a third round tonight.

Joe E. Brown, the movie star, spent a half hour at the tournaments, stopping off between trains en route from Hollywood to New York. He traded autographs with Mr. Culbertson and then admitted modestly: "I'm the best player in the country and Ely is second."

One hand played during the evening by a pair opposing Mr. Culbertson and his wife was described by the bridge expert as a "perfect example of the folly of unconsidered two bids."

These were the east and west cards played against the Culbertsons:

West:

Spades—A, 10, 9, 8, 4. Hearts—A, Q, 6. Diamonds—A, 5. Clubs—A, 9, 2.

East:

Spades—Q, J, 6. Hearts—K, 7, 4. Diamonds—10, 9, 3, 2. Clubs—10, 6, 3.

West, dazzled by his array of aces, opened with a two spade bid. His partner said three spades and West adding bad to worse, jumped to five spades, from where his partner carried him to six spades. Mr. Culbertson promptly jumped in with a double and the contract was set three tricks.

"Opening two bids such as West made have cost the bridge players of the country a hundred million dollars," Mr. Culbertson said afterward. "The bidding should be as follows:

"One spade by West, one no trump by East and three no trump by West, which should be the final contract. That contract cannot be beaten."

Good Morning!

Pauline Lord, who made the Cabbage Patch lady, Mrs. Wiggs, live so humanly and delightfully on the screen, has another mother rôle that she knew exactly what to do with in "A Feather in Her Hat."

This dear little widow, Clarissa Phipps, is English and talks with a cockney accent. She wears funny hats that always sport one feather and has an organic ailment which she doesn't permit to get the best of her till she's accomplished her life's work—namely, made a "gentleman" of her son, Richard.

The picture is an adaptation of a novel by I. A. R. Wylie, and is a sentimental affair designed to bring tears to eyes that love to shed 'em.

Because of excellent team work on the part of able players and director, this objective is obtained and "A Feather in Her Hat," despite its deliberate over-drawing, has scenes that definitly get you where you live.

Mrs. Phipps has but one ambition in life—to see her boy mingle with the "upper clarses." That he may do so, she gives a home to a well educated and gentlemanly derelict, Capt. Courtney, victim of the war, who pays for his comfortable abiding place by instructing Richard in letters and manners. AND—on the latter's coming of age birthday she tells the boy, now a budding playwright, that she isn't his "mom," but that he's the son of a once famous actress to whom she, "mom," had been personal maid. . . . She hands him 1,000 pounds which she says is his inheritance, and sends him forth to seek fame and fortune among the bigwigs. . . .

How her plottings turn out the movie will show you.

I'm certain [didn't read the book] that the title is descriptive of Richard, the finished product, and does not refer to the trim of Clarissa's peculiar headgear.

Enchantment by the box! As a Christmas thought consider the three beauty boxes which have as their cover a charming Laurencin print which may be hung on the wall. You may have your choice of a makeup ensemble, dusting powder or face powder.

Perhaps the most enchanting Christmas beauty items we've seen to date [and we've been looking at Yuletide merchandise since September] are the beauty boxes that have as their cover a copy of a Marie Laurencin print. There are three boxes—one a complete makeup ensemble; one dusting powder, and one face powder—offered by one of our great beauty specialists. Each box is in a pure, pale blue, each is filled with excellent products, each is round and each is topped with a copy of one of those delicate, charming Laurencins—mistily colorful prints that seem to have been painted by one whose eyes swim with soft tears.

When the boxes are emptied the cover may be detached—and on your wall hangs a Laurencin! These are, certainly, sensational beauty gifts.

The most elaborate of the three boxes contains practically everything a woman needs for makeup, from foundation down to eye shadow. Everything—powder, rouge, lipstick, etc., has quality and style, and each item is packaged in the same blue as the box. It would be difficult to think of a more charming gift for any woman who likes fine beauty aids beautifully presented.

Incidentally, in this rather large round box there is set a separate box of face powder, this also topped with a Laurencin print that can be transferred from dressing table to wall if its owner chooses.

Then, as the second offering of the trio, there is a large box of beautiful dusting powder in the cool, sweet scent of water lilies. This has a perfectly enormous fluffy puff nestling beneath its Laurencin print cover.

The smallest box of the three is a generous box of face powder, this, too, in water lily fragrance and a variety of beautiful shades. The French puff that comes with it is the kind all women want but rarely buy for themselves.

These are not frighteningly expensive as beautiful gift items go, so be sure you give them more than a little thought. ELEANOR NANGLE.

This interesting block was designed by an architect because his wife wanted an original design for her newly decorated bedroom. It is distinctly individual because of its thoroughly modern interpretation of climbing roses. Miss Morini Sings Lead in "La Traviata"

Opera Plans for New Season Are Announced.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Chicago City Opera company repeated "La Traviata" last night with a change in the principal rôle. Rosalinda Morini sang Violetta.

After she had had a chance to take advantage of a little emotional momentum her work in the part was very satisfactory. Morini has natural suavity of voice and good musicianship. In the first act these advantages were balanced against a certain nervousness and a resulting hardness of tone. The good qualities came out definite winners in the later stages of the opera.

By means of cards passed out during one of the intermissions the company announced that subscriptions are open for next season. Opera in 1936 starts on Nov. 2 and runs six weeks. There is to be a new method of spacing. Monday, Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday nights and Saturday afternoons will be subscription performances. The house will be dark Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday except for possible special presentations.

I finally got to the Blackstone yesterday to hear one of the Intimate Opera Mornings. Edna Kellogg was skillfully condensing the story of "The Jewels of the Madonna." She has notable dramatic powers, and the simplicity and sincerity of her manner help to account for the very great success of this series. Miss Kellogg and Anna Fitzu divide the Wednesdays between them. Frederic Persson plays irreproachable piano.

It is surely news when an Intimate Opera Morning changes to evening. One of them is scheduled for this coming Sunday night at 8:30. The place is the hotel's crystal ballroom.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra announces a change in soloist for Dec. 26 and 27. Myra Hess has just undergone an operation and will be unable to cross the Atlantic in time for the programs. Chicago was to be the first city of a long American tour.

Efrem Zimbalist will take her place. The management hopes to secure Miss Hess for an appearance in the late winter or early spring.

The Briar Pipe

By Stuart Palmer

SYNOPSIS.

Violet Feverel is killed, apparently by having been thrown from her horse, Siwash. She was taking an early morning ride in New York's Central park. Miss Hildegarde Withers, teacher and student of criminology, happens on the scene of the tragedy, where she meets her friend, Inspector Piper. They suspect murder. After the body is removed Miss Withers finds a briar pipe on the spot where the dead girl had lain. Mrs. Maude Thwaite and her husband, Rufus, are owners of the stable where Siwash is kept, and Latigo Wells, manager. Maude Thwaite desired to own Siwash. At Violet Feverel's apartment Miss Withers and Piper overtake Violet's young half-sister, Barbara Foley, about to elope with Eddie Fry, Violet's boy friend and a race track gambler. Barbara tells them that Violet was divorced from Don Gregg and had had him put in alimony jail. Thomas, who with his wife, Mattie, are old retainers of Don's father, Pat Gregg, comes in search of Violet. Old Mr. Gregg thinks he is going to die. Thomas hints at foul play. Miss Withers and Piper accompany Thomas to the Gregg country home. Pat Gregg has had a near stroke. Back in town Miss Withers and Piper call at the alimony jail, but Don Gregg had been released on a fake writ before his wife's death. Then they call at the morgue. The medical examiner's autopsy reveals Violet Feverel was killed by a bebe bullet which hit her throat. Miss Withers finds Don Gregg in Violet Feverel's apartment.

INSTALMENT XXII.

WANTED FOR MURDER.

Miss Withers was watching, not Gregg, but the girl. Barbara seemed strangely uneasy, as if waiting for a bomb to go off under somebody's chair.

Gregg nodded. "After the steam and the rubdown I went to bed, and pretty near slept the clock around. I left the place and came over here expecting to find Violet . . ."

"I came upstairs after going down to—to the place where they've got my sister, and here he was," admitted Barbara. "I knew who he was, but he didn't know me," she went on to explain quickly. "Violet hadn't ever told him she had a sister so much younger . . ."

"And named Foley," Miss Withers put in. "Naturally not. And what was the first thing Mr. Gregg here said to you?"

Barbara frowned. "The first thing? O—as I came in the door he rose up in his chair and said 'Vi, old darling, you're going to listen to me or I'll tie a knot in your white throat . . . !'"

"Which would make it very clear that, like Mr. Thomas earlier in the day, this young man mistook you for your sister. And moreover, that he had no knowledge, guilty or otherwise, of your sister's death."

"That's the way I figured it, too," said Barbara Foley calmly.

Miss Withers stared at the girl sharply, and then nodded. "For a young man who could break out of jail, it would be no trouble at all to break into an apartment," she said.

"I didn't break in, I still have my key to this place," Gregg retorted. "And what makes you think I broke out of jail?"

"Why ——" Miss Withers blinked. "The people at the jail seemed to have a suspicion that everything wasn't exactly 'kosher,' as they so aptly put it. By the way, who was the friend who posed as a deputy sherif and got you out on a fake writ?"

"You are wanted for murder, are you not?"

A look of wide and complete surprise crossed the face of Don Gregg. "A fake writ? I don't know what's in your mind, but I tell you, I never saw that guy before. They told me at the jail that everything was okay and I'd been sprung." He rose from his chair. "You mean —— I wasn't legally freed?"

"Correct," Miss Withers snapped. She was growing a little annoyed with the complete and transparent innocence of every one connected with this case. "And when this obliging stranger got you out of the jail, where did he take you?"

"Of course, you can describe this Good Samaritan?"

Don Gregg tried again to light the pipe. "Sure —— sure I can. He was a big, dark chap, with a black moustache and a scar across his cheek."

"The description is more than interesting, because until you gave it I was wondering if perhaps you had not borrowed that blue overcoat from the deputy sherif who got you out of jail." She pointed to the coat on his arm. "It so evidently was made for a man much smaller than yourself, . . . but if he was so tall and formidable. . . ."

Don Gregg took his pipe out of his mouth and put it into his pocket. He rose suddenly, facing Barbara. "I'll be going," he said to her. "Thanks for the cup of coffee and . . . everything . . ."

But Miss Withers also was standing. "Young man," her voice rang out, "you're lying like Baron Munchausen, and you know it. But before you go, answer me one question and answer it truthfully. Remember, I'm a school teacher, and I can spot a lie a mile away. Careful now; did you kill Violet Feverel this morning?"

"I hated Violet," he said softly. "When I was rotting in jail I thought night and day about how I'd like to get my hands around her throat. But I don't mind telling you, or the police, or anybody else—as I told Barbara here before you came—I did not kill her!"

"Then you have nothing to worry about from me—or from the police either," said Miss Withers, gathering herself together.

As he moved toward the door Miss Withers could not help noticing that there was a ragged tear across the lower part of his right trouser leg, a tear which had been somewhat sketchily mended with fine silk thread of flesh color. The edges of the tear showed marks of black grease.

Gregg noticed her glance. "Caught it on the fender of a taxi," he explained. "I'm not used to trafic, you see." He displayed also a barked knuckle.

"New York trafic is terrible," Miss Withers agreed sympathetically, "particularly on a hot summer Sabbath when everybody is out of town." She sniffed. "Young man, I warned you not to attempt lying to me. But come on, let's take a ride."

Don Gregg stiffened. "What? Say . . ."

She faced him, still patient. "You're wanted for murder, are you not? And for jail-breaking besides. Well, it occurred to me that the best thing for you to do would be to come down to headquarters with me, before you're arrested! It'll create a good impression. I have some influence with the police, a great deal of influence, I might say." She smiled brightly. "They'll be likely to ask you a few questions and then let you go."

Gregg nodded. "I'll go. But I don't know anything about what happened to Violet. He looked at Barbara. "So long, kid . . . and thanks for everything."

Miss Withers let Don Gregg push on into the hall and leaned back toward the girl.

"You want to help solve this murder, do you not?"

Barbara stared at her. "Of course! But what can I do?"

"You can do a great deal," Miss Withers said. "Young men talk to a pretty girl very freely, I've noticed. And when young men get jealous over a girl, sometimes strange truths come to light. Why not drop down and see Siwash one day soon. And keep your eyes open. . . ."

Don Gregg waited for Miss Withers down the hall. "I don't see why I have to—"

"I'm advising you to spike the guns of the police—to come down to headquarters with me. If you do it will only be a short while before you're free to go up to the farm. . . ."

"What makes you think I want to go up home?" demanded Gregg. "My father's a great guy, but he and I'd be in each other's hair inside of an hour," he said. "We don't get along."

They were going out through the lobby. "You seem to have trouble getting along with people, don't you?" Miss Withers went on. "I didn't want to ask you before that girl upstairs, but what was the real cause of your breakup with Violet?"

Gregg coughed. "She was an iceberg," he said slowly. "Violet only thought about dollars, and what dollars could do for her. It's not nice to say now, but I'm not going to pretend I'm sorry she's dead. She'd been spoiled by seeing her own face looking too pretty in too many magazines."

"And you couldn't get along—was it another man?"

He shook his head. "I told you Violet was an iceberg. Funny we couldn't get along, at that. Because we had so much in common—we were both of us madly in love with Violet!"

Debutante Dinner Will Precede Ball.

Mrs. William Waller and Mrs. William W. Dixon have planned a party for debutante Miss Elisabeth Dewes next Wednesday. They will have about fifty young people for dinner and then take them on to the Emerson House ball at the Stevens hotel.

Miss Dewes will be one of a group of young women who will sell cigarets under the direction of Mrs. Ralph Chatillon at the ball. Practically every member of the Emerson House board is having a dinner party preceding the ball and numerous Dutch treat parties are being organized. Mrs. John D. Ames and Mrs. George A. Poole Jr. are getting up one, Miss Narcissa Swift is planning another, and Miss Madelon Search is organizing still another.

Mrs. Darrow Fulton to Sing at Club.

Guests at the Assembly ball tomorrow night have a pleasant treat in store for them for Mrs. Darrow B. Fulton, the former Anna Wrenn, will sing to them during the evening. Mrs. Fulton is making her debut tonight in the Mayfair room at the Blackstone as an entertainer, singing popular songs and French ballads. Mrs. Everts Wrenn's daughter is Chicago's first socially prominent songstress.

There will be a tea-dance in the Mayfair room a week from Sunday and during the holidays from Dec. 20 through the 31st, there will be tea-dancing every afternoon, a program planned especially for the debutante set.

Members of the Crib society of St. Vincent's infant asylum were guests at a tea Mrs. George D. McLaughlin, president of the society, gave yesterday at her home in Ritchie court for Miss Colleen Moore. Miss Moore told about the tiny volume of Spenser's "Faerie Queene" and the 500 year old ikon from Rome just added to her doll house, which is being displayed Sunday afternoon at the Fair for the benefit of the infant asylum.

Tickets may be obtained either from members of the board or at the store, Mrs. McLaughlin said. Miss Moore herself, late in the afternoon, will present the diamond wrist watch that Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody and Mrs. Henry C. Murphy are donating.

Keehns to Give Tea for Son and Bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy D. Keehn have invitations out for a tea on Sunday, Dec. 15, from 4 to 7 o'clock at their residence in Lake Forest for the junior Roy Keehns, who were married on Nov. 22. The younger Mrs. Keehn was Miss Patricia Hampton.

The alumnæ of the college are giving a tea for her this afternoon at the Ambassador East, and tomorrow night Miss Warren will address parents of Sarah Lawrence students at 8:15 o'clock at the Drake hotel.

While she is here Miss Warren will be the guest of Mrs. Harry Lord Wells in Hubbard Woods. Miss Peggy Wiley is chairman of the alumnæ committee in charge of the tea, and Miss Mary Armstrong, a debutante, is secretary.

Among those who will have guests at luncheon afterward are Mrs. William Nelson Pelouze, Mrs. Alfred Tyler, Mrs. Alfred Benson, Mrs. Thomas E. Wilson, Mrs. Donald Scott, Mrs. Bruce Scott, and Mrs. Charles S. Davis and Mrs. Edgar Smith, who will be hostesses at a joint party.

BY MARY MEADE.

To suggest that the charms of pumpkin pie ever could pall would be rank heresy in the ears of some of our readers. Still, after the first fine rapture of the pumpkin season has waned, a little variety may not come amiss in some less orthodox circles.

Golden pumpkin doughnuts, moist and sweet within a crusty coating, are something with which you simply shouldn't go without through the late fall. Another suggestion, all set for enthusiastic breakfast reception with crisp bacon or grilled ham, is pumpkin waffles. Or, if you prefer to put your pumpkin into pies and nothing else, how about a Pumpkin Mince Pie by way of a change?

Pumpkin Doughnuts.

4 cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup sugar
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon allspice
1 egg
2 tablespoons melted shortening
1⅓ cups milk
½ teaspoon lemon extract
¾ cup cooked sieved pumpkin

Sift the dry ingredients together. Beat the egg until light, and combine with the melted fat, milk, flavoring, and pumpkin. Mix with the dry ingredients, lightly but thoroughly. Roll on a well floured board, cut, and fry in a deep fat at 375 degrees F. The recipe makes 1½ dozen doughnuts.

Pumpkin Waffles.

1½ cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 eggs
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons melted shortening
¾ cup cooked sieved pumpkin
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon vanilla extract.

Sift the flour, salt, and baking powder together, and mix with the beaten egg yolks, milk, and melted fat. Add the pumpkin, nutmeg, and vanilla. Stir lightly and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake on a hot waffle iron and serve immediately with powdered sugar, butter, and ham or bacon.

Pumpkin Mince Pie.

2 cups cooked sieved pumpkin
¾ cup sugar
¾ cup seedless raisins
¼ cup chopped citron
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind

Combine all ingredients and blend thoroughly. Pour into an unbaked pastry shell and bake at 425 degrees F. for 10 minutes. Reduce the heat to 350 degrees, and continue baking until firm, about 25 to 30 minutes longer. Serve cold.

Cites Advertising to Prove That Models Are the Best Dressed

New York, Dec. 4.—[Special.]—With New York and Paris designers already at odds over their selections of the "best dressed" women from the social lists, a models' agent heaped coals on the controversy today by declaring boldly that the smartest dressers did not come from social circles at all, but from the ranks of the professional models.

"Society women cannot hold a candle to professional models when it comes to dress," and the models are also the most beautiful girls, in the opinion of John Robert Powers. He acts as agent for models. He added that the models get paid for being that way.

"Why," said Mr. Powers with enthusiasm, "flick the pages of any periodical and you'll find the best dressed and the most beautiful women in America."

According to CULBERTSON

WORTHLESS HANDS.

It is far from pleasant to pick up a hand containing not a face card, but it does not follow that the unlucky holder might just as well take a short nap. Aside from the fact that obvious listlessness on the part of one defender must make declarer's play easier, by locating missing honors in the other hand, a lowly nine or ten, properly handled, may become the deciding factor. Incidentally, if one plays for the love of the game [and surely there can be no other good reason] an enormous thrill should result from victory with a "worthless" hand. East, in the hand shown below, stayed wide awake despite his horrible "bust," and it was he, not his honor laden partner, who was able to defeat a vulnerable game contract.

West, dealer.

	NORTH
	♠ A J 9 3 ♥ K Q J ♦ J 10 4 ♣ A 7 6
WEST ♠ 4 3 ♥ A 8 5 2 ♦ A K Q 8 ♣ K J 9		EAST ♠ 5 ♥ 10 9 4 ♦ 7 6 5 3 2 ♣ 10 4 3 2
	SOUTH ♠ K Q 10 7 6 2 ♥ 7 6 3 ♦ 9 ♣ Q 8 5

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 diamond	Double	Pass	2 spades
Pass	3 spades	Pass	4 spades [final bid]

West led two top diamonds, the second of which South ruffed. Two rounds of spades drew the adverse trumps, and then the heart king forced West's ace. Now the diamond queen was led, and ruffed by South. Two rounds of hearts stripped North and South of hearts and diamonds.

At this point declarer mentally reviewed the bidding. He was fairly sure that West could not have held six or more diamonds, because he probably would have rebid, indicating a possible "save" to his partner, when not vulnerable. East, then, was fairly well located with at least four diamonds. If he had held the club king as well, would he not have attempted at least a mild shutout bid over North's takeout double? His failure to do so implied that the king was in the West hand and that a finesse to the club queen would be unsuccessful. On this basis only one play would succeed: Throwing the lead to West in order to make him lead from his king up to the queen, or another suit that would afford a ruff and a discard.

So a low club was led from dummy with this objective. As I said before, if East had been asleep the coup would have worked. But he wasn't. He promptly came up with the ten of clubs and declarer's Machiavellian scheme was ruined. The loss of two club tricks could not be avoided.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: You recently wrote an article in which you mentioned the following bidding:

North	South
1 club	1 heart
1 spade	Pass

Isn't North's spade bid forcing? How can South pass?

Answer: North's rebid of one spade is only semi-forcing, and South may, with a very weak hand, pass. Only the first one-over-one response is absolutely forcing.

Tomorrow's Hand

	NORTH
	♠ 10 9 6 3 2 ♥ J 4 ♦ A Q 5 ♣ A 5 3
WEST ♠ K J 5 ♥ 7 3 ♦ K 9 7 4 3 2 ♣ 7 4		EAST ♠ None ♥ Q 10 9 8 6 5 ♦ 10 8 ♣ K Q J 10 6
	SOUTH ♠ A Q 8 7 4 ♥ A K 2 ♦ J 6 ♣ 9 8 2

West, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's article.

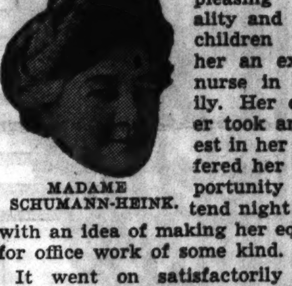
Marital Ship Put on Rocks by Ignorance

BY HUGO WESTERBERG.



MADAME SCHUMANN-HEINK.

She came from a humble home and had been given only a grade school education. Her pleasing personality and love of children made her an excellent nurse in a family. Her employer took an interest in her and offered her the opportunity to attend night classes with an idea of making her equipped for office work of some kind.

It went on satisfactorily for a while until she met a young man. He did not earn much, but she married him. Then she found there was not enough to occupy her time during the long hours he was away and she became bored. Evenings were not much more lively because he was tired and would not talk or go out with her.

Never having been taught to enjoy books or music or handiwork of some kind, she sought enjoyment elsewhere and accepted an invitation for luncheon from a former admirer. When she told her husband he made unjust but not surprising comments on her conduct.

His fleshy nose indicated a tendency to see her action in the worst light and his short upper lip denoted an inclination to worry. She did not know that [her nose being thin and slender], and made no allowance for an unfortunate combination in his makeup. In anger she left him and never went back.

Ernestine Schumann-Heink has the vocal resources of an operatic star, but her finest qualities are those of heart and mind. Her protruding chin that admits of no surrender has carried her over obstacles that stand in the way of all whose aim is high. Her well-covered eyes surmounted by heavy eyebrows indicate a courageous spirit that conquers every difficulty. The strongly formed upper lip means self-control.

Her inward curved nose in side view signifies a willingness to give the best that is in her in fulfilling her duties, and the rounded tip an indifference to weakness or unfavorable tendencies in others. The somewhat heavy lower part of the nose denotes an intimate understanding of human need of ideals and elevating principles to which her rounded forehead in side view and its connotation of emotional thinking lends a warm and colorful tone.

Boy Whom Girls Shun Must Have Distasteful Ways

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am a young man of 28, considered not bad looking. What I would like to know is, what's a fellow going to do after reaching my age and the opposite sex still avoids him as if he were poison ivy? Girls won't let me take them out. They always turn me down. When people hear that girls shun me, they remain surprisingly dumbfounded, for I hardly look the kind of person that girls would refuse.

"Whenever I'm at a dance, party, or any social affair, I try to be as nice and sociable as any one else, but as soon as I offer to take a girl out, something mysterious comes over them all. They're ready with a million excuses as to why they can't see me. Several times I not only got a refusal but a bawling out along with it, as if I had committed a crime asking them. Can you figure it out?" NICK.

One turndown or two might be interpreted as just your bad luck, with the girls elsewhere interested. But a succession of them, well, is there something woefully wrong with your style, Nick?

Your "offering" to take the girls out has the flavor of conceit. Also, your remark about people's dumbfounded surprise that you could be turned down suggests a key to your trouble. Our verdict would be that the girls are blameless, that your style, Nick, is bad. In what respect or respects, Nicholas, is for you to find out. It may be your conceit coupled with a personality that has nothing to recommend your self-sustained ego. Your approach must be pretty bad when it would earn you not only a refusal but a bawling out, in addition.

So, we'd recommend that you pay some one, if need be, to tell you wherein you are wrong. Take it and like it! And change your style. You'd better try to circulate the new Nicholas in a new field of people. Your present reputation as an unwanted suitor would dim your chances of resuscitation. In a new field and a new Nick, you might get a girl to take you on.

You're one of those people, Nick, to whom every one is out of step but yourself. It's you who are wrong. A prepossessing young man of 28, of good manners, usually has the problem of warding off female pursuers. Get some frank and fearless pal to tip you off as to what's the matter with you.

New Slogan for Loveliness: Slow Down, but Never Stop!

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Slow down, but don't STOP! is the slogan offered by way of introducing today's topic.

There comes a time when one is willing to recognize that she can't do what she used to be able to do. Staying out late nights, for one thing, dancing till the wee sma' hours. You can't play as brisk a game. Maybe you can't play the game at all. You can't take on the piles of work you used to be able to handle with ease. It's all right to recognize that you can't keep up the breakneck speed of youth. It's wise to ease up. But it's all wrong to STOP, to slow down so badly you can't get the engine working again.

There are just scads of women of midyears who abuse the alibi of having to slow down. They sit down on it, really, won't move forward an inch. Now, when you find yourself not wanting to accept that invitation just through sheer inertia about preparing yourself for the date, you're going down, down. When you won't get outdoors for a bit of fresh air, it's the same road of descent.

When you find yourself forgetting names that you've heard over and over again, take it as a warning. Your memory isn't slipping. It's rusting for lack of use. You've slowed down so you won't take the bother to register the name properly. When you won't settle down to read a good article through sheer mental inertia, beware! You're going down as a bore. There are just endless signs of a slowing down in which one does not have to indulge.

All of this has a fatal effect on the appearance. That slowing down is seen in the lifeless walk, the dispirited voice and, often, in the disgruntled expression. Most certainly in the care of the skin and hair. Most of all in the care of the skin and and hair, I'd say. Figure, too, but you can forgive middle age girth, but not its untidiness, neglect of hair and skin. Put the machine into slower gear, but refuse to come to a stop.

Mike Jacobs Promotes Title Bridge Match

New York, Dec. 4.—[Special.]—The hand of Mike Jacobs, boxing promoter, appeared today in the arrangements for the forthcoming international title bridge match—to the astonishment of the French team, which earned the right to oppose America's Four Aces by winning the European championship at Brussels last June.

Precisely what functions Mr. Jacobs was to discharge in connection with the match, which will begin next Thursday at Essex House and wind up Dec. 23 at Madison Square Garden, was not made clear. At his Twentieth Century Sporting club it was said that Mr. Jacobs was "helping promote" the event, while Michael Gottlieb, member of the Four Aces, said the boxing impresario was "just managing."

"He's had experience at that kind of thing, you know," said Mr. Gottlieb.

But, whatever his duties, there was no mistaking Mr. Jacobs' touch in the plans for the Madison Square Garden finals. The playing tables will be inclosed in soundproof walls of glass and a "human deck of cards," involving the services of 52 ushers, will portray the progress of the games for the 20,000 who are expected to pack the auditorium.

The ushers, each supporting a giant reproduction of a specific card, will be divided into groups of thirteen as the cards are dealt by the players. Whenever a card is played inside the glass cages the corresponding card bearer will move to the center of the platform. This the ushers will do in response to the amplified orders of an announcer.

The five members of the French team, all of whom have gained their bridge experience in the relative seclusion of clubs and private homes, got their first inkling of these plans this morning when Mr. Gottlieb and David Burnstine of the Four Aces paid them a visit. None of them seemed quite able to comprehend the project.

Parent-Made Gifts Help to Holiday Budget

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

You don't have to spend a lot of money on the children's Christmas to make it a happy one. Certainly if you spend more than you should it will make you miserable and that will reflect itself in your Christmas disposition.

I know how it is—you want with all your heart and soul to give everybody you love just what they want around the holidays—and you overstep the mark. It worries you, even while you're bursting the bounds of your Christmas budget.

There's more to Christmas than the giving, and the children can have a red letter Christmas without your running into debt. The whole spirit of Christmas before it comes—that is, the "spreading out" that we've been talking about—and the ceremony and festivity of the day itself have more meaning than a concentrating of money and thought on the giving of "big" presents.

Give with enough financial ease so that you can be happy about it. There are many things in the stores that are highly satisfying and cost little, as well as many that give full return for large expenditure.

But it may be that what you can spend for Christmas is so little that you don't dare go near a store. If so, don't despair. A pair [or two] of deft hands, an ingenious mind, and a generous expenditure of time can provide your darlings—be they boys or girls, large or small—with such interesting presents as a doll's house, doll's furniture, blocks, a home-made dressing table, a cart, cloth animals—but I won't try to list them here, as lists make dull reading.

135 pounds—Agis Bray.
126 pounds—Sam David.
118 pounds—Nazareth D'Augustina.
112 pounds—Al Limback.

19,840 Attend Bouts.

The new champs fought their way on to victory before a crowd of 19,840. It was the largest crowd to attend a boxing show in Chicago during the present indoor season. It was the biggest throng ever to see a C. Y. O. tournament final.

Exciting, bitterly contested scraps came one after another. Even the boys in the Class B division had the big crowd in an uproar a minute after the first battle was under way. Cornelius Young, a hard punching kid from St. Cecilia parish whipped Joe Tazioli an Italian lad from St. James parish in Highwood, in that exciting opening struggle to become the first Class B champion.

Hiner Thomas, a rugged colored boy from Corpus Christi parish on the south side, captured the first class A crown. His victim was Mike Krizmas, a game Greek kid, from St. Patrick's parish in South Chicago. This was a slugging match all the way.

No Quitters Present.

So were nearly all of the other championship scraps. Not a boy quit or even indicated he wanted to quit. There was too much stuff in these 32 survivors from an original field of 2,215 for anything like that to happen.

Just after Agis Bray, a colored boy from Corpus Christi church had beaten Bob Chan, a Chinese youngster, for the class B lightweight championship—this was the last of the class B bouts—ceremonies, religious, and patriotic demonstrations stirred the huge throng.

His Excellency Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, founder and general director of the Catholic Youth organization, administered the C. Y. O. pledge. A quartet of opera stars, consisting of John Pane-Gasser, tenor; Maria Matyas, mezzo-soprano; Hilda Owen, soprano, and Mark Love, basso, sang "The Star Spangled Banner" and "America."

Mayor Kelly Attends.

Many notables, headed by Mayor Kelly and numerous church dignitaries, including the Rev. Father John O'Hara, president of Notre Dame university, were in the crowd.

In impressive ceremony by Bishop Sheil, eight well known Chicagoans were inducted into the C. Y. O. club of champions for meritorious work which has advanced the activities of C. Y. O. The Chicagoans honored in this ceremony were Richard Lenihan, Al Horan, Paul Host, Carl Stockholm, Walter Jennings, Roy McCarthy, Dick Spellman, and Edwin H. Thomas.

The battle for the class A heavyweight championship between Al Camber and Mike Adler was one of the great thrillers of the night. Camber had finished second in the race for the heavyweight title last year. He was regarded almost as a sure winner in his tussle against Adler.

Adler Beats Camber.

But he wasn't, although he floored Adler with a hard right soon after the first round started. Adler was up before Referee McGarity could start a count. Adler went right after Camber after that happened. In the third round he sent a series of left and right wings to the chin and face. Camber went down. He bobbled right up, but his legs gave way beneath him. The referee stopped it. Adler was the winner on a technical knockout and shapes up as a terrific punching champion.

Andy Scrivani was the only former C. Y. O. champion to seek a title. He became a triple crown winner when he whipped Joe Warren for the lightweight title. He won bantamweight and featherweight titles in his other C. Y. O. endeavors and was the winner of the Tribune's Golden Gloves

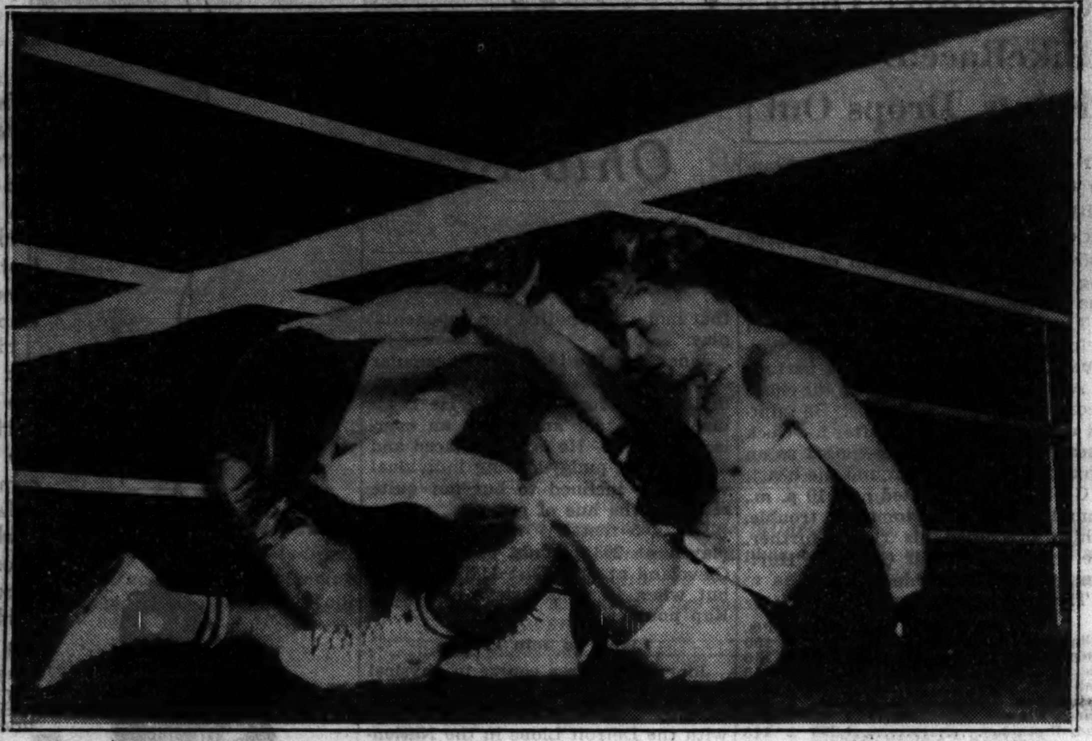
PLENTY OF ACTION IN C. Y. O. BOUTS



Tony Gora of St. Pius parish (in white tights) goes down in the class B, 160 pound C. Y. O. championship bout at the Chicago Stadium last night, with his opponent, Florentino Arrequin of All Saints, on top of him. Gora won a decision.

HERE AND THERE.

ARMY will lose by graduation seven regulars from its eleven which defeated Navy so decisively at Philadelphia last Saturday. They are Capt. Bill Shuler, Jock Clifford, Nick Necrason, Hal Wolf, Bill Grohs, Tarzan True, and Whitey Grove. The other four members, Monk Meyer, John Ericksen, Stan Smith and Woody Stromberg are juniors.

The Army Athletic association returned $71,720 to applicants for tickets whose wants could not be supplied. Navy returned about the same amount, indicating the demand for accommodations.

When Army won the annual service battle, it took back to the West Point trophy room, in addition to the football used in the game, a Navy blanket decorated with 13 stars. If Navy had won, the Army mule would have been unblanketed and his robe taken by the midshipmen to Annapolis. The Army blanket had 20 stars. These stars denote the number of service games won by the eleven possessing it. The series now stands 21 for Army, 13 for Navy, and 2 tied.

The Sugar Bowl football game to be played at New Orleans on New Year's day had its inception a year ago. Tulane and Temple met before a crowd of 30,000 spectators with the home eleven winning 20 to 14 after trailing 14 to 7 at the half. Little Monk Simmons, Tulane's stellar half back, and Dave Smukler, Temple's powerful full back, were the stars.

Then there's the Orange Bowl affair at Miami, Fla. On last New Year's day Bucknell rolled up a total of 26 to 0 against the University of Miami eleven whose undergraduate department is located at Coral Gables. Tom McCann, once of Illinois, is Miami coach.

Other holiday games are the Rose Bowl or Tournament of Roses affair at Pasadena, oldest of all these intersectional contests; the East vs. West Shrine benefit contest at San Francisco where Dick Hanley and Andy Kerr are coaches of the eastern players; the proposed Catholic college intersectional championship at San Francisco; and if the supply of bowls doesn't run out, the Cocoanut Bowl high school game on Christmas at Miami, Fla., to which New Trier of Winnetka would welcome an invitation.

LONDON, England, Dec. 4.—Anti-Nazi demonstrations failed to materialize as England defeated Germany, 3 to 0, today. Sixty thousand watched the first international soccer match in England since 1901. The British team held a 1 to 0 advantage at the end of the first half.

Nazi songs were sung and flags were displayed before the contest. The large crowd and the teams stood at salute as English and German flags were placed at half mast in respect for Princess Victoria, who died yesterday.

VOTE BERWANGER MOST VALUABLE PLAYER IN EAST

New York, Dec. 4.—[Special.]—The Downtown Athletic club's trophy for "the most valuable football player in the east" will go to Jay Berwanger, captain and right half back of the University of Chicago football team, it was announced today.

All football players east of the Mississippi river were eligible under the "eastern" classification in the poll taken among eastern sports writers to determine the trophy winner. Berwanger received 84 votes. Monk Meyer of Army was second with 29 and Bill Shakespeare of Notre Dame placed third with 23.

WHITE SOX DENY DEAL FOR FOXX, SIMMONS TRADE

Roster Unchanged After Day of Rumors.

The personnel of the White Sox baseball club is unchanged today after a revival yesterday of rumors that Al Simmons, veteran outfielder, had been traded to Detroit and Jimmy Foxx, heavy hitting Philadelphia first baseman, had been sold to the Chicago team.

Vice President Harry Grabiner of the White Sox, and Manager Jimmy Dykes, who was reached at his home in Philadelphia, were emphatic in their insistence that no effort had been made to obtain Foxx and that they had received no reasonable offer for Simmons.

Three-Way Deal Claimed.

Yesterday's reports claimed consummation of a three-way deal in which Foxx came to the Sox for cash, said to be $75,000, and Simmons went to the Tigers for $25,000, Outfielder Gerald Walker and Infielder Gilbert English, with the White Sox passing Walker and a pitcher along to the St. Louis Browns for Sam West, veteran outfielder.

"The Simmons matter stands just where it was left in Dayton, O., at the time of the minor league meeting," Grabiner said. "We are willing to trade or sell Simmons if we get our price. To date no one has met that price."

Must Meet Sox Terms.

"Mr. Grabiner has told you all there is to tell about Simmons," Dykes said. "Simmons is the greatest outfielder in the game and as such is our best trading material. We will send him away if we can do our team any good. So far no one has come anywhere near meeting our price on him, and if they don't we will be glad to have him playing for us again next year. He was offered to Detroit at the minor league meeting because we felt he could bring us enough help to strengthen our team greatly. The deal is still open to Detroit, but the Tigers apparently figure the price too high. At any rate, Simmons is still the property of the White Sox."

"The Foxx deal is purely a pipe dream. We have never made a bid for Foxx. I would like to have him on our team and I know Mr. Grabiner and Mr. Comiskey would, too, but not at the price Philadelphia is asking.

"It would not surprise me," Dykes continued, "if Foxx goes to another American league team next spring. In fact a deal may already have been made. But the White Sox, unfortunately, are not the club."

Why Take $75,000?

Grabiner pointed out that it was not likely that Connie Mack, the Philadelphia manager, would accept $75,000 from the Sox for Foxx when other clubs have offered as high as $200,000 for the slugger.

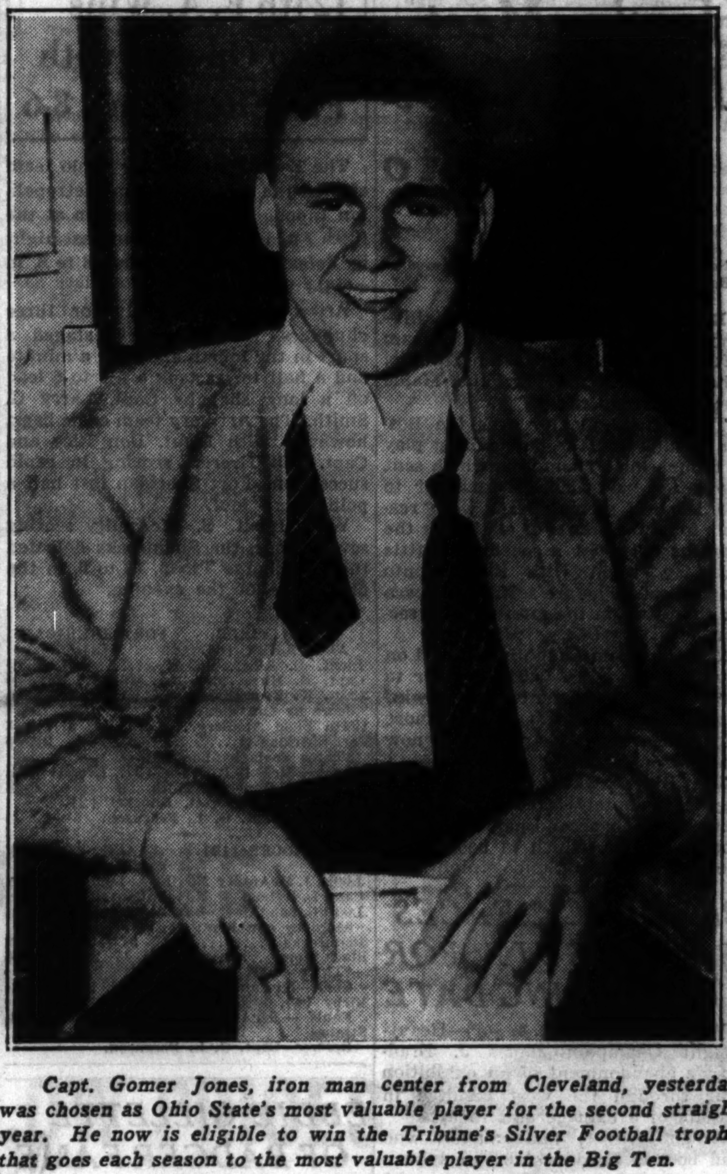
Rumors of the West deal also brought denials from Grabiner and Dykes, who explained that the possible sale of the St. Louis American league club made it impossible for present Brown officials to negotiate the transfer of any players not under contract to the club. Grabiner and Dykes intimated, however, that the White Sox would like to be given an opportunity to barter for West when the Browns decide to place the center fielder on the market.

Dykes Here Sunday.

Dykes will come to Chicago Sunday for the major league meeting which opens Monday at the Palmer house. Other managers and major league club officials will arrive on Sunday and Monday. Dykes is coming early to attend the Cardinal-Bear football game at Wrigley field Sunday afternoon.

Edward [Bull] Durham, star young White Sox pitcher, who was placed on the voluntary retired list last season because of a sore arm and a general run down condition, was placed on the active list again yesterday by Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis.

BUCKEYES' CHOICE



Capt. Gomer Jones, iron man center from Cleveland, yesterday was chosen as Ohio State's most valuable player for the second straight year. He now is eligible to win the Tribune's Silver Football trophy that goes each season to the most valuable player in the Big Ten.

Dr. Kopcha Plans Farewell to Pro Football Sunday

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Joe Kopcha stripped the bandages from his wrists and ankles. With the top of a battered tape spool, he separated his shoes from the clumps of snow and dirt that had fastened to the cleats in the early morning practice. Then with extreme care that amounted almost to reverence, he placed them safely in the far corner of his locker.

This may be the last pair of football shoes Joe Kopcha ever wears and when the Bears battle the Cardinals at Wrigley field Sunday, it may be the last time he ever wears them.

Immediately after Sunday's game, in which the Cardinals will attempt to gain a tie for the western division championship in the National league with Detroit, and the Bears will seek a measure of redemption for an indifferent season by winning the city professional title, Kopcha will resume his internship in a Detroit hospital.

Expects to Retire.

His return next fall to the Bears and professional football, in which he has been one of the outstanding guards for five years, is not likely. Kopcha had not intended to reënter football last year, but upon the urging of Coach George Halas and Dr. Stewart Hamilton, at Harper hospital in Detroit, he reported in time to accompany the Bears to Delafield, Wis., to train for the All-Star game.

"I'm getting pretty old to be messing around with these young fellows," he said yesterday. "I came back last fall only because Coach Halas wanted me and I felt I owed to him and professional football everything he asked. Dr. Hamilton made it possible for me to interrupt my internship at Harper hospital because he said any man who could make as much money while studying as I do playing football, could not afford to pass up the opportunity."

He Likes the Game.

"Many people wonder why I have stayed in football so long with a medical career ahead of me," he continued in his easy, pleasing manner. "The answer comes in three words—football, money, contacts. I like football and don't ever expect to live through a fall without wanting to take a crack at a full back coming through the line. Football has given me opportunities I never hoped for or sought until I took up the game.

"The money I have received from professional football has enabled me to continue my study and to help take care of my parents. Without the assistance of Coach Halas, who has raised my salary every year I have been with the club, I could not have done my part at home and continued in medicine. The contacts I make as a member of a recognized professional team will be invaluable to me in the future. It will be tough to give it up, but linemen are not like old man river. They can't just go on rollin' along."

Learned Football in South.

Kopcha, who was born at Whiting on Dec. 23, 1905, began his athletic career as a star basketball player at Whiting High school. The school had no football team, and Kopcha did not become interested in the sport until Frank Thomas, the former Notre Dame quarter back, now head coach at Alabama, persuaded him to give up a career as a life guard and boxer to work his way through Chattanooga university. He became a nine letter man at Chattanooga in football, basketball and track and in 1929 reported to the Bears.

He finished the 1929 season with the Bears, then went to Alabama to become assistant to Thomas, when the latter replaced Wallace Wade as the Crimson Tide's head coach. In addition to his coaching duties, Kopcha planned on studying medicine, but he soon learned he could not do both and gave up his work with the Alabama line. In 1932 he entered Rush Medical college and was invited by Halas to rejoin the Bears. He has played with them every season since.

Graduates with Honors.

Kopcha, who is a Czechoslovakian, is an A student and graduated with honors. His mornings throughout the football season are taken up by prac-

HUSKY CENTER IS HONORED FOR SECOND SEASON

Made Eligible for Tribune Trophy.

Honor Roll

THE following Western conference players have been nominated for the Tribune's most valuable player award this season:

Minnesota—Vernal Levoir.
Purdue—Frank Loebs.
Wisconsin—Eddie Jankowski.
Illinois—Eddie Gryboski.
Iowa—Dick Crayne.
Michigan—Bill Renner.
Northwestern—Walter Cruice.
Indiana—Wendel Walker.
Ohio State—Gomer Jones.

Columbus, O., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Ohio State's football players today named Gomer Thomas Jones of Cleveland, captain and center, as the most valuable player on the squad for the second straight year.

Jones was elected by his teammates in 1934 at the same time he was named captain. A perusal of the statistics of the eight games on the Ohio schedule for 1935 reveals that he played a big part in the team's successes.

Jones is the third Ohio State lineman since 1930 to be nominated for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Silver Football award which goes to the most valuable player in the Big Ten each year. Wesley Fesler, end and half back of the 1930 eleven, went on to win the major award. Other Buckeyes named were Robert Haubrich, tackle, 1931; Lewis Hinchman, half back, 1932, and Mickey Vuchinich, center, 1933.

Plays 418 Minutes.

In playing 418 minutes out of a possible 480, he was accredited with 58 tackles in which no other player was involved and scores of others in which he took part as one of the tacklers. Figures reveal that he was responsible for 36 per cent of the Buckeye tackles during the entire season—a neat record for any linesman on any team.

According to Stanley Pincura, Tippy Dye, and Nick Wasylik, Ohio State's quarter backs, Jones did not make a single bad pass from his center position during the year. This recommendation from the chief handlers of the ball on offense is a real compliment.

It's a Steady Job!

He played every minute of the Notre Dame, Chicago, and Illinois games, 58 minutes of the Kentucky game, 53 in the Indiana battle, and 50 minutes in each of the Northwestern and Michigan encounters. He gave away to three substitutes after 27 minutes in the Drake game.

His record:

Games—	Minutes played.	Tackles.	Passes Intercepted.	Intercepted pass ret. yds.
Kentucky	58	6	2	18
Drake	27	5	0	0
Northwestern .	50	6	0	0
Indiana	53	5	1	7
Notre Dame ..	60	12	0	0
Chicago	60	5	0	0
Illinois	60	9	1	6
Michigan	50	10	1	[illegible]
	418	58	5	38

Fails as Sophomore.

Jones was on the squad two years ago and couldn't even make his letter. He had won his freshman football numerals and sweater during the fall of 1932 as a guard. At Cleveland South High school he played tackle and center.

During the 1933 season he played a total of 34 minutes in three scattered games at guard. For the remainder of that season he warmed the bench. He received "honorable mention" when the year closed, with the notation that he lacked time and experience for his varsity "O" letter award.

Shifted to Center.

Casting around for a center to fill the big shoes of Mickey Vuchinich who played about 450 minutes out of a possible 480 minutes during the 1933 season, Coach Francis Schmidt heard about Jones' experience at center in his high school days.

"Play him at center," ordered Schmidt, and Jones was a center from then on.

At the opening of that season Schmidt planned to use Jones as a defensive guard, shifting him to offensive center.

He developed so fast that before the third game of the season this plan was discarded and Jones played the center position for the whole year. He saw more service than any other Buckeye—a feat which he again performed this last season. His total for that year was 340 minutes out of a possible 480.

Spots Opponents' Plays.

At the annual banquet Schmidt praised Jones as the "best diagnostician of opponents' plays I have ever seen," and said that he "had the knack of forming defensive moves

HORTON SMITH QUITS AS PRO AT OAK PARK CLUB

Takes Position with Golf Manufacturer.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Horton Smith, the tall, blonde young Missourian who has proved to Chicago district golfers more than once within the last three years that he is one of the ablest professionals ever to come into these parts, yesterday resigned his position as pro at the Oak Park Country club, according to dispatches from his residence in Springfield, Mo.

Announcement of Horton's leaving Oak Park does not mean that the long boy from the Ozarks will leave golf. As a matter of fact, it indicates that Smith's reputation as one of the most forward looking players in the game has been recognized in a material way, since he quits a club professional post to enter a field which offers greater opportunities—that of golf advisor for a nationally famous sporting goods concern, A. G. Spalding & Brothers.

The question of a successor for Horton, who has made himself an almost invaluable adjunct to Oak Park's golfing affairs since he signed up at the club three years ago, has not yet been decided. Officials and directors of the west side club will hold a meeting later this week with a view to nominating a field of candidates for the position.

Will Make Big Tourneys.

Smith's new job for the first few months will be concerned largely with golf promotion, according to Douglas Tweedie, general manager of Spalding's here. In addition to this type of work, Horton will be enabled to compete in all of the major tournaments of the 1936 season, including the British open. Heretofore, the angular Missouri swinger has been somewhat cramped in the respect by the nature of his club duties, although he has been a familiar figure in every big American show since he first attained prominence in 1929.

Harry E. Radix, who retired on Tuesday night as president of the Chicago District Golf association after serving three years, last night said Smith's resignation was a distinct loss to local golf.

Still Pro President.

Smith, who recently was reëlected president of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' association of America, probably will resign from that position. Last year, under his guidance, the work of the Illinois P. G. A. reached a new high in the matter of finished undertakings, notably in the work of educating junior golfers, in which Horton has been a pioneer.

Horton is a native of Springfield, Mo., and received his start in golf when his father joined a club there. He reached his 27th birthday on last May 22. Smith served as professional at Sedalia, Jefferson City, Joplin, and Springfield, all in Missouri, and at the Gragston Yacht and Golf club of New York, before coming to Oak Park. During the season of 1929, when he was still a gawky kid of whom most of the elders of the game had never heard until he made them listen, he won a total of $15,000, a record since untouched for consistent competition in money events.

In addition, he has been a member of two Ryder cup teams, and this year went to the quarter finals of the national professional tournament. He won the first masters' tournament at Bobby Jones' Augusta, Ga., course and ran away from Jones in the Savannah open of 1930, when Bobby was still very much a golfer.

Hawks Meet Leafs Next at Toronto

TONIGHT'S GAMES.

New York Americans at Montreal Maroons.
Boston at Detroit.

The Hawks' victory over the Boston Bruins and the outstanding play of Romnes and Thompson, which sent the latter past Charlie Conacher to the league's scoring lead, were reasons for a maximum of elation as the team departed for a scheduled battle Saturday night with the Toronto Maple Leafs, who are setting the pace for the teams in the international section.

Manager Clem Loughlin planned on having but one ice workout prior to the Maple Leaf encounter, the Hawks' boss stating that rest was of more importance to his charges right now than work.

The Blackhawks entrain for Chicago immediately after the Toronto game for their second game with the Boston Bruins, which is booked for the Stadium next Sunday night.

BRADDOCK FACES $10,000 SUIT FOR CANCELING DATE

Winslow, Ariz., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Heavyweight Champion James J. Braddock's abandonment of an exhibition tour through the west resulted in threats of a damage suit today.

Arthur Hirsch, matchmaker, who had booked Braddock for an appearance here Friday night, said he would start court action against the boxer.

His attorney, J. P. Clark, said Hirsch woulld ask for "well over $10,000 damages," claiming his reputation as a promoter and matchmaker had been ruined.

Braddock left for New York yesterday following an exhibition match in Phoenix. The report was circulated that he was suffering from a torn ligament, but he later denied the rumor and said he canceled the Winslow booking because it had been postponed until Friday.

Georgetti Quits BikeRace; Debaets Faints, Drops Out

New York, Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Franco Georgetti, Italian cyclist, tonight withdrew from the 59th international six day bicycle race in Madison Square Garden, reducing the field of surviving teams to eleven. Fifteen got off the starting mark last Sunday night.

The race suffered another defection before the 8:30 o'clock sprints concluded when Gerard Debaets, partner of Alfred Letourner, gave up the chase because of stomach trouble. He fainted while riding shortly after 5 o'clock because of what was diagnosed as an accumulation of gas around the heart.

Georgetti dismounted at 8:10 p. m., complaining of stomach trouble, which precluded his riding further. He was paired with Gottfried Hurtgen, the German rider.

The executive committee of the Little Nineteen conference will meet today at the Sherman hotel preliminary to the annual winter meeting of the conference tomorrow and Saturday.

W. T. Harmon, conference commissioner, said no proposal had been forwarded to him for consideration of the freshman rule. It is expected, however, that the question will be discussed at the general sessions.

Other business to come before the meetings includes drawing of football and basketball schedules and awarding of the minor sport meets.

that more than halted the opponents' play."

Jones was the team's most popular member and one of the headiest men in the Ohio forward wall. He is an inspiring leader and wears an everlasting smile. He is bright-faced and a somewhat pudgy-looking individual with hair inclined to but not quite reaching the hue of red.

He is 5 feet 8½ inches tall and played at 203 pounds. He lives in Cleveland at 4131 East 114th avenue, but when in school stays at the Pi Kap house.

Likely to Join Lions.

Jones is taking a course in physical education with the hope of coaching. Already he has had an offer to play with the Detroit Lions in the National Professional football league next year and probably will sign the contract.

At Ohio State his only sport was football, but in high school he was a guard in basketball.

OLYMPIC HEAD SAYS IDEAL WILL PREVAIL IN 1936

The 1936 Olympic games to be held in Berlin have been prepared in full accord with Olympic ideals, according to Count Henri Baillet Latour, chairman of the International Olympic committee, who recently completed a tour of Germany. The count's statement was received yesterday by Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic committee.

"All athletes can rest assured," said Count Baillet Latour, "they will be received as welcome guests, and be given the protection to which, as such, they have a right."

Refuting propaganda, the Olympic chairman said: "German Jews are not, because they are Jews, excluded from German teams. They have been trained in view of participating, and have taken part in preliminary trials."

Long Range Criticism.

In commenting on the count's statements, President Brundage said they confirm the observations of all competent, unbiased visitors to Germany. "The most outspoken opponents of participation," Brundage said, "are those who have not visited Germany, but base their reactions on lies circulated by propagandists, the worst and most ridiculous of which have not appeared in the American press."

The most brazen lies, still circulated as propaganda, though repeatedly repudiated on the best authority, Mr. Brundage said, are that Holland, Austria, and Belgium have withdrawn from the games. "Not one of the fifty nations accepting invitations, including the three named, has withdrawn," said Brundage.

Count Baillet Latour said that the I. O. C., respecting the individual liberty of each one, "does in no way wish to coerce those—Christian or Jew—who, for personal reasons which obviously concern them alone, may possibly object to going to Germany."

Free from Political Influence.

"The I. O. C.," he added, "entirely free from political influence, wishes to envisage its activity solely in Olympic sports, without interfering with the national organization of sports in the fifty countries where delegates are appointed."

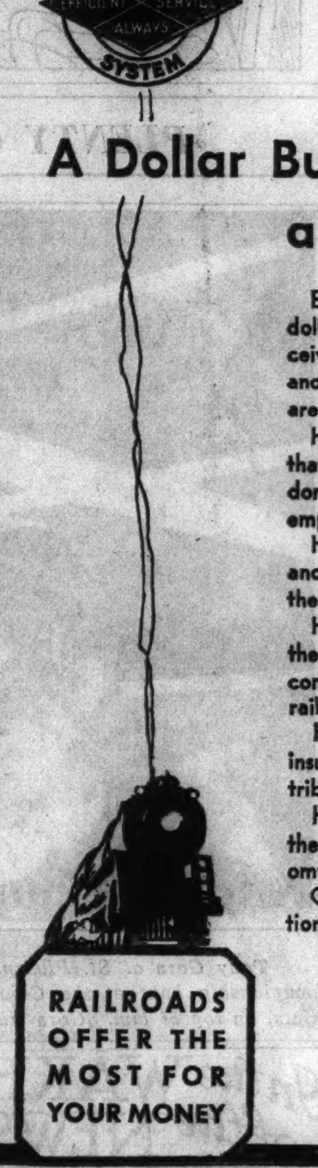
ILLINOIS CENTRAL SYSTEM — COURTESY EFFICIENT SERVICE ALWAYS



A Dollar Buys More Than a Dollar's Worth

Every business man who spends a dollar for railway transportation receives a full dollar's worth of service and in addition certain extras. These are some of the extras:

He receives a share of the trade that comes from the spending that is done by railroads and by railway employes.

He receives the help of railroads and of railway employes in carrying the common burden of taxation.

He receives personal benefit from the strengthened assets of insurance companies and savings banks holding railway securities.

He receives a share of the general insurance which sound railroads contribute to national defense.

He receives, in short, more than the value of his money. That is economy and good business.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

Coach Bill Kraft will start four regulars of the 1934-'35 team, which won 11 of 15 games. Bob Merz will be back at center, with Co-Captains Harry Dollenmaier and R. O. [Pop] Warner resuming their guard positions. Gene Heike will take over one forward position, and Bill O'Brien, a sophomore, will be at the other forward berth.

Coach Tom Mills, in his first season as basketball coach at Arkansas State, has three regulars returning from last season's team. These boys from the south have for the last two years been the north state division champions of Arkansas.

Co-Captains Wendell Davis and James Langley have been named for the last two years on the all-state team for Arkansas as center and guard, respectively.

Soccer Association Meets Tonight to Plan Tourneys

The regular monthly meeting of the Illinois Soccer association will be held tonight at the Morrison hotel and President F. Tarpy will preside. Several indoor five and seven man soccer tournaments for the winter months will be arranged. Sparta, which leads the Chicago Professional league, will play the Maccabees Sunday in an exhibition game at Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue.

MOON MULLINS—ONE ON THE KISSER

"HOW AM I DOIN', DOC?"

Dr. Joe Kopcha, veteran Chicago Bears guard, examining Velma Mildred Nano, age 4, of 2533 West Adams street, at Rush Medical school, where the star lineman continues his study and assists in clinics each afternoon after a morning of strenuous practice with the Bears at Wrigley field. Velma appears a trifle more pleased with Kopcha than the Cardinals are. They must face him again Sunday.

Kopcha Plans Farewell to Pro Football

tice. In the afternoon he secludes himself in the Rush Medical college and acquaints himself with scalpels and anatomy. Two afternoons a week he does clinical duty, administering to charity cases, under the direction of Dr. Irons. During his senior year at Chattanooga he served as assistant professor in the college of chemistry. His immediate aim now is to receive a four year appointment to a Detroit hospital or to the Lying In hospital in Chicago.

Kopcha always has been a physical culturist. In high school his idol was Bernarr McFadden. Joe lived the noted editor's life. He went without meat for three years and when the high school coach objected, Joe curtly told him if it was good enough for McFadden it was good enough for him. If the coach didn't like it, Joe would quit the squad. The coach demurred, but Kopcha finally developed an appetite for large juicy steaks. He bundles up in a mammoth ulster and heavy mittens in zero weather, but never wears a headpiece except when in a game. He never ventures far from his five tooth brushes and uses each one once each day without fail.

He's a Big Fellow.

Joe, who stands six feet one inch and weighs 220 pounds, is the largest member of the Kopcha family now, but he doesn't expect to be always. One brother, Mike, who played guard in high school and now works in a steel mill under Fred Gillies, the old Cardinal star, weighs 195 pounds. Another brother, John, whom Joe is helping through Marquette, weighs 185 pounds, and was regular guard on the freshman squad this fall.

Kopcha is the third doctor to graduate from Chicago professional teams. Dr. John Mohardt, the former Notre Dame half back, played for the Bears for several years and Dr. Eddie Anderson, also from Notre Dame, was a star end for the Cardinals. Dr. Anderson is head coach at Holy Cross now and practices medicine in the east.

He Likes to Win.

"This might be my last week," Kopcha mused yesterday before he rushed from Wrigley field to look after west side children at Rush, "but it will be much easier to quit if we whip those Cardinals. It will be a shame, too, because they have a great club and are a fine bunch of fellows. But we've got to win. Football for football's sake isn't quite worthwhile. I like to win."

Maroons Pick Most Valuable Player Tonight

The University of Chicago football team will choose its most valuable player, in competition for THE TRIBUNE trophy, tonight during the annual Chicago Alumni club football dinner which will be held at the Grand ball room of the Sherman hotel, beginning at 6:30 o'clock. More than 1,000 Maroon alumni, the largest turnout in the history of the event, are expected to attend the banquet.

Election of a 1936 captain, award of six alumni trophies and formal award of varsity monograms and freshman numerals are other events of the program. Football movies will replace speeches as entertainment, but it is expected the applause for Capt. Jay Berwanger and his teammates, who finished higher in the Big Ten standing than any Maroon team since 1927, will punctuate the silence.

Trophies awarded jointly by the Chicago Alumni club and the Order of the C, lettermen's organization, will be given to the most valuable player, the most versatile player, the best blocker, and the best tackler, with additional awards to two players who will be designated as those who were the most valuable and received the least recognition.

Frederic Woodward, vice president of the university, will confer the monograms in an Olympic ceremony and Coach Nelson Norgren will introduce frosh numeral winners. Jay Berwanger will introduce his successor as captain. Movies will show high spots of the Maroon season.

"A bit of blue blood and a dash of good old red Blends to a shade of lavender," an artist once said.
Yes, it's mighty fine to be an aristocrat refined
Of course we know the do's and don'ts
But then, that doesn't say we ever won't.
So as seasons sprint 'round and colors change,
To race the road ahead, or the one to the left or right,
Oh, you know, it's about this time of the year
When you are positively sure you hear
The call of a gypsy and your blood is all astir
For you've promised your heart to pallette a shade of lavender.
Could it be the frost in the air so good
Begging leave to shuffle through leaves in the wood,
Or could it be spirits of a cocktail shake
Well! Paint as you please, a dash of red, a bit of blue—
While roaming I do as I choose, wouldn't you?
'Cause if you stand in the wings of your stage
You should be cast in an interesting lavender shade,
And then you'll know it's the jaunt from home

Do You Remember 'Way Back When: "Why, you could eat off her kitchen floor" was a synonym for the ultra in household cleanliness?—L. H. B., Bloomington, Wis.

HOCKY PLAYER LOAFS HIMSELF INTO GOOD JOB

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Manager Art Gagne of the Seattle Hocky club accused the New York Americans of a "tricky deal" in obtaining Tony Hemmerling, "bad boy" of the Seahawks.

Hemmerling was traded to Calgary for Jimmy Evans last week because Tony loafed so much the fans booed him on to the bench. Evans refused to report and Gagne obtained approval from President Gordon Leith of the Northwestern league to suspend Hemmerling.

Meanwhile, Calgary sold the player to New York. Gagne charged Hemmerling's listless play had been planned so he could get away from Seattle.

RABBIT HUNTERS, BE ON LOOKOUT FOR TULAREMIA

If Bunny Refuses to Run Don't Shoot Him.

BY BOB BECKER.

The department of public health of the state of Illinois again has sent out its annual warning about the prevalence of tularemia in Illinois. It's a warning that all hunters should know about. Although it's unfortunate that the middle western hunter must consider the menace of "rabbit fever" when he handles cottontails, the most common type of upland game in the middle west, the fact remains that none of us who likes to hunt rabbits and eat them can ignore this danger.

Tularemia is a rabbit born disease that can be transmitted to humans. As the department of public health points out, human tularemia is communicated to humans by rabbits which have the disease. The usual manner of infection is through abrasions in the skin. Therefore, any one who handles or cleans a rabbit should be careful.

Wear Rubber Gloves.

Although the rabbits of Illinois are known to have tularemia, it doesn't mean every rabbit is infected. On the contrary, only a relatively small percentage of the rabbit population has the disease. Moreover, there is no reason why anybody who likes to hunt and eat rabbits at this time of the year can't continue to do so.

Don't Shoot Lazy Ones.

One thing for the hunter to keep in mind when he is hunting cottontails is this: If you flush a rabbit and it appears sluggish or stupid, refusing to run with the usual zip and speed of a startled cottontail, let it alone. Very likely this is an unhealthy animal. So don't shoot it.

Statistics show that there were only 10 cases of tularemia reported in Illinois in 1928, and only 36 in 1929. However, the figure jumped to 137 in 1930, 126 in 1931, 134 in 1932, 163 in 1933, and 143 last year.

Insomnia Is Lucky Victor in N. O. Race

Jocky L. Turner was unable to control Moratorium, which collided with the fence, throwing himself to the ground. Neither Turner nor the horse was hurt. Meanwhile, Insomnia dashed on and finished half a length ahead of Sarahmond. The latter was the same distance in front of Shoot.

Insomnia was neglected in the betting and returned $31.20 for $2 in the mutuels. She was ridden by Jocky G. [Chuck] Parke and gave him a double on the day. Parke's earlier winner was Cooney, another filly, which scored her second victory in two starts.

There was another driving finish in the fifth, as Toney Boy, owned by E. M. White, drove to the line in a whipping finish and edged out Imperial Bill by a neck. Like others of the day's winners, Toney Boy paid off at generous figures. The mutuel return was $28.20 for $2, with G. Smith up. Imperial Bill held on gamely to take the place from Dilwin by half a length.

One favorite that won was Odessa Beau at 4 to 5 in the fourth. He followed the pace of Portam and then forged ahead in the stretch to win easily by three lengths.

Vanderbilt Gets Thrill but Little Profit on Turf

New York, Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Three hundred thousand dollars sounds like a lot of money to spend for getting a kick out of a particular sport. Yet that's what it has cost Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt to run his thoroughbreds and maintain his farm this year.

Vanderbilt is not in racing to make money, though of course he is not in it to lose any. This year Vanderbilt, thanks to Discovery, which earned $102,045, finished the season as the leading money winning owner. In all, his horses as of this date gleaned $303,055.

"I'll be lucky," smiled Vanderbilt, "if I can call $10,000 of it clear profits. However, while it is a very expensive sport, it is interesting, thrilling, and I get a lot of fun out of it."

KRANZ, ERJAVEC START DRILL FOR MARIGOLD BOUT

Richards, Mehringer Will Clash on Mat Card.

Jack Kranz, runnerup to Johnny Pacek in the 1933 Chicago Golden Gloves tournament, and Johnny Erjavec, promising Duluth heavyweight, yesterday opened heavy training at Trafton's gymnasium for their eight round main bout at Marigold Gardens Monday.

Kranz, out of the ring since February, returned to the spotlight last week when, it is reported, a fighter named George [Farmer] Blackburn, Clinton, Ind., used his name and was knocked out in a bout against Joe Knight at Miami Beach, Fla. Kranz was able to go the scheduled distance of eight rounds against Joe Louis at Marigold a year ago without being knocked down. Erjavec has scored two successive knockouts here.

Ray Richards, left guard on the Chicago Bears football team, and Pete Mehringer, member of the Chicago Cardinals, will meet in a supplementary engagement on the wrestling program at Chicago Stadium next Monday, it was announced yesterday. The show is topped by Hans Steinke and Man Mountain Dean, two of the biggest men in wrestling. Gus Sonnenberg, the old champion, and George Zaharias also are matched.

Frank Sagilio, Cicero puncher, will start drills today at Madison Square loop gymnasium for a ten round wind-up against Joey Costa, Jersey City, Tuesday against Jackie Sharkey. . . . Other matches at ten rounds there involve Paul Pirrone, recent knockout victim of Frank Battaglia, and N. J., at Cicero stadium, Dec. 14.

Davey Day will remain idle until after the holidays, thus giving needed rest to his hands, bruised in his recent victory over Roger Bernard, and also enabling the lightweight stablemate of Champion Barney Ross an opportunity to give some time to his lether goods business on the south side. . . . Five round matches at the amateur charity show at Seward park tomorrow will bring together George Nelson and Jackie Reed, and Jesse Robinson and James Gleason. . . . Alberto Arizmendi, featherweight and lightweight contender, will start boxing drills this afternoon for a scheduled ten round bout at Cleveland next Eric Seelig, who stopped Mickey Walker at New York Monday, and Lou Ambers, Herkimer lightweight, and Jimmy Vaughn, Cleveland. . . . A six round contest matches Lou Halper with Jimmy Belmont.

Harold Steinman, manager of Moon Mullins, announced yesterday that he is willing to sign to have his protégé meet Everett Rightmire in a featherweight elimination match at Marigold Gardens Dec. 30, but the encounter must be set at 15 rounds. . . . Rightmire has accepted the assignment at ten rounds. . . . Mullins is here preparing for his ten round defense of his Indiana state 126 pound title against Paul Lee, Indianapolis, at Vincennes, Dec. 17. . . . Mickey O'Shea, north side slugger, today will celebrate his 26th birthday by working out for his six round feature match at the 132d Regiment armory next Wednesday night. F. M.

Paulino Thinks Talk of Louis' Ability Is Joke

Orangeburg, N. Y., Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Paulino Uzcudun, who meets Joe Louis at Madison Square Garden Dec. 13, believes some one is trying to kid him whenever he is compelled to listen to a description of Louis' greatness.

"What do I care about Joe Louis? Who is he to worry about?" queried Paulino today. "I will show him in the ring who has to do the worrying."

Louis and Paulino each have had two fights on the 13th, and now both are coming up for the rubber event on Friday, Dec. 13. Paulino recalled that he knocked out Harry Wills on July 13, 1927, in four rounds at Ebbets field, and that he boxed Tommy Loughran on Nov. 13, 1931.

Louis' record shows the first man to go the distance with him after he joined the professional ranks was Jack Kranz, and the bout took place in Chicago on Aug. 13, 1934.

Uzcudun weighs 206 pounds. He resumed boxing today with a corps of sparring partners, which included Eddie Blunt and Larry Johnson, who formerly worked with Louis; Joe Lippe, and Joe Lynch.

"MY MONEY DOESN'T GROW ON TREES!"

SAYS EDWIN C. KENT
2616 Buchanan Street, San Francisco, Calif.

"I'll admit I'm keen on getting my money's worth. I have to be," continues Mr. Kent. "And when it comes to whiskey, I play safe by buying Old Drum. It has the flavor and mellowness of whiskies costing at least 50% more, and yet its price is just right for me.

THAT'S WHY I STICK TO OLD DRUM

AMAZING! PALATE POLL REVEALS OLD DRUM WORTH 40% MORE!

Old Drum—the taste and value sensation of America! A whiskey that's riper, smoother, more wonderfully mellow—that is distilled from the same top quality grain used for costliest whiskies—that hundreds in nation-wide poll of palates voted to be worth 40% more than it actually sells for!

Ask for Old Drum. Get this drinkable whiskey that sells at a "cents-ible" price. Compare it with any "straight" or "blend" in its price class. You'll see why Old Drum is creating such a sensation today—why it is winning new thousands everywhere! You can't beat Old Drum!

HOW NATION VOTED!
● FIGURES $1.70 A PT.
N. H. Clark, of St. Louis, Mo., estimates way over Old Drum's actual price!
● WORTH $1.50 A PT.
"A pleasant, mellow whiskey,"—says H. E. Stuckey, Detroit, Mich., of Old Drum.

RANGE IS WIDE IN YULE GIFTS FOR MERE MAN

Get Gadget He Wouldn't Buy for Himself.

BY HARRISON HOWARD.

If you want to make a hit with a man at Christmas time give him something that you feel he would like to own but probably wouldn't buy for himself.

This season the stores are offering a widespread selection of just such novelties and many of them within the reach of every income. There is, for instance, the instrument which gives a man a complete weather forecast—an excellent addition to any den or male retreat. On first thought you may think that it is an impractical present for the particular man you have in mind, yet you would be surprised at how many males get a kick out of tinkering with such a gadget and showing it to their friends. If you don't believe it try and remove it after they have enjoyed it for a month.

How About a Monte Carlo?

Or how about bringing a miniature Monte Carlo to his home in the form of a roulette wheel with cloth and ivory ball. Or a chuck-luck cage with chuck-luck and hazard layouts, or equipment for "Steeplechase," the popular horse race game. Most of these items can be obtained for $10 or less.

Then there is all kinds of drinking equipment to be had at reasonable prices. A particularly new cocktail mixer, available in a new "dumbbell" shape, is easy to grip and manipulate. Using one in each hand at the same time would provide pleasant exercise as well as cocktails for about 24 persons at a time, which solves a problem at big parties. Chromium plated this shaker sells for $6.50; silver plated, $7.50.

Many a man, too, would like a family tool chest, for what man doesn't fancy himself more or less of a master mechanic when it comes to making home repairs. Or, if not that, what man doesn't like occasionally to put his hand at making a book shelf or some other device which may disturb his wife's sense of home decoration but which is great for satisfying his creative sense.

All in the Handle.

Such a chest can be had simply by buying one of the new hollow handle hammers. Besides the hammer, the handle contains seven steel tools including punches, awl, reamers, screw drivers, drills, etc. The hammer head unscrews, permitting different tools to be inserted. The drills and reamers are operated by a geared handle on the side. The outfit costs $2.75.

For the man of artistic bent there are many attractive selections in original sport etchings which range in price from $4.50 to $12. These include copper etcings showing several kinds of ducks in their natural haunts as well as a number of striking poses of dogs, including pointers, setters, and retrievers.

For the man with a boat there is a fine yatchman's repair kit consisting of a compact canvas case containing sewing palm, assorted needles in a waterproof container, swivel sail hook, wire splicer, marlin spike, beeswax, and an assortment of sail thread and twine all for $6.50.

Attractive Letter Cases.

If you want to be both practical and different in your male gifts there are attractive letter cases in crocodile lether for $10 and in pigskin for $7.50. There are two-in-one gloves for $6, including a tan capeskin outer glove with a separate and removable wool inside and there are some splendid natural color, genuine camel hair scarfs, warm, soft, and light, size 10 by 60 inches, for $5.

If you wish to give just a trinket as souvenir of the occasion there is always the holder for used safety razor blades, a boon to many a man on busy mornings. Some of the particularly attractive ones appear in white vitreous china, hand painted and fired, with amusing designs and capable of holding a year's discards of blades. Price, $2.50.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION.

Answer: Slacks and sports trousers should clear the shoe slightly. Business and formal trousers should meet the shoe definitly or break over the instep slightly, depending upon one's individual liking.

British Archbishop Will Visit Chicago in January

William Temple, archbishop of York, will arrive in New York from England this week for an extended visit to the United States and Canada. He will be the guest of Bishop George Craig Stewart of Chicago between Jan. 4 and 9, and will address an Episcopal Church club dinner on Jan. 4 at the Hotel Sherman. Archbishop Temple in the hierarchy of the Anglican communion ranks second only to the archbishop of Canterbury, who holds the title of primate of all England, while Temple's title is primate of England. During the Christmas holidays Archbishop Temple will be chief guest speaker at the quadrennial sessions of the international student volunteer convention at Indianapolis.

HAROLD TEEN—SALVE FOR ACHING HEARTS

FASHIONS FOR MEN ONLY

This fashion column for men will appear every Thursday in The Tribune. If you would like information about modes for men write to the Men's Fashion department, Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Illinois. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your letter.

WE'VE appointed ourselves public relations counsel for Santa Claus. The old boy is keenly interested in seeing that his favorite sons gets something for Christmas regarding which they can truthfully say with enthusiasm, "It's just what I wanted." Since we know that the women have a pretty tough time making up their minds about what they ought to give the men in their lives, it seems reasonable that some one should come to their rescue. Surprising as it may seem, men are really delighted to receive something they can wear. And, to be sure that they really will wear it, you should steer absolutely clear of wearables which appear to have been designed for harmony with the decorative scheme of the Christmas tree. So . . . please, O please, dear girls . . . if you must express the Christmas spirit, say it with paper and ribbon, which can be done so effectively these days.

SWANKY COMFORT

BE CAREFUL

If you must stay on the personal side of his life, there are any number of really small things that are good from which you may choose. Be careful to pick out the good looking novelty gifts rather than the big things that look like too much.

WARM FEELING

Plaid wool mufflers are the height of smartness, or you may choose Persian pattern foulard silks, which are equally fashionable. Smart gloves are either of yellow knitted string, with or without wool lining, or of pigskin cape, mocha, or chamois. These latter, by the way, are especially swanky.

SHOW-ERS AND BLOWERS

Silk foulard handkerchiefs, serving mostly for dress pocket display, come within the inexpensive luxury class. Fine linen handkerchiefs—plain, corded, or initialed—lose none of their practicability in a luxurious quality.

NIGHT LIFE

Even the fellows who like to step out nights will appreciate the comfort of a good robe, pajamas, and slippers. For the robe we recommend plain or plaided flannel. Bold but simple striped pajamas are best, and hard sole slippers are the most practical.

CANES OR CAMERAS

The cane for dress wear, or one for swinging in the country, is an excellent gift, but you must use your judgment here. Cameras, and there are several new ones that will take the place of the one he may have, would be appreciated by those who travel and enjoy keeping an album of their activities. The new small movie camera now has the advantage of being easy on the upkeep. You can take a flock of pictures for a few cents.

HOLDER UPPERS

Most men will welcome additional suspenders, or braces if you must, garters, and belts. But get the kind that are better than he would buy for himself. They need not be fancy.

SOCKS AS WELL

NEWEST LOUNGE ROBES PROTECT THROAT, CHEST

Lapels Can Be Buttoned Across the Breast.

BY THE TOWNSMAN.

I discovered a new model in flannel lounge robes this week which appealed to me particularly not only because it strikes a new style note but because it affords added protection to the throat and chest against drafts and cold.

Actually, it is a two-in-one garment. It has a standing collar about an inch and one-half high and lapels which can be buttoned across the chest, giving the effect of a double breasted military overcoat or the upper part of a Russian blouse. If desired, the collar can be turned down and the lapels turned back and the robe becomes a regulation model.

The flannel itself is of standard weight and comes in green, brown, and blue solid colors. To give contrast, the collar, cuffs, sash and buttons are designed alike in harmonizing plaids and checks. The robe is washable. Moderately priced at $9.50 it makes an excellent Christmas gift for any man.

Custom-Made Shirts.

The term "custom-made," with its many offshoots, has come in for much abuse and misrepresentation during the last few years. However, I saw some "customized" shirts recently which exactly fill the bill for men who want those extra touches of workmanship and styling without going to the trouble and expense of ordering special made-to-measure garments.

Priced at $4 each, which in the eyes of many men is not excessive, they give much in the better quality of fabric, unusual colors and designs, better buttons, careful stitching, and other desirable details. For those who want to give a man something above the ordinary without spending a great deal "customized" shirts make a splendid choice.

If you are a wearer of tweeds you will be interested in knowing about the new clothes brush designed especially to keep this fabric clean and lively. The bristles are made of pure bahia, a flexible wood fiber from the tropics, which makes it possible to rough up tweeds and put new sparkle into them without risk of damage to the goods.

The back of the brush is lightweight, natural colored basswood. In shape it resembles an oversized hair brush with long handle and extra long bristles. It sells for $4.50 and undoubtedly would be a very acceptable gift to many men.

Streamlines for Clothes.

Streamline your clothes and get "the thin man" effect if you want to be in the style swim, according to some of the latest London forecasts. Square shoulders, yes, but not bulky, prize fighting shoulders, and from there on down, straight lines wherever possible, molding the figure but not accentuating it. Be trim, is the warning.

Sleeves, especially, should taper gracefully to the wrist which, of course, they have been doing for some time on the better garments. Incidentally the length of coat sleeves is always something to watch. A sleeve too long, one that persistently refuses to show that important quarter of an inch of shirt cuff, makes the wearer appear awkward and poorly groomed regardless of how well tailored he may be otherwise.

CORDOVAN SHOE IS RETURNING TO FORMER FAVOR

Back to a noticeable degree, after years of almost complete absence, to vie with the popular brogues is the shell cordovan shoe for men in its dark reddish brown shade.

Cordovan has always been noted for its long wear and its good looks [it takes a "swell shine"], but is avoided by many because of its stiffish lack of comfort, especially at the start. The average man simply didn't have the power of endurance to break them in.

This feature is offset to a large degree, however, by the vogue for wearing heavier wool socks. These pad the foot even against cordovan. Stores report considerable increase in calls for this shoe from men who desire to be different above all else.

LUGGAGE LOOMS AS A PRACTICAL CHRISTMAS GIFT

For the man whose relationship to you demands that he be given a real Christmas gift—not just a memento of the day—luggage looms up as one of the most likely possibilities.

As a matter of fact, it has been a mystery to interested minds for years why more luggage is not given. It is useful and, selected wisely, can be both attractive and economical.

This season especially you are apt to reap much in the way of appreciation and gratitude if you give luggage, for traveling is picking up with a vengeance after a period of depression and stay-at-home. Business men particularly again are on the "go." Even if your friends are not seasoned travelers there comes a time when a trip is in order and a good looking traveling outfit will enhance its pleasure. Traveling is pretty much a public activity, and whether we admit it or not we slink along with an old bag or prance along with a new one.

The stores are full of innovations in traveling kits. There is no end of newly designed interiors in trunks, hat cases, shoe cases, and "in-between" cases which take excellent care of lingerie for a woman or haberdashery for a man and make traveling much more of a pleasure and convenience.

In the smaller things especially, slide fastener emergency bags, dressing cases and traveling packs are cunning innovations that catch the eye, fill the purpose and do not empty the pocketbook.

Alligator hide is staging a big comeback in popularity, the first real peak it has had since the days of Robert Mantell, when an actor wasn't a success in the eyes of his followmen unless his luggage was made of alligator skin. Pigskin, too, cannot be overlooked, for it is pliable and bespeaks a grand air in its natural blond shade.

New York, Dec. 4.—Low priced railroad bonds featured trading in the bond market today. Active buying sent many issues to new high prices for the year. Other grades of rail issues were also active and closing prices represented substantial gains over the preceding day.

Evidence of increasing railroad trafic and improving revenue has fostered the belief among traders that the railroad industry has finally started the recovery that began in other lines months ago.

Show Noteworthy Gains.

Among the carrier issues that made the best gains were Chesapeake corporation collateral 5s, which moved up 1½ to 119; Alleghany 5s which advanced 2 to 39¼ and Gulf Mobile and Northern 5½s which jumped 2½ to close at 85. New York Central 6s were bid up 1¾ to 113 and Nickel Plate 4½s closed 1⅜ higher at 68⅝. Smaller gains were chalked up for a long list of other rail issues.

The trend of prices among industrial and utility bonds was irregular. Warner Brothers 6s, United Power and Light 5s and Republic Steel 4½s made small gains.

U. S. Issues Ease.

Final prices on United States government issues were slightly below yesterday's quotations. During the early trading government issues staged a modest rally, but they sank back again when profit taking sales came into the market.

Foreign bonds were strong, being featured by advances in Italian issues. Prospect of a peaceful settlement of the Ethiopian conflict brought some buying into the latter group. Gains of 2½ points were registered by the Italian issues. German [Dawes] 7s advanced 2 points.

RAW SILK.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP)—SILK—Raw futures closed steady, unchanged; sales were 1,430 bales. December, $1.92½ per lb bid; January, $1.89; March, $1.87½@1.88. Jewel Tea.

Investors' Guide: Please give me some information on Jewel Tea.—K. L. F.

Answer: Jewel Tea Company, Inc., was established 36 years ago. It operates 1,462 wagon routes over which it distributes staple food products. These products number about 60, the bulk of which are manufactured in the company's Barrington, Ill., plant. About half of dollar sales represent coffee. Sales are stimulated through use of premiums to customers.

In 1932 the company entered the chain store field and acquired about 80 outlets in the Chicago area.

Sales in 1934 scored a good increase over 1933, and profit likewise increased. In 1935, although sales have increased, due in large part to higher unit prices, profits dropped under the 1934 level as a result of higher operating costs and the fact that retail prices failed to advance as fast as raw material prices.

Sales for the 40 weeks to Oct. 5, 1935, were $14,177,000, up 10.1 per cent from sales of $12,878,000 for the corresponding 1934 period. In the first 28 weeks of 1935 sales were up about 11½ per cent from the corresponding 1934 period, but net income fell off to $605,000, or $2.24 per share, against net income of $703,000, or $2.62 a share, for the corresponding 1934 period.

	Net sales.	Net income.	Inc. per share.
1934	$17,217,000	$1,243,000	$4.44
1933	14,378,000	909,000	3.25
1932	11,091,000	1,054,000	3.76
1931	13,743,000	1,364,000	4.87

Current assets on July 13, 1935, were $5,882,000 and current liabilities were $1,432,000. Capitalization consists solely of 280,000 shares of no par stock. The stock pays 75 cents a quarter. An extra of $1 a share is payable on Dec. 23, 1935.

Central Indiana Power.

Investors' Guide: Tell me! What has happened to Central Indiana Power preferred formerly quoted on the Chicago Stock exchange? No transactions have been registered since July.—R. W. B.

CHICAGOANS VOTE TO QUIT STATE REALTY BOARD

Resent 'Taxation Without Representation.'

BY AL CHASE.

Members of the Chicago Real Estate board at their monthly meeting yesterday afternoon voted to withdraw from the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards. This act was the culmination of a dispute about "taxation without representation" which has been waged between the state group and the local realtors for nearly two years.

The vote of the members, which was 51 to 24 in favor of quitting the Illinois association, followed a meeting of the board of directors of the Chicago Real Estate board, who unanimously decided to urge withdrawal pending approval by the general membership.

Bowers Supports Action.

The withdrawal was one of the last acts of the retiring administration and was taken just prior to the installation of Leo G. Varty as new president for 1936. John Bowers, retiring president, spoke in favor of the action.

One of the liveliest verbal battles in many months was waged over the question of breaking with the state group. It was charged by several speakers that the Chicago board had paid toward maintenance of the Illinois association approximately $37,000 during the last few years and had not received its proportionate representation in votes at state board meetings or backing in campaigns for constructive realty legislation at Springfield.

Others State Complaint.

"It's time we woke up," said Louis T. Orr, who introduced the resolution of withdrawal. "The Chicago Real Estate board pays three-quarters of the expenses of the state board and yet five members of a downstate board have the same vote representation as 50 members from Chicago."

Lester Porter, former president of the local board, asserted that the Illinois group had never aided in any fight for needed legislation.

INDUSTRY CALLS FOR ACTIVE WAR ON NEW DEAL

Flings Gauntlet Into Political Arena.

New York, Dec. 4.—[Special.]—The National Association of Manufacturers, through three principal officers, challenged the economic policies of President Roosevelt's New Deal today and claimed some victories already won as the Congress of American Industry opened in conjunction with the fortieth annual convention of the association here. The speakers were Clinton L. Bardo, president of the association; James A. Emery, its general counsel, and Robert L. Lund, chairman of the board.

C. L. BARDO.

"Whether we like it or not," Bardo said, "industry has been forced in sheer self-defense to enter the political arena or be destroyed as a private enterprise."

Gathering Is Call to Arms.

"This gathering is a call to arms," said Emery. "The sentry call should rouse the armies of industry to the forces of the alien theory that challenge our political institutions and economic system within our own household."

"The New Dealers have been forced to desert some of their boldest experiments," said Lund. "This has come to pass because the American people have demanded a return to common sense and sound business. American industry has taken the leadership in this combat."

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors corporation, warned the congress tonight it must become active and assume broader responsibilities or face the alternative of increasing governmental interference.

"Inaction will ultimately mean the challenging of industry's position," he said. "Failure will bring the urge for more and more interference from without—government in business."

Sloan's warning was coupled with a critical analysis of current governmental trends. He termed "unfortunate" the Dec. 9 Washington conference called by Maj. George L. Berry, coördinator of industrial recovery, for consideration of new federal legislation.

Bardo Gives Views.

Bardo asserted America is at a point where it is more than ever necessary she should understand her own ideals and put them into action.

"We have found out what the power of government means; we have experienced the tyranny of public agencies, of their minute control and arrogant interference and their arbitrary regulation of our business and of our daily life," he continued.

"For the last two years industry has been driven into the cyclone cellar. The normal problems of depression were magnified many times by a deliberate and well timed, rapid fire, devastating attack by economic crackpots, social reformers, labor demagogues and political racketeers. This attack had the support of politicians and the power of politics in our national and many subordinate political subdivisions. This attack, without question, was the most savage and concerted political attempt ever made toward the destruction of our industrial system.

"Straight thinking Americans if given the facts will have no difficulty in separating the chaff of the New Deal from the wheat of the square deal."

Public Final Judge.

Lund expressed the belief that industry already has brought about a public awakening.

"For three years those who dared to be critical of New Deal experiments, who dared to believe that our experience had taught us something of the laws of business, have found ourselves attacked and pilloried in public," he asserted. "Not to agree with the administration in Washington became a high crime punishable by ridicule and epithets flung from behind the multiplying mahogany desks in the capital.

"Flouting of the constitution is no longer popular. High officials have been compelled in the face of an aroused public consciousness to announce they will preserve the profit and loss system. There seems little interest in the projected congressional hearings to consider new regimentations to supplant the NIRA. The breathing spell was announced with the conceded recognition that experiments had retarded recovery and reëmployment."

New and higher taxes are coming, Arthur A. Ballantine, former undersecretary of the treasury, told the group.

Steel Output Highest Since June, 1934

Steel mills have again boosted their production rate, despite the lessening of pressure for finished steel deliveries, and the national operating rate is now the highest since June, 1934, at 57 per cent of capacity, Iron Age announced yesterday.

A leading steel producer in Chicago has postponed necessary mill alterations for a second time, the journal said, in placing the operating rate for this vicinity at 65½ per cent of capacity, or 1½ points above last week.

Aided by Price Boost.

In the third week of June, 1934, production was sharply stimulated, the magazine said, by forward covering prior to an increase in code prices, but price factors are no longer influencing the current demand since it was decided to maintain the present finished steel price schedule for the first quarter of 1936.

Specifications of the leading mills turning out sheet steel have increased rather than declined, raising operations to 80 per cent of capacity and sustaining the average for the sheet industry at 75 per cent, the journal said.

Auto Demand Eases.

The automobile industry is still placing orders for steel in large volume, although it is now content to accept deliveries of certain orders in January or February instead of this month, according to the review. Motor car output for December is now estimated at 350,000 cars and the total for the year at more than 4,000,000.

Orders from the railroads continue to grow, with the Union Pacific closing orders for 100,000 tons of rails and accessories, the Great Western buying 14,000 tons, and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western ordering 13,000 tons.

The magazine's scrap composite is holding at $13.25 a gross ton and the finished steel and pig iron composite remain at $2.130 cents a pound, and $18.84 a ton, respectively.

STEEL BARS ADVANCED.

OAK PARK TRUST TO PAY $1,001,185 IN WAIVED DEPOSITS

The Oak Park Trust and Savings bank, one of the largest banks in the Chicago suburban territory, yesterday announced the release of $1,001,185 which was waived by depositors in April, 1933, to enable the institution to resume business after the national moratorium. Distribution of the money will begin this morning, Ellis H. Denny, president of the bank, said.

State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, who authorized the distribution, said that the payment of the waived claims was made possible through the liquidation of certain assets that had been reserved for that purpose, and in part through a loan obtained from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The bank was licensed to reopen in April, 1933, after the depositors had signed waivers on approximately 50 per cent of their claims and stockholders had put $500,000 of new money into the institution. Approximately 7,700 depositors who signed waivers will participate.

BUSINESS PASSES TAXES TO PUBLIC, CABELL ASSERTS

The huge taxes which industry is paying today do not come from profits, but are a direct charge against the public which business is compelled to collect in the form of higher prices, R. H. Cabell, president of Armour & Co., declared yesterday before a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

"This talk about taxing the profits of industry to bring about social equality, is mostly bunk," he said. "Profits have always been taxed plenty."

Referring to the hog slaughtering campaign of the federal government, he said it was the only instance in which live stock and meat had been destroyed for the purpose of affecting prices.

It is the consumer and not the producer or packer who makes the price of meat, he asserted. He put forth three reasons why the packer has nothing to do with prices. One, the supply of meat which comes to market is not controlled by them. Two, because of its perishable nature all meat must be sold when ready for market, regardless of price. Three, the business could not be conducted successfully by basing the selling price on the cost of the live animal.

C. E. HUFF DENIES SHORT SALE WITH COUNTER CHARGE

C. E. Huff, president of the Farmers' National Grain corporation, in a statement issued yesterday denied the corporation had made a profit of $362,625 on a short sale in the wheat market.

Huff's statement was made in reply to a resolution adopted Tuesday by the Farmers' National Grain Dealers' association demanding that the cooperative make a full disclosure of the circumstances surrounding the alleged short operation.

The grain dealer's action, Huff asserted, was apparently inspired by the grain exchanges. The grain dealers' association, he added, "is generally believed to be financed by the grain exchanges."

Roosevelt Tip Fails to Guide Wall Street

New York, Dec. 4—(AP)—President Roosevelt's tip as to the identity of bankers who advised him that the national debt might be boosted as high as $55,000,000,000 to $70,000,000,000, failed to enlighten Wall street today.

The President at Warm Springs yesterday suggested a look at financial journals of the period of the banking crisis of 1933. Wall street files were duly combed, but searchers were luckless.

Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National bank, was found to have been in Washington at that time, but he today denied making such a suggestion.

Denies Urging Increase.

"Neither I nor any one connected with the Chase National bank ever advised Mr. Roosevelt that the public debt might safely be enlarged. Rather, we have always maintained that the national budget must be balanced."

Dr. Jules I. Bogen, editor of the Journal of Commerce, found a front page article of Feb. 25, 1933, recounting an exchange between Charles E. Mitchell, then head of the National City bank, and Senator Couzens of Michigan, which he thought might be significant, but Mitchell said today, "as far as I can remember, I never gave any such advice as that Mr. Roosevelt cited."

Mitchell Is Indefinite.

The article recounted that Senator Couzens asked Mitchell if the national debt might be increased by as much as $35,000,000,000 or $40,000,000,000. Mitchell was quoted as replying he could not fix a figure, but the size of the debt would be dependent upon balancing income and outgo.

PLAN OFFERED FOR REFUNDING ARGENTINE BONDS

A plan for refunding $70,000,000 of Province of Buenos Aires, Argentina, dollar bonds held in this country, was announced yesterday by the government's American publicity representatives.

The plan calls for the issuance of new readjustment bonds bearing lower interest coupons and secured by the assignment of certain taxes collected by the Argentine national government. Rates on the present bonds range from 6 to 7½ per cent. The new bonds would bear interest at the rate of 4⅛ to 4½ per cent for the years 1936-'38 and after that at slightly increased rates, according to the terms announced here.

The new plan was announced after negotiations between representatives of the Province and the Foreign Bondholders Protective Council, Inc., of New York.

Abbott Laboratories' Profit Is Placed at $1,200,000

Abbott Laboratories will earn about $1,200,000, or $6 a share, on the 200,000 shares of capital stock outstanding during 1935, company officials estimated yesterday. This would be the largest profit in the company's history and would compare with $896,959, or $6.18 a share, on the 145,000 shares outstanding at the end of last year.

STOCK PRICES BOUND ON GOOD BUSINESS NEWS

Carrier Group Leads General Upturn.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 4.—Traders turned to the constructive side of the share market with fresh enthusiasm today. The volume of buying orders, particularly in early dealings and the final hour, caused the ticker to fall several minutes behind operations on the floor. The late afternoon rally boosted the general list to new highs for the movement and carried numerous favorites to fresh peaks for the year or longer.

Many rail shares rose to new highs for the year on gains of 1 to 6 points. Upturns in this group were the widest and turnover the heaviest of the entire market. Oils pushed higher and metals again drew a big play. Volume amounted to 3,002,741 shares.

Business Reviews Cheerful.

Cheerful reviews from business contributed to the market's improved showing. Opinions indicated a growing conviction that the accelerated pace of business would be maintained well into 1936 in spite of any fresh obstacles the New Deal "magicians" or the new congress may be able to throw in its way. Less apprehension was shown over the foreign situation and this, too, aided the bull cause.

New York Central and Pennsylvania featured of the carrier division. Union Pacific rose more than 4 points and the Nickel Plates were especially strong. The Cotton Belt default was ignored throughout.

In the oil department, Standard of New Jersey, Pure Oil, Barnsdall, Texas, Shell, and Consolidated kept to the front of the stage. Consolidated was aided by rumors of strong operations.

Copper Shares Rise.

Anaconda and Kennecott were again the cynosure of attention in the metals, both rising to new highs. U. S. Smelting rose nearly three points. International Nickel, buoyant in yesterday's dealings reversed its trend and wound up behind a minus sign.

Scattered preferred stocks to go up 3 to 6 points included Budd, Certain-Teed, General Cable, Gimbel, Loose-Wiles, Mengel, National Supply, Shell, and U. S. Steel.

A jump of 285 points in the price of Texas Land Trust shares contributed an item to the conversation of ticker watching groups. It was the first time in four years that the name of this corporation had appeared on the tape. One share appeared at 1,050 and then ten at 1,075, a new high that held through subsequent sales to the close.

U. S. Bankers Present Clear Warning Against Inflation

BY HOWARD WOOD.

America's leading bankers have written into the record an inflation warning that all may see. That is the significance of the carefully worded recommendation on national monetary policy made by the federal advisory council to the federal reserve board.

"The council believes," this recommendation states, "there has now been some considerable evidence of recovery in business, of an increase in prices generally, and particularly in the security markets of the country, with the possibility that a too rapid advance of security prices could easily develop into a new wave of speculation such as preceded the market collapse of 1929."

* *

The federal reserve board is the politically appointed group in Washington which holds vast powers over the nation's banking and credit structure. The federal advisory council is a statutory committee, composed of one leading banker from each of the twelve federal reserve districts, whose duty is to advise the reserve board on general monetary and credit policies.

* *

The recommendation of the council echoed the fears of bankers all over the country that the vast and growing excess reserves of commercial banks lying idle in the federal reserve banks are a menace because this money, seeking employment, might slop over into the stock market.

The council explained that a large part of the excess funds might be walled off in one of two ways: [1] By requiring the commercial banks to keep a larger percentage of their deposits with the reserve system as "legal" reserves, or [2] by causing the commercial banks to spend a large part of their excess reserves for the purchase of additional government bonds, the bonds to be supplied out of the nearly 2½ billions held now by the 12 federal reserve banks. The council recommended the latter.

* *

Being smart bankers with much experience in such matters, the members of the council doubtless realized the futility of their own recommendation. Marriner S. Eccles, New Deal head of the federal reserve board, only a few days ago told the world he didn't foresee the same dangers that the bankers fear. To their warning that the idle three billions of excess bank funds—sufficient to form the base for a credit expansion of 30 billions—might suddenly pour into the stock market he replied that it hadn't yet begun to do so.

The bankers also know very well that the sale of government bonds by the federal reserve banks might unsettle the market for such bonds and that the administration dares not make any move which might cause a sharp break in bond quotations because of its periodic need for borrowing additional billions to finance political expenditures.

* *

The bankers have, however, accomplished what seemingly was their chief purpose—to call public attention to the dangers they foresee. They had a little difficulty in doing so, because their recommendation, which was made in confidence to the members of the reserve board, was promptly suppressed by the latter. Just how the recommendation came to the light of day is somewhat mysterious. It is generally assumed that there was an official "leak" by some member of the council in order to get the report before the public.

Like President Charles R. Gay of the New York stock exchange, the bankers on the federal advisory council apparently want to keep the record clear, so that in case there is a stock market "inflation boom" followed by a bump they cannot be accused, as they were in 1929, of not warning the public.

The stock market's answer to the bankers' inflation warning yesterday was another substantial upsurge.

MORATORIUM ON ILLINOIS LIFE POLICIES LIFTED

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday signed an order enabling reinsured policy holders of Illinois Life Insurance company to borrow or cash in up to 35 per cent of the reserves applicable to their policies.

A full moratorium against cash surrender and borrowing had been in effect, but success of the contract reinsuring the business with Central Life Assurance society of Des Moines, Ia., coupled with an accumulation of funds, made this action possible before the scheduled expiration of the moratorium in 1938.

Outlook Sour for Kraut Eaters, Flanigan Warns

Sauerkraut eaters were warned yesterday by Lon P. Flanigan, president of the National Kraut Packers association, that the country must go on half rations if available supplies are to last until the next cabbage crop is cut. Packers have reduced their cut of cabbage for kraut 48 per cent from last season, he said.

NATION'S GOLD STOCKS PASS 10 BILLION MARK

Total Now Largest on Record.

New York, Dec. 4.—[Special.]—Nearly $90,000,000 of gold, the largest single day's imports on record, arrived here today, lifting gold stocks of the United States above $10,000,000,000 for the first time in history. The shipments are part of a great flow of gold to this country, totaling nearly $800,000,000 in the last three months and amounting to more than $2,000,000,000 since the devaluation of the dollar Jan. 1, 1934.

The $10,000,000,000 total is more than twice the total monetary gold stocks of the world just prior to the world war and almost equal to the world's total monetary gold stocks at the end of 1929, measured in the dollars then current. It equals more than 45 per cent of the present gold stocks of the world.

Three Quarter Billion Engaged.

Since Sept. 9, when the latest wave of large gold imports began, a total of $797,700,000 gold has been engaged abroad for shipment here. Of this amount $518,600,000 has been taken in France, $151,100,000 in England, $63,100,000 in Holland, and the remainder chiefly in India, Canada, and various Latin American countries. To date $733,900,000 of the gold has been received, leaving $63,800,000 on the way. New engagements of gold abroad reported today totaled $3,732,000.

The rise of monetary gold stocks of the United States to above $10,000,000,000 makes the net gain in these stocks since the devaluation of the dollar on Jan. 31, 1934, about $3,280,000,000 from all sources. The total gold stocks immediately after President Roosevelt's action marking up the price of gold from $20.67 an ounce to $35 an ounce were $6,829,000,000.

Flight Slackens.

Signs of a temporary slackening in the flow of funds from France to the United States continued to reveal themselves in the relatively small engagement of gold in Paris today and in the quieter action of the franc in the foreign exchange market.

The French currency was unchanged from the previous day at 6.58¾ cents, a price which is slightly above the gold shipping point. The pound sterling gained ¼ cent to 93½, but the Netherlands guilder fell 3 points to 67.80 cents.

This quietness in the foreign exchange market may prove merely a lull in the storm, according to bankers here. Tomorrow Premier Laval of France must face his most serious test in the current French political crisis.

RESERVE BOARD PREPARES WAY FOR NEW RULE

Limits All Bank Chairmen to Two Month Terms.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Clearing the way for the increased control which the new federal reserve board will assume Feb. 1, the present board of governors today limited the reappointment of chairmen and deputy chairmen of the 12 federal reserve banks to two-month terms.

An official said this was done so that the new board to be appointed by President Roosevelt under provisions of the 1935 banking act "may be free to make its own designations." Ordinarily, the appointments, effective Jan. 1, are made for a year.

May Veto "Presidents."

In addition to naming the chairmen and deputy chairmen, the new board of seven which will replace the present nine-member federal reserve board will have the power of veto over the selection of "presidents" of the various banks.

Under the old law, these "presidents" were known as "governors" of the banks and were not subject to the approval of the board of governors. They must be chosen by the banks by March 1.

Roosevelt already has said that Chairman Marriner S. Eccles will continue as head of the new federal reserve board. Others mentioned as possible appointees have included John Henry Williams, economic advisor to the New York Federal Reserve bank; Joseph E. Broderick, former superintendent of New York State banks; Lewis Williams, a former official of the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, and Herman Oliphant, general counsel for the treasury.

Young and Simpson Out.

The old board also announced today the reappointment of all class "C" directors whose terms expire Dec. 31, but who have not served six or more consecutive years, the maximum under the new law. Class "C" directors unable to qualify under the service prohibition who consequently were not reappointed included Owen D. Young, chairman of the General Electric company, who served 9 years, and James Simpson of Chicago, who served 18 years.

RISING PRICES OF BUTTER FAIL TO CURTAIL USE

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A sustained advance in the price of butter during the last three months, amounting to nearly 9 cents a pound, has failed to check consumption of this food staple and heavy withdrawals from storage stocks are being made to meet the current demand. The wholesale price of creamery butter in Chicago today is approximately 33½ cents a pound and the retail price is only slightly above that figure. Three months ago the wholesale price was near 24½ cents.

If the current rise in prices continues butter men forsee a resumption of imports. In the year ended June 30 the country consumed 20 million pounds of foreign butter. An advance of four cents a pound from the present price level in New York will make imports profitable again.

Demand Exceeds Output.

The current rate of domestic butter production is estimated at 20 per cent below last year. Demand is exceeding the production and storage stocks are being depleted at the rate of approximately five million pounds weekly. Stocks in storage on Dec. 1 were estimated to be five million pounds below the corresponding day last year, while earlier this season supplies exceeded 1934 by 40 million pounds.

The late summer drouth that was visited upon many of the important dairy producing regions is chiefly responsible for the curtailed production. Early summer rains brought a lush growth of grass that provided good pastures for dairy cows. Except in favored localities, however, the good pastures were not maintained.

As the summer progressed pastures became worse and feed crops that were to tide the herds of winter season were of poor grade, lacking the nourishing qualities that are needed to assure a satisfactory production of butter. Not all sections were subjected to the same conditions. In Minnesota and northern Wisconsin, an important producing area, conditions were more favorable and production in that region is running equal to last year's.

Advance Not Yet Felt.

The impact of curtailed consumption which ordinarily follows an advance in prices has not been felt in the market yet. Such curtailment, however, may appear in time to prevent an advance sufficient to encourage the importation of foreign butter. Explanation of the present heavy consumption rests in part with the tardiness of retailers to boost prices.

Using butter as a "leader" the big chains have been selling to consumers at virtually the wholesale level. Consequently the housewife has not yet felt the necessity to economize. When and if the price reaches 40 cents a pound she is likely to tell the children to spread it thin and then the market will be subjected to an automatic brake.

BUTTER DIPS AFTER HITTING HIGH SINCE '30; EGGS WEAK

Butter futures advanced early yesterday to new high levels since Nov. 9, 1930, but the bulge brought in heavy profit taking and a reaction followed. The close was at net losses of ⅛ to ¼ cent.

Although the price of storage eggs is far below that prevailing for the fresh article, the demand for the former has been materially below trade expectations. Withdrawals from storage at the four leading cities Tuesday fell 9,000 cases short of the corresponding period last year.

Sales of butter were 253 cars; eggs, 173 cars, and potatoes, 3 cars. Deliveries on December contracts aggregated 15 cars of butter. Prices:

POWER OUTPUT DECLINES 3.9% IN LAST WEEK

Trend Is Contraseasonal; Loss Shown Here.

Electric power production in the United States declined last week after reaching new all time levels for five consecutive weeks, the Edison Electric institute announced yesterday. Even allowing for the Thanksgiving holiday, the drop of 3.9 per cent was more than seasonal.

Output totaled 1,876,684,000 kilowatt hours, compared with the record high of 1,953,119,000 kilowatt hours for the preceding week and 1,683,590,000 in the corresponding week of last year.

Rate of Increase Falls.

An improvement of 11.5 per cent over a year ago compared with an upturn of 14.5 per cent in the preceding week over 1934. The year-to-year gain shown last week was the smallest since late last summer.

Power production in the Chicago area also dropped sharply from the previous week, but the total compared favorably with that of other Thanksgiving weeks, according to the Commonwealth Edison company.

Continued improvement in demand of steel and metal customers in this area accounted for an increase of 8.6 per cent over a year ago to a total of 109,688,000 kilowatt hours.

Comparative Figures.

Week ended—	Kilowatt hour output. 1935.	1934.	Per cent increase.
Nov. 30	109,688	101,028	8.6
Nov. 23	115,155	105,843	8.8
Nov. 16	114,954	102,997	11.6
Nov. 9	112,009	101,699	10.1

All major geographic sections of the country reported gains last week over a year ago. Central industrial states led all others with an increase of 18.6 per cent. Rocky mountain power consumption rose 17.1 per cent, that for the Pacific coast gained 12.8 per cent, southern states 12.2 per cent, New England 11.5 per cent, middle Atlantic 9.6 per cent, and west central 0.2 per cent.

SHARP DECLINE IN COTTON ON WEAKNESS IN CABLES

Cotton futures suffered a sharp recession yesterday, wiping out a good part of the gain scored on Tuesday following the official announcement on the AAA four year program. Weakness in cables and reports that the pool was a persistent seller of the January delivery had a depressing effect and the close was at net losses of 10 to 16 points in Chicago and 9 to 19 points in other markets.

Spot cotton closed 10 points lower with New Orleans at 12.15 cents, Galveston and Houston 12.05 cents, and New York 12.25 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound:

GEN. AMERICAN GETS PROCTER'S TANK CAR FLEET

Signs Long Contract for Carrier Service.

Max Epstein, chairman of the General American Transportation corporation, Chicago, announced yesterday that the company has taken over the entire fleet of tank cars of the Procter & Gamble company, the country's largest producer of soap and edible food products made from vegetable oils.

The number of cars involved in the deal was not disclosed, but is understood to be approximately 1,000.

Long Term Contract.

The companies have entered into a long term contract under which General American Transportation will fill all the tank car requirements of Procter & Gamble. The latter concern uses large quantities of cottonseed oil, vegetable oil, coconut oil, and other ingredients which are shipped in tank cars. The company's plants are situated in various parts of the country, including Chicago.

The deal marks an important step in the expansion program of General American Transportation. The company's rolling stock at the close of last year consisted of 44,000 units, of which 25,000 were tank cars. The company operates and leases tank and other types of freight cars. Through its subsidiaries it also manufactures and repairs freight cars.

Handles Swift Fleet.

In 1930 the company took over the entire fleet of Swift & Co., consisting of some 6,000 tank and other freight cars.

In 1932 the company entered into a similiar deal with Armour & Co., involving the acquisittion of 500 cars and a contract to handle the packing company tank car business for a period of 15 years. In 1933 General American took over the refrigerator car service of the Rock Island lines and acquired the system's 1,288 refrigerator cars.

After early steadiness futures reacted under liquidation and hedge selling. Final prices were 1 to 2 points net lower. Sales were 3,350 tons.

ALL LIVE LINE SELLS HIGHER; NEW PEAKS SET

Fancy Lamb Rseach Best Price Since 1930.

Strong to higher prices were paid for all live stock here yesterday with some classes rising to new six year peaks for this season. Fancy native lambs from the Tribune Experimental farm sold at the highest price of the session, reaching $11.65 or 15 cents above anything else on the market. This equalled the highest sale made here since June, 1930.

Only occasional lots in the general run reached $11.50 while the bulk of good to choice native and fed westerns were steady at $11 to $11.40. The lively demand for fat lambs served as a stimulus for replacement stock. Farmers competed for the limited number of feeders at the highest price in about six years. Yesterday's top replacement stock sold at $10.50, averaging 63 pounds.

Hog Prices Turn Higher.

Tuesday's weakness in hogs was not in evidence yesterday. A slight letup in the movement to market resulted in strong to 5 cents higher prices. Many of the late sales were 10 cents above the low of Tuesday. The average price for the session was $12.05, processing tax included, an advance of 5 cents. Bulk of the day's offerings sold within the narrow range of $12 to $12.10. Top sales were made at $12.15, unchanged from Tuesday.

Chicago in the last three days has handled 69,300 hogs, compared with 52,519 in the first three days of last week. Runs still are far below normal for December, however.

Cattle Market Strong.

A new seasonal high of $15 was paid in the cattle market yesterday for 21 prime, 1,367 pound steers from Iowa. It was the highest mark since last May. Best grades were in good demand at strong to 25 cent higher prices, with tops showing a 35 cent advance over the previous high mark of the season.

Fancy priced slaughter steers also were in brisk demand at strong rates, but the general market for inbetween classes was rather slow and about steady with Tuesday.

Most action occurred in stock under $7.50 and in highly finished steers over $13.50, both classes being scarce.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The following figures on hog prices include $2.25 per cwt. collected for the federal government as processing tax. There is no processing tax on cattle or sheep. The price quotations given below are per 100 lbs. of live animal.

WHEAT DECLINES AFTER CANADA ANNOUNCES PLAN

May Future Sells at 95½c, Decline of 1¼c.

Wheat fell 1¼ cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday as a result of the announcement by the new Canadian wheat board of a policy of gradual liquidation of the dominion wheat surplus in the world market. The policy announced by the board did not come as a surprise, but the official admission that the surplus will be liquidated brought out selling in the market here. The domestic price level is definitly tied to the world market because of this country's position as an importer of wheat this season.

The closing price on May wheat, the principal future contract, was 95½ cents a bushel, off 1¼ cents from Tuesday's last quotation. Other wheat futures closed with net losses up to 1½ cents a bushel.

Price Drops in Winnipeg.

The announcement of the wheat board brought about a decline of about a cent a bushel on wheat in Winnipeg but had no perceptible effect on the trading in Liverpool, where the market price closed steady.

The significance of the policy set forth by the Canadian board rests in the present relationship of dominion prices to those in other exporting countries such as Argentina and Australia. The February wheat future in the Buenos Aires market is quoted 16½ cents a bushel under the May contract in Winnipeg. While Canadian wheat enjoys a 6 cents a bushel preferential in the United Kingdom a closer adjustment of dominion prices to those of other exporters is believed necessary to effect a reduction in the Canadian surplus.

Chicago speculators were credited with selling in the Winnipeg market yesterday. Such sales are based on the belief that a recession in prices is necessary to bring about the desired export demand.

May Closing Prices.

	Yesterday.	Tuesday.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$ .95½	$ .96¾	$ .97¼
Corn	.58½	.58¼	.59¼
Oats	.26⅝	.27	.28⅛
Rye	.51	.50⅝	.51⅛

Persistent selling of December corn, which was regarded as representing holdings of long grain by a commission house, and deliveries of 331,000 bushels of the cash grain on December contracts put the latter at a discount of 1¾ cents as compared with May. Closing trades were a fraction lower on December and slightly higher on the distant futures.

July oats sold at a new low for the season and the nearby deliveries equaled the low figures established Monday. Notice of intention to deliver 1,106,000 bushel oats on December contracts started a liquidating movement which continued until the close. Final sales were at the bottom and ½ cent under Tuesday.
